Coal Strike Virtually Settled
Beach Admits Warring Tip-off

Phone Call To Gambler Denied by Maj. Barrett

Talked With Richitt, Wallrodt, Witness Testifies at House Committee Hearing

By Edward F. Ryan and Benjamin C. Bradlee
Post Reporters

Emmitt Warring, a little man with iceberg blue eyes who is a reputed kingpin of Washington gambling, yesterday told the House District Crime subcommittee how he talked over its affairs with three ranking police officers, but not Maj. Robert J. Barrett, superintendent.

The brunt of his testimony fell on Capt. Beverly C. Beach, of the Seventh (Georgetown) Precinct. Warring said it was Beach who told him Major Barrett wanted a report for the committee about the lack of gambling arrests in the Seventh and Third Precincts during the 1949 fiscal year.

Beach, on leave at Miami Beach, Fla., admitted by telephone last night to The Washington Post that he made the disclosure to Warring.

The other two officers mentioned by Warring were Inspector George Wallrodt, and Capt. Anthony Ritchitt, whose disclosures produced the hearing.

Flanked by Lawyers

Warring, calm, respectful and flanked by lawyers, kept the spotlight through most of the dramatic five-hour Capitol hearing, his first. His lawyers were H. Clifford Allder and John Lewis Smith, jr. Allder is the law associate of Charles E. Ford.

He sat midway between the two men whose sudden public and bitter break had brought him there—Major Barrett and Captain Richitt. Richitt brought the break into the open with the blast that Barrett ordered his transfer from the Third to the Eighth Precinct in reprisal for what the captain had told the committee's investigators and Chairman James C. Davis (D., Ga.).

The Third Precinct includes Foggy Bottom and the White House. The Eighth is west of Rock Creek and north of Mass. ave.

Captain Richitt caught the final curtain—and the authority to ring it up again. He was handed for the first time a copy of the charges—several typewritten pages—of which the only previous clew was Commissioner John Russell Young's announcement that the transfer was being made because Richitt was disrespectful to supervisors and failed to carry out their orders.

Told to Get Lawyer

As Richitt looked over the paper, riffling through it, Chairman Davis asked him if he could be ready to testify on it by this afternoon. "Gee, I don't know, Judge," said Captain Richitt with a wry smile.

Richitt left no doubt he wanted the hearing as soon as possible. Fischbach assured him the copies of the charges will be kept a secret until they can be presented and answered simultaneously. After the hearing Richitt rejoined his wife and daughter, Pat, in their front row seats.

Richitt, who appeared for the hearing without a lawyer, told under oath the story he had disclosed the night before at a press conference. Heart of his charge—presented a month ago in secret to Davis and Fischbach—was that Warring came to him and told him this: Warring got from Barrett the word the committee wanted to know why there had been no arrests for serious gambling viola-

Blick Ignored His Raid Tip, Richitt Says

By Howard L. Dutkin
Post Reporter

Capt. Anthony Richitt yesterday charged Lieut. Roy Blick, vice squad chief, had brushed off Richitt's suggestions a raid be made on a suspected Third Precinct gambling center with the assurance that the place was "clean as a whistle."

Richitt himself later made the raid at 1624 L st. nw.—a newsstand—aided by a corporal, arrested Louis A. Zampini and seized a quantity of numbers slips and scratch sheets. This was last February 16.

Blick vehemently denied to reporters yesterday the accuracy of Richitt's statement. At first the vice squad chief contended, "I don't remember talking to Captain Ritchitt about that . . ."

He then continued, "I didn't tell Captain Richitt that. He is absolutely mistaken on that quote about the place being clean."

Asked what he did tell Ritchitt when the latter complained about the alleged numbers spot, Blick replied, "I wouldn't care to say anything about it until I am approached by the captain or some other official person."

Blick was asked if he had ever received specific information against the place. He replied he would have to examine his records and that anyway it was against police department rules to reveal information "of that type" without sanction of his superior officer.

Richitt's comments came as he was interviewed by reporters in Municipal Court where he was to appear as a witness against Zampini before Judge Walter J. Casey. Zampini, charged with operating a lottery, failed to show up for the hearing and Casey continued the case until March 10. Meantime, Meyer Weinstein, whose bonding firm had put up a $500 bond for Zampini, scurried about trying to locate him. Zampini's lawyer, James K. Hughes, said he planned to waive hearing and contest the legality of the arrest.

Richitt said that after at least two attempts to interest Blick in the 1624 L st. nw., address, he and Corpl. J. C. Conway raided the place.

"Did any repercussions follow your raid?" Richitt was asked by reporters.

The police official smiled grimly and, turning to Conway, remarked "that's a hot one" and refused further comment.

Richitt declared Zampini had told him orally that the L st. news stand was "Emmitt Warring's place."

Statehood For Alaska Wins in House

The House yesterday passed a bill to grant Alaska statehood. The roll call vote sending the bill to the Senate was 186 to 146.

Action on statehood for Hawaii was postponed until next week.

Vigorous opposition to Alaskan statehood developed from representatives of the large States. The opposition's strength surprised supporters of the bill.

Representative Delaney (D., N. Y.) pointed out that Alaska, with 100,000 population, would have equal representation in the Senate with the State of New York, with 16 million population.

Representative Leroy Johnson (R., Calif.) said Alaskan statehood would be the "greatest distortion of representative government that ever occurred in America."

"Alaska's Senators, elected with possibly 20,000 votes," Johnson told the House, "could nullify the votes of the Senators from California, where there are four million voters, or the votes of the Senators from New York, where there are 12 million voters."

Representatives Jonas (R., Ill.) and Engle (R., Mich.) also spoke against statehood for the territory.

Kennedy Makes Plea For D. C. Self-Rule Action

Before debate began on Alaskan statehood, Representative John E. Kennedy (D., Mass.) made a special appeal for more House signatures to the Washington home-rule discharge petition.

He told his colleagues 166 members had signed thus far, with an additional 52 needed before the measure can be taken from the House District Committee for immediate floor consideration. He introduced in the Congressional Record "The Case for Home Rule in Washington," giving 25 arguments in support of local suffrage.

"I can't reconcile myself," said Engle, "to giving two Senators, one Representative and three electoral votes to a territory with fewer votes than my congressional district."

Chairman Peterson (D., Fla.) of the House Public Lands Committee, which approved the statehood bill last year, led off the debate for the measure. He said Alaska's population of 100,000 is more than many other territories had when they were admitted to the Union as States.

Johnson, in his argument; disputed Peterson's population premise.

"When other States were admitted, Johnson said, "the ratio of the territorial population to that of the United States was 1 to 264 while Alaska's ratio is 1 to 1528."

Representative Crawford (R., Mich.) challenged the opposition as not merited. He said Alaska as a State would be more useful to defense than as a territory.

Once labeled as "Seward's Folly," the Territory of Alaska was bought from Russia in 1867 for $7,200,000. Since that time it has far more than paid for itself through the development of its gold, furs, fish and other natural resources.

Warmer Today To End Coldest Snap Since 1948

The frigid weather will ease its attack on District coal piles today—slightly—the Weather Bureau forecast last night, and the outlook is for a slow but steady warm-up in the next couple of days.

The predicted relief will follow yesterday's drop to 15 degrees above zero here at 6.23 a. m., lowest mark the temperature has reached in Washington since December 27, 1948. It was even more wintry in surrounding territory. Annandale, Va., recorded 7 degrees above; Greenbelt and Rock Creek Forest, Md., 9 degrees; Hyattsville, 12; Riverdale and Waverly, Md., 13.

The Weather Man said that, early today, the low will probably be 25 in the District and 20 in the suburbs, with a later high in the upper 30s. It will be mostly cloudy during the day, and "somewhat warmer" tonight.

Early predictions of snow late today were cancelled last night. Forecasters said that a warm, moist low-pressure system, expected to move northward from the Gulf of Mexico, seems to fancy its present tropical surroundings and appears loath to get moving to colder climes.

Police Battle French Reds In Assembly

Paris (Saturday), March 4 (U.P.).—French Mobile Guards were called to the National Assembly early today for the second time in four hours to eject filibustering Communists occupying the speaker's rostrum.

Guards rushed to the scene after Communist deputies, who had been forcibly thrown out late last night, again took over the rostrum and defied orders suspending the Assembly session.

Communist Deputy Arthur Musmeaux had obtained permission to speak when the session resumed. He held the tribune in an attempt to talk to death a bill cracking down on labor agitators and saboteurs.

Assembly President Edouard Herriot finally ordered Musmeaux expelled for refusing to leave the rostrum and called a suspension of the session.

Two Taken to Infirmary

Earlier, 150 Communist deputies were ejected, many of them kicking and punching, by the same Mobile Guards after they had staged a "sit-down" in the chamber.

The ouster came after a wild free-for-all, during which Communist deputies beat up Catholics and Rightists, broke benches and stormed the speaker's tribune.

At least six rightist deputies were roughed up. Two were treated in the assembly infirmary for bad bruises.

Mobile guard officers said they met with "a certain amount of resistance in throwing out the Communists."

Women deputies sprawled in the aisles and refused to budge, it was reported. Several resisting male deputies, police said, received kicks and punches and others "were given as much as they received."

45-Minute Job

The entire operation took about 45 minutes. Shortly after the Communists were ejected, the Assembly session resumed.

The ringleader of the melee, Communist Deputy Gerard Duprat, and a bodyguard of fellow Communists, held the Assembly tribune for more than seven hours.

The Mobile Guards were sent after Duprat repeatedly defied orders by Assembly guards and Herriot to leave the House.

The Assembly had publicly censured Duprat and expelled him for a month following a slugging match which broke out as Communists filibustered to block the government bill.

When a rightist deputy who was presiding tried to end the filibuster by calling for a vote, the Communist legislators went into action.

They leaped up and slammed their desk lids. Duprat, flanked by half a dozen party stalwarts, rushed down the aisle, stormed up the steps of the rostrum and installed himself and refused to budge.

Rent Control Hope Revived in Nearby Virginia

By Richard Morris
Post Reporter

Richmond, March 3.—The House General Laws Committee today revived hope for local rent controls in Virginia.

It reported, by a 9-7 vote, the Magruder "local initiative" bill in the nick of time for consideration by the General Assembly.

Deadline for consideration of House bills by the lower chamber is Saturday.

Meanwhile, the Boatwright bill wiping out controls everywhere in the State as of June 25 was awaiting minor title amendments by the House and Senate before being returned to Governor Battle for his signature.

The bill reported to the floor today, introduced by Delegate J. Maynard Magruder, of Arlington, and three Washington area colleagues, provides that:

1. Local governing bodies may request that rent controls be restored in any area where Federal controls were in effect.

2. The governor has authority to grant their request, provided he finds an emergency exists.

3. Landlords must be guaranteed a "fair return" in rents.

4. Local controls will be lifted whenever all Federal controls are abolished or on June 30, 1951, whichever is earlier.

Magruder appeared before the General Laws Committee, of which Delegate John B. Boatwright is chairman, and asked support of the local measure.

'Jubilation' Session Likely

Senate Speeds Seizure Bill Prior to Word of Agreement

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Congress yesterday went through all of the preliminary motions of speeding a mine-seizure bill to passage in three days only to find an approaching strike settlement may change all the signals.

Senate Labor Chairman Elbert D. Thomas (D., Utah) told newsmen a morning meeting of his Senate Labor unit to start voting on a seizure bill could turn into a "jubilation" rally instead.

Senator Wayne Morse (R., Oreg.) even offered to buy members of the Labor Committee a steak dinner if the strike isn't settled before 6 o'clock tonight.

Before the "near agreement" reports spread, Senate Democratic Leader Scott W. Lucas (Ill.) had already scheduled an unusual Saturday session of the Senate and the Labor Committee had struggled for two hours with a revised seizure bill.

But the House, which jumped the gun on the ill-fated railroad labor draft bill in 1946, had gone out on no limbs. Speaker Sam Rayburn said that this time he wanted the Senate to act first. He had indicated he might recognize House Labor Chairman John Lesinski (D., Mich.) on Monday to call up the bill providing the Senate had put it through.

Lesinski, meanwhile, called a meeting of his House Labor Committee for 10 a. m. today to work out the House version of the seizure legislation.

A preponderance of members hailed the President's seizure move, with Republicans chiefly criticizing the procedures used in the Truman bill, or complaining seizure should not have become necessary.

Morse, who only yesterday morning had pressed for a vote on his own seizure bill, promptly announced for the President's measure, saying what we need is coal.

But Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) called mine wage-fixing pro-

Navy to Study Reorganizing Of Department

Century-Old Bureaus Will Be Surveyed by Management Board

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

A top-level "Management Survey Board" has been named to consider reorganization of the Navy Department.

The Navy said it had appointed an eight-man group, supported by two sub-boards, to make a top-to-bottom detailed study of the department's numerous bureaus and offices. Many are more than a century old.

Objective of the survey is to eliminate duplication of effort and waste and to turn any savings into larger and more efficient combat forces. Some reduction of the Navy Department officer and clerical force is hoped for.

Similar surveys have been carried on previously at Navy shore establishments outside the department, through by lower-ranking boards.

Undersecretary of the Navy Dan A. Kimball heads the new group. Assisting him are: deputy chief, Vice Admiral Harry W. Hill, whose permanent job is chairman of the Navy General Board; Assistant Secretary for Air John F. Floberg; Vice Admiral Francis S. Lowe, deputy chief of naval operations for logistics; Rear Admiral Charles Wellborn, jr., deputy CNO for administration; Vice Admiral John D. Foster, chief of naval material; John H. Dillon, administrative assistant to Navy Secretary Francis Matthews, and Gen. Clifton B. Cates, Marine Corps commandant.

Rear Admiral Clarence E. Olsen heads a sub-board of 14 officers and one civilian management engineer which will review the relations between bureaus and offices. Rear Admiral Richard F. Whitehead is in charge of a sub-board of like size to study the internal structure of the bureaus.

Happy Miners Cheer Peace; Glad to Work

Hail Lewis as 'Winner And Still Champion'; Celebrations Begun

Pittsburgh, March 3. (U.P.).—Jubilant soft-coal miners touched off roaring celebrations in the Nation's soft-coal fields tonight and hailed John L. Lewis as the "winner and still the world's champion."

In taverns, homes and clubs, news that an understanding had been reached brought shouts of joy and sighs of relief. The nine-month-old battle for a new contract was about over.

"We went on strike for a new contract, we went hungry for a new contract, we did without clothes for a new contract—and we won," a Coverdale, Pa., miner said. "And John L. did it for us. He beat the operators and he beat the Government."

At the Delmont Inn at Uniontown, Pa., heart of the soft-coal fields, head bartender Jimmy Cornelius said the miners were turning the place into a madhouse.

"They're turning over the furniture, they're slapping each other on the back and some of them are even crying," Cornelius said. "I think I'm in for a rough night."

At Springfield, Ill., John Trello, president of Lewis' home local, said the new agreement "was good."

"We'll go back to work for sure. That's all we've been waiting for," Trello said. "The men are tickled to death."

'Second Dr. Fuchs' Sought by British, Daily Mail Says

London (Saturday), March 4 (U.P.).—War Office intelligence agents and American FBI men are hunting a "second Dr. Fuchs"—a scientist spy who is giving secret information to Russia—the Daily Mail reported today.

The newspaper said the hunt for the new spy started after Sir Percy Sillitoe, chief of the War Office's counter-intelligence bureau, conferred yesterday with Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee, Sir Stafford Cripps and other government leaders.

Called Red Front

State Dept. Refuses to Admit Artist Picasso's 'Peace' Group

The United States refused yesterday to permit a 12-member European "peace delegation" headed by Pablo Picasso, Spanish artist, to visit this country.

The State Department said that the 12 "are either known Communists or fellow travelers and are therefore subject to exclusion."

American consuls were instructed Thursday night to refuse passport visas for the group, whose announced purpose was to present a petition to Congress calling for immediate reduction of war budgets and military forces, and prohibition of atomic weapons.

The turndown came after strong pressure had been exerted on the State Department by congressional leaders.

The Picasso group is known formally as the World Congress of Partisans of Peace.

The 16 delegates, now in Paris awaiting permission to enter the United States, include Pablo Picasso; the so-called "Red dean" of Canterbury, the Rev. Hewlett Johnson; British Film Producer Ivor Montagu, Belgian Atomic Scientist Max Cosyns and Eugene Aubel, University of Paris professor.

Two Russians, Biologist Alexander L. Oparin and Film Director Sergei A. Gerasimov; two Italian Senators, an Italian mayor, a Cuban labor leader, and several lawyers and professors from other countries are members of the group.

The American Civil Liberties Union voted to protest the State Department's delay in granting the visas.

Miners Win Pay Raise, May Be on Job Monday

Daily Hike of 70c, 10c Welfare Gain Granted as Truman Asks Seizure Power

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

Virtual settlement of the soft coal strike was reached last night by John L. Lewis and three major groups of coal operators.

Agreement on "fundamental principles" of a peace formula, announced shortly after 9:30 p. m., heralded the probable return of more than two-thirds of the 370,000 striking soft-coal miners by Monday.

Fact-finder David L. Cole announced the agreement and "probable" settlement of the nine-months' dispute "within a short time," only a few hours after the President had asked Congress for immediate powers to seize and operate the idle coal mines.

There was no official disclosure of the specific details agreed to, but it was authoritatively learned that the Northern, Western and "captive" mines—the latter produce coal for the steel mills—had capitulated to Lewis' demands for an improved contract to the extent of 70 cents a day increase in miners' wages, and 10 cents a ton increase in welfare fund royalties.

$1.30 a Day a Miner

Thus, the miners will be getting under the new contract $14.75 a day, and 30 cents a ton welfare fund royalties. Since miners average around 6 tons' production a day, the daily additional cost to the operators will be $1.30 a day per miner.

The Southern Coal Producers Association, representing around one-third of the Nation's annual output of 500,000,000 tons, did not participate in yesterday's negotiations and agreement. Joseph Moody, president of the association, appearing somewhat dazed and shaken, said he had not been invited to attend the final sessions.

Announcement of the virtual agreement was made by Fact-finder Cole and Conciliation Chief Cyrus S. Ching in the Pan-American Room of the Statler, immediately after a closed session with the negotiators.

"Substantial Concessions"

Cole reported that both sides had made "substantial concessions" in discussions carried out throughout the day—even as the President's seizure message was being read on Capitol Hill. He said that "understandings have been reached with respect to fundamental principles of a new agreement," although a number of details remain to be worked out.

In reply to questions, Fact-finder Cole said it is assumed the miners will go back to work "promptly" on completion of the agreement, and he assumed further that the miners would be back on the job by Monday.

Cole announced the virtual agree-

Hospitals Run Low, Get Coal From D.C.

Impact Grows

Rail Service Further Cut; More Idled

Pittsburgh, March 3. (AP).—The coal strike today forced new cuts in railroad traffic, closed more factories and hundreds of schools.

The Interstate Commerce Commission decreed another 15 percent reduction in rail passenger and freight services requiring use of coal.

This third cut since January from lack of fuel is effective Sunday midnight. The Government previously reduced passenger service 50 percent and coal burning freight service 25 percent.

Refusal of 372,000 United Mine Workers to enter the pits without a contract brought steelmaking in the South closer to a complete shutdown.

Unemployment swelled to an estimated 225,000 in allied industries as lack of coal caused new layoffs.

The National Coal Association said labor troubles have cost the Nation almost 48 million tons of soft coal production this year.

Approximately 100,000 children in Chicago and another 10,000 in Utica, N. Y., began unscheduled vacations.

Lessons Over Radio

Chicago pupils listened to lessons over radios at home. All but three of 418 public schools closed down for the day to conserve coal.

Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill., will close 14 buildings during weekends.

All Utica public schools will be closed for the duration of the coal emergency.

One hundred other schools are shut down in Michigan.

The Rochester, N. Y., fuel committee asked all public and parochial schools in the city and surrounding county to close next Tuesday unless the fuel situation improves.

Wisconsin's State Coal Emergency Board advised all schools and nonemergency industries to close if their coal piles are near exhaustion.

American industry also suffered new blows.

The Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Co. began banking a blast furnace and three open hearths at its Fairfield Steel Works in Birmingham, Ala. All the U. S. Steel Corp. subsidiary's quarries and iron ore mines in the area are being closed.

Closes Coke Ovens

Republic Steel Corp. closed two batteries of coke ovens (which bake volitle matter out of coal) at Gadsen, Ala. One Republic blast furnace is being banked in the area.

In the Pittsburgh district, the U. S. Steel Corp. laid off an additional 2000 workers, bringing the total idled to 12,000.

Operations at the Midland, Pa., plant of Crucible Steel Co. of America are nearly at a standstill from shortages of coal, gas and electricity. About 3500 employes have been furloughed.

Harrisburg, Pa.-State Secretary of Mines Richard Maize set up a clearance house for emergency coal needs in Pennsylvania.

Lockport, N. Y.—The Harrison radiator division plant of General Motors Corp. shut down indefinitely with 2800 workers laid off.

Pittsburgh—Coal of inferior quality—all that's available, forced Mercy Hospital to call off all but emergency operations.

Detroit—About 1200 Michigan workers are laid off in the coal strike. Many thousands more are working short work weeks. Forty communities have been certified under State's emergency rationing program.

A hundred tons were drawn from Washington's emergency coal stockpile yesterday as two hospitals approached the end of their supplies.

Fifty tons was authorized for Garfield Hospital and another 50 for Sibley Hospital by the District Fuel Coordinating Committee after the hospitals' usual suppliers said they couldn't fill the orders.

Garfield's administrator, Leo G. Schmelzer, said the 50 tons would keep the hospital heated until Wednesday; normal consumption is about 75 tons a week. No other stocks are on hand, he said.

The chief engineer at Sibley, Ronald G. Anderson, said 50 tons would usually last 10 days, but because of the present weather he doubted if it would go beyond Wednesday.

Hospitals and other institutions with top priority in the city plan for distribution of reserve stocks receive 100 percent of normal supplies. Users with lesser priorities get reduced amounts or none.

Cold Weather Eats It Up

Continuation of cold weather increased the committee's troubles yesterday. Kennedy said the dealers' supply here was "very tight" with two reporting "absolutely empty bins" and another hardly in business with five tons.

"The cold weather is really eating up the coal in the dealer bins. The 5000 tons the dealers had on hand at the beginning of the week is really dropping way down," Kennedy said.

Another 107 tons were withdrawn yesterday from the 5000-ton Potomac Electric Power Co. emergency pile on certificates issued by the committee. Most of the coal went to apartment houses.

But even with this, apartment residents complained of inadequate heat in many buildings. A few moved into hotels.

Library to Close Today

Two community agencies announced they will close Saturdays because of the fuel shortage: the Bethesda Public Library in the Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School and the District Veterans Service Center at 1400 Pennsylvania ave. nw.

The District fuel committee met yesterday on the requests of three Prince Georges County apartment developments for coal, but is still considering them, Kennedy said.

A 20-ton supply is available to consumers with shovels and strong backs. A woman telephoned Kennedy yesterday that she had 20 tons of hard coal in the basement of a house and was willing to sell it at current prices to someone who would remove it. Kennedy will be in his office from 8:30 a. m. to noon today and will make contact for interested parties, he said.

Schools Burn More

District schools are creating a serious problem for District Purchasing Agent Roland J. Brennan. This week they used 981 tons—181 more than usual—because of the cold weather. On Monday, Brennan will meet with other city officials to study consumption reports from various municipal agencies and plan further distribution of the available supply.

In Federal office buildings, some employes yesterday wore coats for a few hours until the boilers brought the temperatures up to 68 degrees.

The Civil Service Commission disclosed that the shortage of coal for four local school buildings had forced indefinite postponement of examinations for census clerks and tabulating machine operators. about 10,000 were scheduled to take tests today.

One dealer complained this year was "feast or famine. We had plenty of coal during the warm part and now we've got nothing during the cold part."

He recalled that Washington Area consumers were urged during the summer to stock up.

Cold factories joined cold homes this week in parts of Maryland and the results was layoffs and slowdowns. The North American Cement Corp. near Union Bridge, Md., said it would lay off 300 employes and shut down completely Sunday.

In Virginia, the State government seized a second strikebound coal tipple in Tazewell County. It has a normal volume of about 1000 tons a day.

Maloney Supports Heat Engineers On Strike Here

The strike of 26 heat engineers at six Washington theaters has won the support of the international president of their union, Local 99 of the AFL Operating Engineers announced yesterday.

According to Jesse West, business representative of the local, International President William E. Maloney has written the union that although he considered the strike "untimely and ill-advised," he wished the local "success" and would support the local "to the fullest extent."

The stationary engineers, who walked out February 21 in a strike for higher wages, have also received messages of support from the Central Labor Union and Local 174 of the Machinists. The strike is being conducted against the Warner, Metropolitan, Tivoli, Capitol, Palace and Trans-Lux theaters.

Senate Speeds Seizure Bill

visions of the Truman measure "practically capitulation to the miners" and called for substitution of seizure procedures provided in the so-called Taft labor disputes bill which passed the Senate last year.

During last night's two-hour Labor Committee session there were indications that the conflict on seizure methods may be resolved in a composite bill pooling the ideas of the members.

Compromise On Pay Plans

Morse, it was learned, proposed a compromise between Taft's insistence that the Government pay the miners what the operators do until the strike is settled, and the President's provision for Government determination of "fair and just compensation" covering the period of Government ownership.

Under the compromises, after seizure an emergency board would give the parties to the dispute a limited time to agree on a wage level. If they failed to agree, the President would set up a wage board to fix wages retroactive to the time of Government seizure, and continuing only through the period of Government operation.

Another Morse proposal provides for covering into the Treasury any funds left over after payment of fair compensation to the owners, with the operators assured the right of judicial review.

One center of controversy was Taft's contention that Government injunction powers should be specifically granted with seizure, as in the Taft bill. Senate Democratic Leader Scott W. Lucas (D., Ill.) told newsmen he felt there was no need to specify injunction powers "since injunction authority is implicit in seizure."

Emergency, Says Lucas

During a brief debate on the Senate floor, Taft argued the Truman bill did not assure resumption of coal production. He said the miners had refused to work for the Government in 1946, and might do so again.

The Ohioan also argued that the Administration proposal to determine through a special board what the miners would be paid would "in effect force a wage scale on the operators without their consent."

Voicing hope that the Labor Committee will report out a bill this morning and that the Senate will approve it today, Lucas appealed to Taft not to press his own seizure substitute for the President's bill.

"This is a real emergency," said Lucas. "There is no point in the Senate and House getting into a long controversy over another Taft-Hartley bill."

Across the Capitol, House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack (D., Mass.) informed the House "there is a strong possibility that the mine seizure bill will come before the House on Monday." Represenative Francis Case (R., S. Dak.), blocked a leadership move to recess the House over Saturday, but no House "business" was docketed for today.

UAW Demands On G-M to Equal 31 Cents an Hour

Detroit, March 3. (AP)—The CIO United Auto Workers disclosed today they will ask General Motors soon for benefits equal to 31 cents an hour.

A short time earlier the union's bid for an immediate settlement of the 38-day-old Chrysler strike was rejected by the company.

The General Motors demands, far higher than those made previously on Ford or Chrysler, include $125-a-month pensions and a nine-cent an hour wage boost for GM's 245,000 production workers.

Also among them were a "comprehensive" medical-hospital plan, a union shop, higher vacation and severance pay, triple time for holidays, double time for Sunday and time and a half for Saturday work regardless of whether it is beyond 40 hours a week.

The UAW settled with Ford last September for $1[illegible]-a-month pensions.

Courts Visited By 2 Japanese Prosecutors

Two Japanese procurators (prosecutors) yesterday were greeted by Chief Judge Bolitha J. Laws of District Court prior to an inspection tour of the District and Municipal Courts here.

The visitors were Kingo Osabe and Yashio Idei, both of Tokyo. They arrived in this country February 14 and will remain for 60 days visiting various United States cities.

The men were accompanied on their visit yesterday by F. Kirk Maddrix, chief of defense counsel in the war crimes trials in Yokohama, and A. B. Caldwell, an attorney with the Justice Department.

Soft Coal Strike Virtually Settled With Three Big Groups

ment prior to delivering a formal, detailed report to the White House at the express authorization of John R. Steelman, the President's assistant.

Among other "fundamental principles" agreed upon, it is understood, is the elimination of the "willing and able" work clause, which already had been declared, by court injunction, to be an illegal union demand; limitation of the "memorial periods" to five days a year, a clause also banned by the court in its unlimited form; and changes in the administration of the union welfare fund.

Lewis, Love Present

John L. Lewis himself was on hand for last night's pre-announcement session. George H. Love of Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Co. represented the bulk of the Northern and Western mine producers and most of the "captive" mines. Harry M. Moses represented the mines of U. S. Steel.

For months the operators have declared the industry—described by President Truman yesterday as a "sick industry"—was in no position to grant concessions to the miners which would increase the price of coal. Industry sources attributed yesterday's concessions by the operators to two factors: Ineffectiveness of the Taft-Hartley Act's anti-strike injunction and the producers' strong opposition to seizure by the Government.

For immediate purposes the anti-strike injunction lost its enforcement teeth when the District Court on Thursday ruled that though 300,000 miners refused to obey the order and return to work, the Government had failed to show the union to be responsible for the walkout.

Official tip-off to the approach to coal peace came at 4:30 p. m., when Fact Finder Cole announced that he was postponing until 8:30 p. m. an extraordinary fact-finding session with the negotiators, called at the request of the President. "We are more hopeful than we have been ever before," Cole said.

President Truman, after canceling most of his other business plans for the day, concentrated on the coal problem yesterday, and asked the fact-finders to hold a special meeting and inform him as to the likelihood of agreement on a new coal contract.

Then he sent a message and draft of legislation to both Houses of Congress, urging the speedy grant of power for the Government to seize and operate the mines, if necessary until June 30, 1951.

The President asked for authorization to establish two impartial boards to determine, during the period of seizure, the pay of the miners and the fair return for the operators. Mr. Truman emphasized that, unlike past seizures, the Government in this case would not attempt to settle the strike, but would leave it strictly up to the union and the operators.

". . . Stocks of coal are almost exhausted and many parts of our country face crisis conditions," the President told Congress.

"The anthracite coal, which is being produced, and the trickle of soft coal output, together have been enough to stave off human suffering. But the lack of normal production of soft coal is bringing many basic industries to a halt."

Mr. Truman pointed out that "a variety of emergency measures" had been taken in recent days to conserve and spread available coal supplies, but that "within a very few days" the country would be virtually out of soft coal.

"The danger to the national health and safety is real and immediate," the President stated.

Hope for Agreement

The President in his message expressed the earnest hope operators and miners would reach an agreement before it "becomes necessary" for the Government to seize the mines, but he added the Government could no longer stand by without preparing itself with the necessary legislative weapon to deal with the crisis.

"I am not requesting this legislation as a means of settling the issues in dispute between the operators and the union," the President stressed. "They will have to settle their difference through their own collective bargaining, just as though Government operation were not in effect.

"I do not propose to substitute the Government's representatives for the private operators at the bargaining table. It will not be our purpose to establish wages, hours, or working conditions which would bind either the operators or the miners upon resumption of private operations . . ."

The mines have been seized by the Government five times in the past seven years, and in several instances a new contract was negotiated with the union. One such agreement first provided for the welfare fund royalties.

The President said the mines would be returned to private hands as soon as the country is assured of sufficient supplies of coal. He blamed both operators and union for the "present impasse," charging that both sides failed "to make the efforts in genuine bargaining which could result in a mutually satisfactory settlement."

Despite the country's "desperate need," the miners' "growing distress," the "economic losses," and the harm being done to coal as a competitive fuel—the President said—both operators and union have been "unwilling or unable to lay aside their charges and countercharges, moderate their fixed positions, and undertake serious negotiation in a spirit of accommodation and mutual understanding.

The Chief Executive observed that the current coal dispute was but one of a long series over the years. He recommended that Congress establish a commission to include representatives of Congress, the Executive branch of Government and the public, to make a thorough study of the "sick industry" in terms of economic, social and national security objectives. He said he would offer legislation for the commission at a later date.

Under terms of the legislation drafted by the President, the anthracite mines could be seized along with the soft coal pits. However, the Government does not plan such a move, inasmuch as the hard coal miners are working on a three-day week.

The legislation authorizes the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to advance as much money as needed for working capital. Revenues from Government operation would be used to repay RFC.

Earlier in the day, Federal Judge Richmond B. Keech issued an 80-day injunction ordering the striking soft coal miners back to work. The order, issued under the "national emergency" provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act, is not expected to be any more effective than the preliminary injunction issued by the judge 20 days ago. On Thursday, Judge Keech acquitted the union of contempt charges stemming from failure of the miners to return to the pits despite union orders to do so.

Kelleher Suit Judge Gets Death Threat

Before Injection

Mercy Case Woman Dead, Doctor Says

Associated Press WIREPHOTO
DR. ALBERT F. SNAY
Star defense witness

Manchester, N. H., March 3 (U.P.) Dr. Albert F. Snay, star defense witness at the mercy murder trial of Dr. Hermann N. Sander, testified today that Mrs. Abbie C. Borroto was dead of cancer before Sander injected air into her veins.

The young staff physician at the Hillsborough County Hospital said he examined Mrs. Borroto before Dr. Sander arrived and found "she was gone."

Dr. Snay testified Nurse Elizabeth Rose beckoned him into Mrs. Borroto's room and told him she was unable to get a pulse.

"I saw a very emaciated, very thin, pallid woman. Her lips were extremely cyanotic (bluish), her eyes were staring, open. There was no indication of respiration."

Dr. Snay said he could detect no pulse or heartbeat and was unable to obtain a corneal reflex when he touched her left eyeball.

"Her skin was cold and clammy," he said. "When I first noticed her, there was a very fine muscular twitching about her face and arms. I turned to Miss Rose and mentioned she had gone."

He said he mentioned the same things to Dr. Sander.

Snay said the twitching could have been the result of a breakdown of tissues due to relaxation.

Attorney General William L. Phinney failed in an attempt to get Snay to admit Snay told him on January 1 that Mrs. Borroto was "practically dead."

Dr. Robert Rix, a Manchester surgeon said that during the last few months Sander showed "signs of mental and physical fatigue and of being overwrought." Dr. Sander was a pallbearer at the funeral of Dr. Rix's wife on December 3. She had died of cancer. Mrs. Borroto died December 4.

A total of 23 witnesses praised Sander's character, medical skills and devotion to duty.

Two nurses contradicted testimony by Nurse Rose that Mrs. Boroto was alive when Dr. Sander injected air into her veins. Miss Marion Seavey, 25, and Mrs. Verna L. Ginnetty, 41, said Miss Rose told them Mrs. Borroto was dead before she called in Dr. Snay.

Federal Judge Charles F. McLaughlin disclosed yesterday that his life had been threatened over the telephone, in anticipation of a "certain" decision in the Keleher divorce suits.

The District Court jurist said that he was personally inclined to laugh off the threat but in his official capacity was reporting the incident to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Judge McLaughlin then proceeded to give Gambler John B. (Dapper Jack) Keleher, 68, an absolute divorce for desertion. And to the wife, Mrs. Anna T. (Dolly) Keleher, the judge awarded $60,000 cash in lieu of alimony.

Willing to Pay

Keleher said he was willing to pay the sum without further contest. Mrs. Keleher was undecided whether she would appeal, but told reporters that she was "washing that man right out of my hair."

Attorneys for both parties were quick to deny that they or their clients were in any way responsible for the threat.

Judge McLaughlin said that he was informed of the threat Thursday evening when it was relayed to him by a telephone operator at his apartment house, 2310 Connecticut ave. nw.

The operator told him that a man with a foreign accent had called and asked that the judge be told that unless the case were decided a "certain way" it would be "bad for his health" and that "he wouldn't be a judge long."

The jurist declined to state what decision the threatmaker wished, but said all facts were given to the FBI after consulting with Chief Judge Bolitha J. Laws of District Court.

As McLaughlin gave his decision, four armed marshals kept close watch on the court audience.

This was the second time in recent weeks that a threat has been reported in the court. In the other instance, jury members were warned to acquit in the William (Snags) Lewis gambling trial, which resulted in a conviction subsequent to the threat.

McLaughlin, before announcing his findings in the Keleher case, said that he had written his opinion and dictated it for typing far in advance of the the threat and that it was therefore unaffected by the threat.

Not Proven

He then said that Mrs. Keleher had not proven her charges of cruelty but that Keleher on his cross complaint proved that she deserted him and then refused a reconciliation.

The Kelehers married in 1926 and split up in 1946. It was the second time that they had tried to divorce each other. In both instances, the trials were filled with tales of Keleher's gambling enterprises and of his "association" with Mrs. Dorothy S. Blake, 46-year-old divorcee.

Five Children In Family Die in Fire

Five young children suffocated early yesterday when fire destroyed their home at 416½ 11th st. sw.

The five were trapped in a rear second-floor bedroom when the oil stove caught on fire in the kitchen below. Their father was unable to reach them through the flames and had to jump to safety from a second-floor window.

Their mother and four other young children, asleep in the front second-floor bedroom, were able to make their way safely down the staircase.

The dead, all children of James and Lillian Jones, were identified as: Claudette, 11; Sylvia, 4; Albert, 3; Norman, 16 months and Marlene, 6.

Four of the children were pronounced dead at the scene. Marlene died less than an hour later at Emergency Hospital, Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald attributed the death of all five to asphyxia and issued certificates of accidental death.

Jones told police he lit the kerosene stove in the kitchen shortly after 6 a. m., then stepped out into the back yard for a few minutes. When he returned to the kitchen he found the stove blazing and flames licking the walls and ceiling.

Jones ran upstairs and attempted to enter the rear bedroom where the five victims slept at the same time shouting to his wife, who was in the front bedroom. The flames and smoke were so heavy at the bedroom door, however, that he could not get through them, and he finally had to jump from the window of the front room, he told police.

His wife said as she and the four children made their way to the staircase, she called to Claudette to get out of the room, according to police. Claudette, however, apparently remained in the room in an effort to help the others out, but was overcome, police said.

The fire completely gutted the two-story frame and stucco dwelling, destroying all of the family's property, police said.

Radio Station WWDC broadcast an appeal for help for the family on its All Sports Parade program yesterday from 1 to 5 p. m. Approximately $635 in cash was pledged and another $600 in clothing collected from contributors by drivers of the Cardinal Cab Co., a radio station spokesman said.

Late last evening the District Fire Department reported more than 100 fires had been reported in the District in less than 24 hours, marking the 3d consecutive day with a heavy number of blazes.

Members of the Junior Police and Citizens Corps, of which Claudette and Marlene were active members, also began a collection of clothes and food for the family yesterday under the leadership of Inspector Rudolph Allen, 19, of 913 Golden st. sw.

Doubts Doctor

Mother Who Fears Cancer Back Home

Rensselaer, N. Y., March 3. (U.P.) Mrs. Helen B. Overlander, 30, who kissed her three small children goodby "forever" a week ago, came home today, still fearing she is a cancer victim despite medical reassurance.

"I will never do it again," Mrs. Overlander said as she embraced her husband, Sherrell. Her explanation for leaving was: "I didn't want to be a burden to anyone."

Overlander, a truck driver, told her of a doctor's report her fears were without foundation.

Mrs. Overlander wasn't convinced. "It's hard to be convinced by one doctor," she said. But she added, "I'm glad to be back."

Mrs. Overlander, the object of a 14-State search, said she had visited a brother in Stillwater, Okla., while police sought her and her children prayed for her return.

Jail Escapee Seized in Texas

Elusive Ray Longerbeam, who escaped from Fairfax County Jail last October, is back in the toils of the law—this time in Texas.

Police Lieut. Grafton L. Wells, chief of county detectives, said yesterday that Longerbeam was picked up early this week by Tyler (Tex.) authorities.

Ironically, they nabbed him on an auto larceny charge, the same count he faced in Fairfax County when he made his departure.

Wells also disclosed for the first time that Longerbeam returned at night after his October escape and pushed three hacksaw blades through a window in the central cell block for other inmates. The blades were recovered by jailers.

Longerbeam, 26-year-old Clifton (Va.) carpenter, was arrested last July 22 in the county on a charge of auto theft. He was indicted by the grand jury and was awaiting trial when he escaped.

3 Policemen Face Trial Board For Failing to Cover Beats

Three police privates appeared before the Police Trial Board yesterday on charges of failing to patrol their beats, drinking while on duty and conduct prejudicial to the force.

They are Walter G. Kelly and Raymond R. Camden, both of the Thirteenth Precinct, and William I. Conway, of the Tenth Precinct. Kelly and Camden were also charged with neglecting to perform the duty to which they were assigned.

According to their superior officers, Kelly and Camden had been assigned to patrol a short beat around the 2000 block of Portner pl. nw. on January 31 to investigate liquor law violations.

While they were on duty, they were discovered by Sergt. Jack R. Milsted, of the Thirteenth Precinct, in "Billy Fletcher's Place," described as a bootlegging place at 2013 Portner pl. nw.

Milsted reported that Kelly was bending over a sink and had a glass in his hand which had a strong odor of alcohol. Camden also held a glass with the same odor and both men had an odor of alcohol on their breath, he reported.

Conway was charged with entering a restaurant at 3418 11th st. nw., after closing hour, on February 8 and having two drinks there.

Board members, Inspector Robert Pearce and Capts. Lorraine Johnson and Howard Covell, took the cases under advisement.

Bandit Trio Balked by Office Woman

Three men forced their way into the apartment of Mrs. Mabel T. Buck, manager of the Maryland Courts Apartments, 816 E st. nw., yesterday afternoon attempted to rob her, then fled empty-handed when she fought them off.

Mrs. Buck told police she answered a knock on her door about 3:15 p. m. One of the men said he wanted to talk to her about renting an apartment, so she admitted him, police said.

As soon as he got inside the door, he told her: "This is a stickup. I want the rent receipts," according to police. Then he admitted the other two men. None of them exhibited any weapons, police said.

Mrs. Buck snatched up the telephone receiver, which caused the switchboard downstairs to ring, police said. One of the men grabbed the receiver from her hand and struck her on the side of the head. She fought back and all three fled, according to police.

The bandits were described as young white men. One wore a brown tweed suit. The second had on a blue satin jacket with yellow stripes. The third wore a blue suit and purple shirt, police said.

Housewife Charged in Abortion Case

A 49-year-old housewife yesterday was charged by police with performing a criminal abortion on the 21-year-old mother of two small children.

She is Mrs. Helen Naomi Howard, of 462 M st. sw., who was arrested at her home in the early afternoon. She was taken before United States Commissioner Cyril S. Lawrence, who continued the case to March 15 and set bond at $3000.

Police said the mother, a resident of Silver Spring, Md., is in good condition at a local hospital where she was admitted two days ago.

The operation, they said, was performed at Mrs. Howard's home on January 31, for a fee of $50, after the young mother had gotten in touch with Mrs. Howard "through contacts." Police were called into the case, they said, after the mother began to hemorrhage, following the operation, and was finally taken to the hospital by a private physician from whom she sought treatment.

Mrs. Howard was taken to the hospital bedside of the young mother, who identified her as the woman who had performed the abortion, police said.

Sales Tax Receipts For January Drop Under Million

District sales tax collections from January sales slumped below the million-dollar mark for the first month since last August. January collections totaled $983,545, it was announced yesterday.

However, Sales Tax Administrator Allan F. Brooke said the drop from the $1,610,000 December collection was not as much as had been expected. Both January and February are normally low sales months, he said.

On the basis of the January figure, Brooke said there was no question in his mind that the tax will bring in the $10,400,000 expected by June 30—"and possibly more." In the first 6 of 10 months the tax will be effective this fiscal year it has yielded $6,751,457.

Probation Staff Studying Youth's False Alarm Case

The case of John M. Redmond, 19-year-old son of John O. Redmond, president of the International Firefighters Union, charged with turning in 10 false alarms and with a dozen traffic violations, yesterday was placed in the hands of probation authorities pending sentence.

Municipal Judge Frank H. Myers took the action after young Redmond pleaded nolo contendere. Bond was continued at $1500.

The youth and a 15-year-old companion were arrested February 25 in Chevy Chase, Md., after a 7-mile chase.

Fire Destroys Shed On Farm Near Ashton

An 80-foot chicken brooder house used to store furniture at the rear of Belmont Farm on Colesville rd., near Ashton, was destroyed by fire yesterday.

Mrs. Fred Helford, owner of the farm, estimated the loss at about $3000. Two nearby sheds were also destroyed by the fire. Mrs. Telford said the blaze was set by sparks from burning trash.

Postmen Going to Dogs

London, March 3 (U.P.).—A resolution of British postoffice workers today demanded its annual conference "consider the relations between dogs and postmen."

Man Gets 40 Months-10 Years For Shooting D. C. Policeman

A gunfighter who tried to shoot it out with police received a 40-month to 10-year prison term yesterday in District Court.

He is Milan Gordon, 39, of 4518 Banner st., Brentwood, Md. Sentencing was by Judge James W. Morris of District Court.

Last August, Gordon shot his brother-in-law, Savannah M. Gillis, 714 Euclid st. nw., in the abdomen, and Police Pvt. Leonard J. Faina in the thigh. Gordon was then shot in the leg by Pvt. Douglas M. Smith.

Also sentenced for assault on a policeman was William B. Marshall, 20, of 2331 Hartford pl. se. He was convicted of attempting to shoot Police Pvt. Harry A. Dunn, who escaped injury when the weapon would not discharge.

Marshall received 20 months to 5 years in prison.

Clifford A. Corbitt, 49, of Louisville, Ky., received 20 months to 5 years for forgery and uttering of checks worth $300.

Maude Jackson, 20, of 615 57th st. ne., received 20 months to 5 years for stabbing a friend, Ernest Jackson, jr., of 1324 Corcoran st. nw.

Police School Bill Fails in Virginia

Richmond, March 3 (AP).—The Virginia House of Delegates, meeting tonight, killed to all intents and purposes the bill providing for schools for law enforcement officers by recommitting it to the appropriations committee.

The sheriffs' lobby has been working vigorously against the measure, offered by Delegate John H. Daniel of Charlotte and eight co-patrons.

Daniel himself moved to recommit the bill amid laughter in the House.

The bill was reported from the committee on military and police by a vote of 6 to 5. The appropriations committee later approved it only to find later that it had not been officially referred to the committee.

The key to the situation tonight is that the committee is not scheduled to meet again until Monday. At that time, the House, under the rules, can consider only Senate bills. Only an emergency-called session of the committee can save the bill and members said none was contemplated.

The bill would provide for training of law enforcement officers of the liquor control board, commission of fisheries, commission of game and inland fisheries and sheriff's deputies, and the State police would make available facilities for the schools.

The bill was worked out on the theory that any officer carrying a gun ought to have some training.

The first hour of the House's first night session of 1950 was a dreary, routine procedure of advancing uncontested bills, mostly technical legal measures offered by lawyers or purely local bills of a minor nature.

A huge backlog of bills has piled up on the House calendar as a result of three-day debate on the general appropriation bill, finally passed today.

3 Brothers Fined $90,000, Jailed For Tax Evasion

Baltimore, March 3 (AP).—Three brothers who operate a uniform manufacturing firm today were fined a total of $90,000 and each sentenced to six months in jail for income-tax evasion.

A Federal court found Charles B., Irvin and Samuel B. Jacobs guilty of evading both corporate and individual income taxes. They are officers of Jacobs Brothers, Inc., here. Charles, 63, and Irvin, 56, live in New York City. Samuel, 69, lives in Baltimore.

Judge W. Calvin Chestnut fined the brothers $20,000 apiece and sentenced them to three months in jail for failure to pay corporate income tax on $83,170. Additional fines of $10,000 each and three-month sentences to be served concurrently were given for individual tax evasions on the following amounts: Charles, $26,542; Irvin, $25,432, and Samuel, $10,890.

Virginia House Passes Budget Of $599 Million

Richmond, Va., March 3 (AP).—The House of Delegates today passed the budget bill after administration forces beat off all remaining amendments.

The final vote was unanimous for the bill, now approximately 599 million dollars. It goes to the Senate, which meets Saturday.

The general appropriations bill showed only one major alteration. That was the additional one million for school teacher salaries that was put in largely at the insistence of a minority bloc headed by Delegate Robert Whitehead of Nelson.

In the final debate today on the last of some 25 amendments proffered by the Whitehead group, the administration forces had no trouble in beating down the proposed changes.

The only other change that the minority group won was to keep the adjutant general's salary at $7500 instead of the $8000 recommended by the House Appropriations Committee.

Defeated on the House floor were attempts to increase general fund appropriations for mental hospitals, care and treatment for alcoholics, the literary fund. Also failing was an effort to give top priority among conditional appropriations to hospital construction funds and another to cut back the salaries of the State director of conservation and development and the director of welfare and institutions from $9000 to $8500.

Boothe Loses Plea for Poll Tax Repeal

Post Reporter

Richmond, March 3.—Any prospect of poll tax repeal in Virginia for at least two years was knocked out today by the House of Delegates.

The resolution to make an interim "study" of the long-sought change in election laws was proposed after Delegate Armistead L. Boothe of Alexandria, had challenged his colleagues "to face the issue like men" and settle the problem today.

Called Most Important

Boothe termed the poll tax question "the most important piece of legislation before the 1950 General Assembly."

He made a vigorous, but futile plea on behalf of a motion by Delegate Walter Page, of Norfolk, to discharge the House Committee on Privileges and Elections from further consideration of a Page resolution.

The measure, one of several repeal proposals killed in the committee, posed this "simple concise question" to the voters, said Page:

"Shall the state abolish the poll tax as a prerequisite to voting?"

Other qualifications for registration and voting would remain as presently prescribed by law.

But the House rejected the motion to discharge—the last-resort maneuver to get bills to the floor—by a vote of 52 to 41.

Proponents of a privileges and elections committee report, relegating the problem to a study by the Virginia Advisory Legislative Council between now and the 1952 General Assembly, contended that there isn't enough time at this session to decide on the issue.

Boothe argued that several poll tax repeal resolutions "were introduced in the early days of this session" and that the committee was guilty of delay in acting on them.

East, West in Berlin Each Rejects Protests

Berlin, March 3 (U.P.).—A Western spokesman today rejected as "ridiculous" the charge of Berlin's Russian commander that the Western Powers are violating the agreement guaranteeing the West free access to Berlin.

Soviet Maj. Gen. Alexander Kotikov last night rejected Allied protests on Soviet traffic restrictions. He said goods are being "smuggled" from Berlin and accused the Allies of "illegally" transporting nonoccupation personnel on military trains.

At Helmstedt, on the East-West border, 25 Berlin-bound trucks were backlogged today by Russia's "baby blockade."

D. C. All-Time Fast-Time Bill Filed in Senate

A bill to insure daylight-saving time as a permanent fixture here every summer was dropped in the hopper yesterday by Senator Edward L. Leahy (D., R. I.).

The measure would authorize the District Commissioners to establish daylight time as the official time each year from the last of April to the end of September.

Each year recently Congress has devoted considerable debate to the question whether the city fathers should be given permanent authority over the fast-time issue or should be granted just one year's authority.

Representative Arthur G. Klein has a bill before the House District Committee for fast time this year only.

Another measure sent to the Senate District Committee would allow the Commissioners to appoint a retired member of the Metropolitan Police Department to the District Boxing Commission. There has been a vacancy on the commission since Thomas P. Morgan died last summer.

Costigan Made Commander of DAV Veterans

Frederick C. Costigan, a Government mechanic of 3709 N. Washington blvd., Arlington, was installed as commander of the National Capital Chapter No. 2 of the Disabled American Veterans at a banquet in Hotel Fairfax last night.

Other officers installed by Department Commander William T. Slattery were: Clifton C. Scroggs, senior vice commander; Daniel Blank, junior vice commander; the Rev. Penn H. Howard, chaplain; Louis Pallone, judge advocate; Herbert L. Dugan, treasurer; and Edward Baldwin, sergeant at arms.

$40,000 Fire Wrecks Inside Of Residence

A two-alarm fire wrecked the inside of Dr. Irving Eisner's English Tudor home at 1759 Portal dr. nw. yesterday, causing damage estimated at $40,000.

The family was gone and only the Eisners' Scottie dog, who was outside, was around when the fire started. The dog's name: "Smokey."

The blaze started in the kitchen apparently in a trash basket or from an electrical appliance which was left on and became overheated.

Dr. Eisner said the stone house was valued at $60,000, furnishings—including antiques—at $20,000. In places the fire ate through basement to second floor. The loss was partially covered by insurance, Dr. Eisner said.

The fire apparently had been burning some time before a neighbor spotted it at 10:24 a. m. The neighbor phoned the Fire Department and Dr. Eisner at his office at 3659 New Hampshire ave. nw. Dr. Eisner, a dentist, was treating a patient but excused himself and dashed to the house.

4 Get Warrants in Fairfax For Trash Fire Violations

Warrants were served yesterday on four Fairfax County residents charging them with setting trash fires illegally. The fires may have caused some of Wednesday's widespread field blazes over the county.

The warrants, sworn to by County Fire Warden Marcel Pfalzgraf, were served on:

Mrs. F. M. Banks, Route 1, Clifton; Waldron Adams, of 606 N. Alfred st., Alexandria, operator of a dump at Gum Springs; C. P. Talbert, of Springfield, and Mrs. F. H. Stalfort of Route 1, Fairfax Station.

All were ordered to appear at 10 a. m. Monday in Fairfax County Trial Justice Court, Fairfax. They are charged with burning trash before 4 p. m., a violation of State law.

Intimidation Charged in Letter Fight

An attack on the validity of signatures on a petition asking a governmental survey in Prince Georges County has been branded a move to "intimidate" advocates of good government.

Mrs. Reuben Bogdanoff, president of the county's League of Women Voters, charged before the Prince Georges Civic Federation Thursday that the signatures were questioned as part of a "political conspiracy." She said the attack was "in reality an effort to prevent the survey being made."

Controversy over the petition arose Tuesday when Mrs. Bernard L. Teelyea, a member of the Federation of Women's Clubs, appeared before the County Commissioners and charged that the name of the Women's Club Federation president, Mrs. Frank M. Stephen had been signed to the petition by someone else without her knowledge.

In a statement defending the petition, Mrs. Bogdanoff told the Civic Federation the name of Mrs. Stephen was added with Mrs. Stephen's verbal approval. She said she talked with Mrs. Stephen by telephone.

Mrs. Bogdanoff also asserted the petition, presented February 14, was "merely a reminder" of an earlier request for the governmental survey which first was submitted to the commissioners 13 months ago.

"It appears," Mrs. Bogdanoff's statement continued, "that the entire matter is now tinged wih a slight touch of political conspiracy meant to harass, intimidate and 'stop' me from continuing my personal efforts for good government. It also was meant to discredit my organization through the effect of discrediting me, as I have been the spokesman for its program and its policies."

"I therefore wish to state unequivocally that this attack is meant to keep any government survey from being made; to try to intimidate anyone who dares to criticize the government in Prince Georges County and to keep those who may desire to do anything for better government from becoming active." Mrs. Bogdanoff declared.

At its meeting in the County Service Building at Hyattsville, the Civic Federation voted to ask Governor Lane not to sign the Sothoron bill to reorganize the Prince Georges County government until he holds a public hearing on the issue. It tabled, for further study, a proposal to set up a nonpartisan citizens' committee "to consider a charter and county manager plan of government" for Prince Georges.

Brannan, Canada Nearing Solution On Wheat Sales

Ottawa, March 3 (AP).—Canada and the United States tonight appeared to be nearing a solution to a wrangle over wheat which has had both countries at odds for several months.

The controversy involves the possible sale of 100 million bushels of wheat to Germany and Japan under terms of the international wheat agreement. Canada wants to supply about 27 million bushels.

It formed the major issue discussed today between Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan of the United States and Agriculture Minister J. G. Gardiner and Trade Minister C. D. Howe of Canada.

"There is every reason to suppose that complete agreement will be reached," a member of Brannan's party said.

Horan Files Bill to Have U. S. Pay Cities for Tax Losses

Representative Walt Horan (R., Wash.) yesterday introducted a bill to set up machinery for reimbursing State and local governments, including the District, for taxes lost on account of Federally owned land.

A special study of tax-exempt property here, compiled for a Senate District Subcommittee, shows the city loses $17,726,057 anually on tax-free property owned by the Federal Government.

In terms of property value, Uncle Sam owns $933,702,431 in land and buildings here.

The Horan bill would establish a commission to handle claims from States for Federal payments in lieu of taxes on Federal property in their boundary.

Presently the Federal Government pays 12 million dollars annually as its share in running the District, leaving a net loss to the city of $5,726,057.

Similar bills have been introduced in the past without success.

Democrats Adopt Vote Plan in County

Montgomery County Democrats have adopted a procedure for electing precinct leaders at a series of precinct elections April 12.

The voting plan, approved by more than 400 Democrats at a rally Thursday night, is considered by party leaders to be a major step in "broadening the base" of party participation. Formerly precinct officials were appointed by the State Central Committee.

A steering committee, headed by Mayor G. LaMar Kelly of Rockville, which prepared the procedure was directed to draft a party platform for the 1950 elections. It was renamed the "Victory Committee."

Under the new procedure, nomination and election of precinct chairmen and vice chairmen will be made at town meetings in each of the county's 58 voting precincts. Voters will be checked for eligibility against voting registration lists.

Navy Ships Will Visit Viet Nam, 'Hot Spot'

The United States Navy will show the flag this month in the Indo-China state of Viet Nam, current southeast Asia hot spot in the cold war.

Ships and planes of the Seventh Fleet will visit Saigon, capital of the French-sponsored state, March 16 to 20, Goverment quarters disclosed. They will render full naval honors to the Viet Nam Chief of State, former Emperor Bao Dai of Annam.

Vice Admiral Russell S. Berkey, Seventh Fleet commander, will be aboard the destroyer Stickell, which will be accompanied to Saigon by the destroyer Anderson. The aircraft carrier Boxer will take part in the visit.

Sailor Killed, 2d Hurt In Auto-Truck Crash

A young naval airman was killed and a companion injured early yesterday in an auto-truck collision at Defense hwy. and Severn-Lanhan rd. in Prince Georges County.

William H. Dean, 25, attached to the training ship U. S. S. Block Island at Annapolis, apparently died instantly in the crash shortly before 1 a. m., Prince Georges County police said. His companion, Airman Elmer I. Grey, 18 attached to the same ship, suffered head injuries and was transferred to the Bethesda Naval Hospital after treatment at Prince Georges General Hospital.

Police said the auto occupied by two sailors collied with a truck driven by Russell H. Henderson, 29, 3415 39th ave., Colmar Manor, Md. Henderson said the auto pulled from the side road and tried to make a left turn in front of his truck and he was unable to stop in time to avoid the crash.

Dean, who police said was the driver of the auto was pronounced dead at the scene by a passing Navy physician.

Technical charges of manslaughter and reckless driving were placed against Henderson, who was released under $1300 bond pending a hearing at Hyattsville March 13.

In another accident yesterday, a 29-year-old area circulation manager for The Washington Post emerged unhurt when his car struck a slow-moving Washington and Old Dominion Railroad train at N. Quincy st. in Arlington.

He is Stewart A. Vrooman, of 1022 Cross dr., Alexandria. He told police he was traveling about 30 miles an hour when he saw the train and applied his brakes, but skidded into its left front side. His car suffered about $200 worth of damage.

The train's engineer was Foster R. Ormsbee, 45, of 2708 N. Pershing dr., Arlington.

2 Soldiers Killed, 1 Hurt As Car Crashes Into Pole

Edgewood, Md., March 3 (AP).—Two young officers stationed at the Army's chemical center here were killed early today and another was critically hurt when their car catapulted off a road and smashed into a pole.

State police listed the dead as: Second Lieut. Robert Kenneth Graham, 26, and Second Lieut. Robert Boone 26.

Second Lieut. Melvin T. Eckstein, 21, was taken to the station hospital at the Army's nearby Aberdeen Proving Ground with shock, head injuries and severe lacerations around the face.

The Army declined to give the home addresses of the three men until nearest of kin have been notified.

Corpl. John S. Landbeck and Trooper John Blades investigated the accident, which happened about 3 a. m. on State route 403, the main road connecting the chemical center with U. S. 40 northeast of Baltimore.

The troopers reported the car shot across to the left side of the road, broke off the utility pole and churned on 222 feet. The whole left side of Graham's 1950 sedan was sheared off and the three occupants were thrown clear. The troopers said the car was one of the worst pieces of mangled wreckage they had ever seen.

Old Addresses Stymie Transit Of Car Tags

Several hundred auto tag applications have been placed in the "dead application file" for lack of a correct address, Traffic Director George E. Keneipp said yesterday.

Persons who have neglected to notify the department in writing must now appear personally at the Traffic Department to give their new address, Keneipp said. They also face possible charges for violation of regulations, he said.

Keneipp pointed out that District regulations specify that in event of change of address the registrant shall give written notice to the traffic director within five business days.

Violation is a misdemeanor and is punishable by a fine of not more than $300, imprisonment for not more than 10 days or both.

Nearly all auto tag applications have been sent out, Keneipp said, and the remainder will be in the mails by Monday.

Prince Georges Chest Elects J. R. Sherwood

J. Robert Sherwood, treasurer of the Prince Georges Bank & Trust Co. of Hyattsville, was elected president of the Prince Georges Community Chest at its annual meeting yesterday at Chest headquarters in Mount Rainier.

Other new officers chosen were Frank M. Ewing, vice president; William Bowie, treasurer; Mrs. James A. Hash, secretary, and J. Francis Summers, member of the executive committee.

Girl, White House Worker 9 Years, Sees a 'Big' Man

By The Associated Press

Secretary Dean Acheson told this story yesterday to his associates in the State Department:

Thursday Acheson went over to see President Truman for their regular weekly conference on foreign affairs.

As he opened the White House door, a young lady came up and he stepped aside, holding the door for her. Inside the hallway she turned and gave Acheson a quizzical look.

"You're the Secretary of State, aren't you?" she asked.

He admitted it.

"Golly," she said, "I've been working in the White House nine years and you're the first important man I've met."

Panel Discussion Set On Genocide Outline

A panel discussion of the United Nations Convention on Genocide is scheduled for 8 p. m. Tuesday at the Friends Meeting, 2111 Florida ave. nw.

Dr. Frederick J. Libby, executive secretary of the National Council for Prevention of War, will be the moderator. Other speakers will be Robert Mandel, lawyer; Miss Ethel Summy of Wilson Teachers College and Dr. Vincent J. Browne of Howard University.

GW Students to Hold Religious Life Week

Jewish, Protestant, and Roman Catholic students of George Washington University have jointly arranged for the university's first "Religion in Life Week."

The three-day observance begins Monday and will feature discussions by small groups.

In connection with the week's events, the University Players will present Andre Obey's play "Noah" for four nights, beginning Wednesday.

Opening the week will be a reception in honor of guest speakers, participating members of the university faculty and leaders of student organizations at 5 p. m. Monday in the Lisner Lounge.

On Monday night fellowship discussion groups will meet at Columbian House, in the dormitories and at sorority and fraternity houses. These will be led by religious and lay leaders of the city.

Denominational groups on the campus will sponsor discussion programs on Tuesday.

Speaker at the main general assembly on Tuesday at 8 p. m. at Lisner Auditorium will be the Rev. Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, president of New Brunswick Theological Seminary, New Brunswick, N. J.

Dr. Sizoo, former pastor of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church here, will speak on "The Revolt Against God."

Two forum discussions, "A Pattern for Marriage" and a "Skeptics' Hour" are planned for Wednesday afternoon. Each will be led by a panel representative of the Catholic, Jewish and Protestant faiths.

The "Noah" production will be at 8:30 p. m. Wednesday in Lisner Auditorium. On Thursday through Saturday the production will be open to the public.

The drama, a modern interpretation of the Biblical story, will feature dancing and choral speech selections.

The three-day program is sponsored by the university's Department of Religion and the Religious Council, composed of the Baptist Student Union, the Canterbury Club (Episcopal), the Christian Science Organization, Hillel Foundation (Jewish), the Lutheran Student Association, the Newman Club (Catholic), the Wesley Foundation (Methodist), the Westminster Foundation (Presbyterian), and the Student Christian Fellowship.

Stone Laying Set Sunday By Lutherans

The cornerstone of the new $60,000 Bethlehem Lutheran Church will be laid at a service at 4 p. m. Sunday at 16th and T sts. at Minnesota ave. se.

The Rev. Edgar C. Rakow, pastor of the church, will officiate at the service and the speaker will be the Rev. William F. Bruening, pastor of Christ Lutheran Church, 16th and Gallatin sts. nw. Other Lutheran pastors will participate.

Designed in modified Gothic style, the church will be of brick and cinder block construction.

It will contain a sanctuary seating 200, church offices, a large room for Sunday school classes and social events, and a kitchen. The building was designed by Architect Philip Hubert Frohman.

Bethlehem church was organized in 1942 as a mission of Trinity Lutheran Church, 501 4th st. nw. At that time it had a membership of 34 persons. It now has 151 communicant members.

Services are now being held in a hall at 2407 Minnesota ave. se. Plans call for completion of the new building and dedication in the fall of this year.

Msgr. Russell To Be Made Bishop Soon

The Most Rev. John J. Russell, pastor of the Church of the Nativity, will be consecrated bishop of Charleston, S. C., at 10 a. m., March 14, at St. Matthews Cathedral, 1727 Rhode Island ave. nw.

The Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, archbishop of Washington, and the Most Rev. John M. McNamara, auxiliary bishop of Washington, will be co-consecrators. Consecrator will be the Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, apostolic delegate to the United States.

More than 1200 prelates, priests and laymen are expected to attend the ceremonies.

A brother of the bishop-elect, the Rev. W. Joyce Russell, pastor of St. Francis deSales Church, Benedict, Md., will be the assistant priest at the consecration mass.

Formal installation of the bishop-elect will be at the Cathedral of St. John the Baptist in Charleston on Tuesday, March 26.

The Most Rev. Francis P. Keough, archbishop of Baltimore and metropolitan of the Province of Baltimore, will sing the pontifical mass and install the new bishop.

Sunday CHURCH EVENTS

"Nursing in the Welfare State" will be discussed before the Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Professional Nurses at 3:30 p. m. at McMahon Hall, Catholic University, by the Right Rev. Msgr. William J. McDonald of the university school of philosophy.

"The H-Bomb: Will Science Succeed in Destroying the Earth?" will be the Rev. Dr. Louis H. Bauman's sermon topic at 7:45 p. m. at First Brethren Church, 12th and E sts. se.

The Rev. T. Ewell Hopkins, pastor of First Baptist Church of West Washington, will preach at vespers at 5:30 p. m. at Mount Zion Methodist Church, 1334 29th st. nw.

Dr. Henry Pitney Van Dusen, president of Union Theological Seminary, New York, will preach at 11 a. m. at the Washington Cathedral.

Following the 4 p. m. evensong service at the cathedral, there will be an organ recital by Jack Fisher, organist and choirmaster of the National Presbyterian Church.

Adventists Here Planning Home Visits

Greater Washington Seventh-day Adventists today will join in a Nation-wide "get aquainted with your neighbor" program sponsored by their denomination.

Teams of two persons will participate in the house-to-house visitation, stressing the need for church attendance, family Bible study, and prayer.

Visitors will also make an effort to learn of needy families who may be aided by the church's Dorcas Societies.

One of the largest groups to take part in the visitation program will be from Sligo Church, Carroll and Flower aves., Takoma Park, Md. More than 100 teams from the church are expected to make about 1000 calls in the neighborhood.

A Nation-wide goal of visits to two million homes has been set by Adventist world headquarters in Takoma Park.

Similar programs of home visitation are planned for June 3 and October 7.

The visitation program is one of the major Adventist missionary activities for this year. It is also being carried on in Europe, South America, Africa, Canada and the Far East.

Church Purchases 25-Room Mansion Here for $60,000

A 25-room mansion near Dupont Circle has been purchased by the Ecumenical Church of the Savior for a new church building.

The $60,000 building at 2025 Massachusetts ave. nw. will be remodeled by the congregation under the leadership of the Rev. Newton Gordon Cosby, pastor.

Plans call for a move to the new building on about May 1. Services are now being held at 1707 19th st nw.

The $30,000 remodeling project will include enlargement of the ballroom of the old house into an auditorium seating 200 persons.

The building for many years was the Home of Miss Bessie Juliet Kibbey, who died last year at 91, known as a philanthropist.

—in this case, not for an UNKNOWN QUANTITY but rather for QUALITY UNKNOWN

Countless times, in their efforts to bring you the finest meats, GIANT buyers "cross off" proferred shipments because they do not meet the exacting standards necessary to qualify as "GIANT Top Notch" quality. The GIANT Top Notch" label is your assurance of a known quality. To be so labeled, meat must come from young animals—it must be very tender, and rich in natural flavor and juices—and prepared by us so it's very lean. GIANT customers do not have to pay for a lot of waste!

D. C. Sales Slip But Less Than In Other Cities

By S. Oliver Goodman

Washington department store sales continue to slip, but merchants derive some consolation by noting sharper drops in other cities.

For the week ended February 25, local dollar volume was 7 per cent less than in the same 1949 week. Baltimore showed a 10 per cent drop, while other cities in the Fifth Reserve District averaged 15 per cent lower.

For the four weeks ended February 25, local sales were down only 1 per cent in contrast with a 7 per cent slump in Baltimore and an average drop of 5 per cent in other Fifth District stores.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond last night also reported department store sales in January compared with the same 1949 month as follows:

Washington, off 2 per cent; Baltimore, off 5 per cent; Hagerstown, off 1 per cent; Lynchburg, off 14 per cent; Norfolk, off 7 per cent; Richmond, up 3 per cent; average for all regional stores, off 5 per cent.

LANSTON NET: The Lanston Monotype Machine Co. reported net income of $400,559 or $1.60 a common share for the nine months ended November 30. This compared with $623,890 or $2.49 a share in the same 1948 period. For the six months ended August 31, 1949, net was $330,460 or $1.32 a share compared with $472,896 or $1.89 a share in like 1948 period.

GAS HEATING: Everett J. Boothby, president of Washington Gas Light Co., pointed out that 96 percent of the new single homes built last year have gas heating units. He added that in 1949 more than 4000 customers changed to gas heating from other fuels. Boothby's remarks were made at a special meeting Thursday afternoon for local investment dealers in advance of the issuance of the company's annual report. He emphasized some of the company's current problems, introduced other company officials and answered questions from the floor. It was the first time a meeting of this type has been held here.

SHORTER PERIOD: The New York Stock Exchange has decided to close on Saturday for only two months this summer instead of four months. The Saturday closing will extend from July 1 through September 2. For the past several years, the exchange observed a long weekend holiday during June, July, August and September. The revised schedule was based on pressure from numerous member firms who felt they were losing business.

PERSONNEL NOTES: New officers of the Leaders Club of the D. C. Life Underwriters Association include: William L. Porte, chairman, and Louis J. Grayson, vice chairman . . . Dean George R. Collins of New York University has been appointed a public governor of the New York Curb Exchange . . . Albert W. Conover is the new president of Equitable Gas Co. of Pittsburgh . . . George M. Hansen has been elected president of the National Federation of Financial Analysts.

SAFEWAY SALES: Safeway Stores, Inc., reported sales for four weeks ended February 25 totaled $88,574,563, a decline of 5.4 per cent from $93,691,553 in the similar period a year ago. For eight weeks ended February 25, total sales were $173,753,037, down 7.1 percent from $187,063,337 in the like 1949 period.

ODD LOTS: National Automobile Dealers Association has set up a new department in its Washington headquarters to analyze dealers' operating costs, inventories and other financial phases . . . Knott Corp. plans a two-for-one stock split and a change in name to Knott Hotels Corp. . . . H. K. Ferguson Co., industrial engineers and builders, have purchased O. D. Conover Engineering Co. of Cleveland. . . Amott-Baker Realty Bond Price Average rose to $814 at the end of February, up $11 for the month . . . This week's auto output is estimated at 119,955 units, against 117,487 in previous week and 113,317 in same 1949 week.

EARNINGS: The Budd Co. reported net income of $15,038,116 or $4.12 a share for 1949, compared with $9,329,864 or $2.48 a share in 1949. Other earnings statements:

'Hiss' and 'Sayre' On Papers for Reds

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

Former Air Force Maj. G. Racey Jordan yesterday testified that he had found folders of secret State Department documents, flown out of this county by Russian lend-lease planes, with paper slips attached to them labeled "From Hiss" and "From Sayre."

Jordan, recalled to the witness chair yesterday by the House Committee on Un-American Activities, had testified last December about the folders and the label slips, but identified the names on them only as "Mr. X" and "Mr. Y."

Presumably, the names referred to Alger Hiss, former State Department official convicted of perjury in connection with testimony about Russian espionage, and Francis B. Sayre, former Assistant Secretary of State.

Jordan told reporters yesterday he had not given Hiss' and Sayre's names in his earlier testimony, because the Hiss trial was then under way, and he had not wanted to do anything that might have caused a mistrial.

Republicans Asked Recall

Jordan was recalled by the committee yesterday at the request of its Republican members. They had not been present at the earlier hearing.

Jordan covered much of the same ground as before, but with a few added and different twists.

He repeated his story of being told by phone by the late Harry L. Hopkins, wartime Lend-Lease administrator, to expedite a shipment of uranium to Russia and to "keep quiet" about it.

He also told of breaking into Russian diplomatic mail, when he was stationed as a Lend-Lease expediter at the Great Falls, Mont., air base, and finding a memorandum on White House stationery with the initials "H. H." on it, and reading, "Had a hell of a time getting these away from Groves"—presumably Maj. Gen. Leslie Groves, head of the wartime atomic bomb project.

But in some respects, Jordan found it necessary to change previous testimony.

The phone call from Hopkins must have come in the spring of 1943, Jordan said, and not in 1944 as he previously had stated. For, said Jordan, he has now learned that Hopkins was in the hospital in 1944, and that the uranium shipment referred to went out in May, 1943. He remembered that the phone call came just a few weeks before the actual shipment arrived.

Jordan said he must have been mistaken as to the time and that he regretted the honest error of his memory.

Second, he said, previous testimony about seeing carboys of heavy water—of potential use in atomic bomb manufacture—must have been a mistake. Since testifying that great quantities of heavy water had been sent the Russians, he said, he learned that only a kilogram had gone.

But, said Jordan, he had only seen papers showing the Russian requests for heavy water, which were in large amounts. Apparently the requests were not filled. What he saw in carboys, therefore, he now believes must have been sulphuric acid.

Two Sheets of "HH" Paper

A third addition to his testimony had to do with the White House note signed "H.H." Previously, those who heard Jordan gained the impression that he had seen only a single sheet of paper, handwritten, on White House letterhead with the name "Harry Hopkins" printed at the top.

But yesterday, he said the phrase ". . . had a hell of a time getting these away from Groves" was on the second page of a two-page handwritten leter. It was night when he saw it—he had broken into a bag of diplomatic mail on an outgoing plane, over Russian protests—he had only a flashlight to see by, and it was 10 or 20 degrees below zero.

He did not remember what was on the first page. The word preceding ". . . had a hell of a time" was some name, not "I" and not necessarily "Hopkins."

Attached to the two sheets were a few typed pages and a map, Jordan thought. Though he had been so impressed by the end of the message he made a note of it that night, for the express purpose of keeping the memory of the letter fresh in his mind, he could not now remember what it and the attachment were about.

Jordan also disclosed yesterday how he happened to get in touch with Radio Commentator Fulton Lewis, jr., who first broke the Jordan story last December 2.

It seems, said Jordan, that he had commented to friends last year about shipments of uranium to Russia. One of them put him in touch with Senator Styles Bridges (R., N. H.).

Jordan conferred with Bridges for an hour on October 4, and Bridges had Lewis get in touch with him a few days later. When Lewis saw his data, Lewis got in touch with the FBI at once.

Jordan also testified yesterday, reading from lend-lease statistics, that large quantities of thorium, cadmium, graphite and aluminum tubes were sent to Russia in 1942, 1943 and 1944.

A couple of weeks ago, he said, he read in Life Magazine that all of these materials were used in atomic piles, or in A-bomb manufacture, and wanted to call attention of the committee to it.

[Commerce Department figures show that most of the graphite sent out at that time was in the form of furnace electrodes, crucibles, lighting carbons and other shapes for usual industrial usage.

[As for commercial aluminum tubes being used in atomic piles, the official Smythe report devotes two agony-filled paragraphs to the years of experimentation and various processes in treating aluminum tubes to make them suitable for use in an atomic pile. The problem was not finally solved until October, 1944.

[The lead-lease figures on the amount of cadmium shipped, one atomic expert told The Washington Post yesterday, indicate quantities many times in excess of any conceivable use of this metal in atomic processes.

[As for thorium, if the Russians were able to use it for atomic explosives, they are some years or decades ahead of the Americans. Theoretically, it can be "souped up" to become an atomic explosive. This has not yet been achieved here.—Editor's note.]

Jordan also testified that in one of the folders he flipped through in one of his forays into the suitcases loaded on Russia-bound planes, he found what appeared to be a copy of a report to Washington from the American Military Mission in Moscow.

Other documents next to it seemed to be of the same sort, he said, but he would testify with certainty only about the one he examined.

It was in one of the folders marked "From Hiss" or "From Sayre," he said.

Representative Richard Nixon (R., Calif.), interrupted Jordan's testimony to ask:

"You are not implying that either of the persons whose names you mentioned were actually aiding the Russians in securing U. S. Government records, are you?"

"No," Jordan replied. "I only saw the names there. If I had thought there was anything irregular, I would have grounded the plane."

Nevertheless, at another point, Jordan indicated he must have thought something was amiss. For he said he "wondered" how the officer in the American Military Mission in Moscow would have felt if he knew his report had gone to the State Department, had been photostated, and was now being sent back to Russia.

Union Consents To Negotiate in Airline Strike

New York, March 3 (AP).—The CIO Transport Workers Union tonight said it was willing to meet Monday in Washington with Federal mediators in an effort to end the three-day-old strike of 4000 American Airlines maintenance men.

The union announcement came after receipt of a telegram from Frank O'Neill, chairman of the National Mediation Board.

The wire asked the parties to meet Monday in Washington to discuss the dispute and urged resumption of work for the duration of the new parley.

American Airlines Cuts D. C. Flights to 14

American Airlines has reduced its normal schedule of 74 flights in and out of National Airport to 14 because of the national strike of ground crewmen.

Yesterday members of the strikstriking CIO Transport Workers Union continued picketing the airport terminal and American's maintenance hangar there, Frank Dooley, TWU international representative, reported.

The reduced schedule, started Thursday, includes four flights to New York and Boston, two to the West Coast and one to Mexico City and an equal number arriving from those places.

This skeleton schedule will continue during the strike, which began Wednesday at 7:30 a.m., a company spokesman said. The firm claimed about one third of the usual passenger loads were being handled. Union spokesmen in New York contended the line would be at a standstill within a few days.

Trieste Trio Plays Well In D. C. Bow

By Paul Hume

The Trieste Trio made its Washington bow last night in the Library of Congress.

Two members of the ensemble have remained in the trio since its inception in 1933 when they were 12 years old. The way they make music together speaks well for long years of practice and playing they have enjoyed.

Their new pianist, Signor Montanari, fits into the picture with ease. In last night's program he shone at every point. In music by Beethoven, Rameau and Brahms, there was plenty of chance for the piano.

Beethoven was represented in his D Major Trio, Opus 70, known as the "Ghost." The outer movements went with swift beauty—the slow movement seemed a bit lacking in continuity.

One rarely sees the name of Rameau on programs of chamber music today. The Trieste Trio played three of his smaller pieces for harpsichord and strings. The music has charm, though it is not the greatest Rameau. It was played at tempos that were fast, if not too fast for our ears. The absence of characteristic frequent ornaments which mark Rameau gave it a strange sound.

The evening closed with the B Major Trio of Brahms. This great music was played with fire and fine sweep. We have become accustomed in America to Italianate Brahms from the readings of Arturo Toscanini. The same sunlit quality was apparent last night in the lighter pedaling and brighter string tone of the guest artists.

Yet the music rose to all its implicit heighs in the breath of their conception. An encore was required, and turned out to be Beethoven's familiar G Major Minuet in a tasteful arrangement.

Is Barrett "The Boss"?

A congressional hearing has shed little more light on the devastating charges made against Police Superintendent Barrett—charges which threaten to blow the lid off law enforcement in Washington. Police Capt. Anthony Richitt accuses Barrett of transferring him because of information he (Richitt) had given to the House District Subcommittee. According to Richitt, that information consisted of a report of a conversation between himself and Emmitt Warring, a big-time gambler, in which Warring referred to Major Barrett as "The Boss." That phrase in this connection can have only one meaning.

Major Barrett, of course, deserves an ample opportunity to defend himself. He has denied that he ever discussed the House probe with Warring. Nor can the jealousy factor be discounted in a department rent from top to bottom with suspicion and sniping. Captain Richitt has commanded the Third, or White House, Precinct and traveled to Key West while President Truman was there—a favored position which apparently made him a target for envy and which Barrett crimped with the transfer. It is significant also that there was only one gambling arrest in the Third Precinct last fiscal year, despite 656 such arrests elsewhere in the city. This curious deficiency could, of course, have been the result of orders from Police Headquarters to lay off gamblers.

In any event, the city cannot go on with its police chief under a cloud, for in such circumstances there can be no faith in the integrity of law enforcement. The very least the Commissioners can do is to suspend both Barrett and Richitt immediately while all the facts are being explored—and we mean all the facts.

Perhaps the ancient and fishlike smell which surrounds the whole dirty business will serve to convince some persons who have shrugged off the repeated implications that all is not well in the Police Department. This newspaper's sole interest in pressing for a thorough and objective investigation has always been to get honest law enforcement. The sleeping dog can lie no longer; the issue is now forced. The charge of corruption in high places is an ugly taint which either must be expunged through adequate proof or must become the spur for prosecutions and wholesale reorganization.

Attlee's Boner

A lot of difficulties in this world are due to just plain stupidity. Under this head we would put the transfer of Mr. John Strachey from the Food to the War Ministry in Mr. Attlee's revised cabinet list. Mr. Strachey's appointment comes on top of admitted negligence in the matter of Klaus Fuchs which has already caused Mr. Attlee to authorize an overhaul of the intelligence branch of the War Ministry. Mr. Strachey will now be in charge of it. He may be as pure as the driven snow, but his record, judging from reports, is not one to encourage many Englishmen that he is at all suited to this task, and already the opposition is exploiting the blunder. Be this as it may, the case is much more than a party issue, for it involves the United States, Britain's ally under the Atlantic Pact. Mr. Strachey happens twice to have faced American deportation proceedings on charges which seem to have originated in the British Foreign Office itself that Strachey was not only a Communist but also a member of its executive committee in London. Mr. Strachey escaped deportation by leaving the country voluntarily.

There is no evidence that at any time Mr. Strachey hit the sawdust trail in repentance. Mr. Attlee says that in private he had Mr. Strachey's assurance that he wasn't a Communist when he joined the Labor Party. No record we have seen bears this out, but a shelf full of books furnish a damning indictment of Mr. Strachey's praise of communism and his attacks on capitalism. Mr. Strachey is a theoretician with a marked gift for articulateness, but through his wordiness such gems appear as: "The coming of communism can alone render our problems soluble." All the Communist patter, coupled with a great deal of ordinary common or garden tosh, litters his book, The Coming Struggle for Power. Yet Mr. Attlee is authorizing Mr. Strachey not only to overhaul Britain's intelligence system but also to sit at the same table and swap secrets with his opposite numbers of the United States and the other members of the alliance. Does he think that after all the experience of the last few years they will be as trusting as Mr. Attlee? Apparently. Yet Mr. Attlee is held to be a man of common sense. The only conclusion we can come to is that the Labor government, which failed to mention America at all in its election manifesto, has gone intellectually as well as economically isolationist—and enough to make the government thoroughly purblind.

Kennan And Kremlin

Mr. George F. Kennan's analysis of the present state of affairs between Communist Russia and the United States (published in the Reader's Digest and reprinted in The Washington Post last Sunday) is the best and clearest we have seen, and we commend it to all readers who may have missed it. It should put at rest some of the anxieties that have been prevalent since it became public knowledge that the Russians possess the secret of the atomic bomb.

It need not be inferred from this, Mr. Kennan argues, that the Russians are preparing to wage an aggressive atomic war. By ceasing to be an exclusive weapon the bomb has ceased to be an absolute weapon. In these circumstances an atomic attack would invite atomic retaliation, for, observes Mr. Kennan, there is no reason to believe that Soviet Russia possesses enough atomic bombs to destroy the whole of American industry. Thus, before deciding upon an atomic war, the men in the Kremlin must take into account not only the damage they would be likely to inflict but also the damage they would be likely to receive.

This, of course, does not mean that war with Russia is out of the question. It is possible that war may come without a decision by either side to begin it; that is to say, it may come by accident as the result of some unforeseen and unpremeditated incident involving armed forces operating in contiguous areas. The danger of such incidents is less than formerly, because on their side the Communists with air-tight control of all methods of information could easily conceal from their people the knowledge of such incidents, and because the peoples of non-Communist countries where free communication is possible have been taught by experience the danger of becoming emotionally excited at a moment of crisis.

Another danger is that the Russians may take it into their heads that they are going to be attacked. They have told themselves so often that the capitalistic world is plotting the destruction of the Socialist state that it is quite possible they believe it. The recent revelations of the ramifications of the Soviet spy organization have encouraged the opinion that the leaders of the Kremlin are thoroughly informed about everything outside Russia, but this Mr. Kennan assures us, is not the case. Indeed the tendency of rulers to be deceived is one of the weaknesses of all totalitarian systems. The avenues of secret information to the Kremlin are under the control of the secret political police, which owes its existence and its internal power to the fears of the rulers, and has therefore an interest in preserving those fears.

Even so, Mr. Kennan considers that the danger of war is slighter than the danger that the Kremlin may accomplish its designs of power by the less hazardous methods to which in fact it owes all its successes. This is why it is necessary, even at the risk of war, to oppose all further Soviet expansion wherever the opportunity offers. The hope lies in persuading the Communist leaders that from the point of view of their own selfish interests, they have more to lose than to gain by continuing a policy of expansion. They cannot, however, be persuaded of this by words or abstract arguments, but only by inescapable realities. It should be the purpose, then, says Mr. Kennan, of American policy to create those realities. To bring them into existence will be slow and difficult work; it will be, in fact, "the hardest task our country has ever undertaken"; but since the task "has fallen to us by the logic of history, there is no avoiding it."

Coca Choler

Of the literary lectures of the late Dr. William Lyon Phelps, George Santayana observed: "Every sentence was as good as a cocktail—or at least as good as a temperance drink." But the curious thing about temperance drinks is that they can become as much of a habit as the drinking of alcohol. The history of our well-known American beverage Coca Cola is affording a pretty good illustration.

In the war Coca Cola, because of its popularity among the younger folk, naturally followed the flag. So great was the demand for it among the troops that mobile bottling establishments moved with the armies. And wherever the armies went—which, you remember, was over a pretty good portion of the earth—they spread a taste for the liquid among the natives. Only perhaps in England, where another famous American institution, the soda counter, had been already established under the designation of "milk bars" was there any real resistance to the Coca Cola habit.

Indeed the habit spread most rapidly in those countries where there was least reason to anticipate that it would—in Italy and France, for example, where wine drinking is the immemorial custom and is considered one of the three foundations of Latin civilization, the others, of course, being bread and olive oil. In those countries the brisk and ever-increasing Coca Cola trade is supplied by local bottlers who manufacture it from syrup supplied by a Coca Cola corporation set up under the national laws and thereby involving no question of dollar credits.

In France the wine-growers became so outraged and alarmed by the competition of Coca Cola that one of their representatives recently introduced a bill in the Assembly that would forbid the drink to be manufactured or sold. The bill has been hastily shelved, but not before it had been taken up eagerly and vociferously by the Communists. The Communists professed to see in Coca Cola the cultural symbol of American imperialism, a sort of bibative implementation of the Marshall Plan. They had the support, too, of many other Frenchmen who regard a taste for carbonated beverages as a sign of barbarism or decadence. The taste for Coca Cola in France may be curious, but it is perhaps hardly any stranger than the taste that many Americans have lately developed for such concoctions as Dubonnet and Amer Piquant.

Men And Organization

Unlike 10 years ago, our Government now has the outline of an organization appropriate to the world emergency need, but the organization is not ticking on all cylinders. That organization works on four cylinders: the Cabinet, the National Advisory Council, the National Security Council, and the National Security Resources Board. Each of them is running its own show with little or no regard for the rest. The Cabinet, indeed, is not even a unit, but a more or less loose association of department heads. The late Secretary Forrestal was always dissatisfied with this arrangement, and sought to persuade the President to set up a Cabinet secretariat. He might have succeeded but for changes in the Cabinet which for the time being shelved the innovation.

The National Advisory Council (on International Monetary and Financial Problems) was set up to coordinate the policies and operations of the representatives of the United States on the International Monetary Fund and the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, the Export-Import Bank of Washington, and all other agencies of the Government "to the extent that they make or participate in the making of foreign loans or engage in foreign financial, exchange, or monetary transactions." The importance of the NAC is growing with American activity abroad. However, it seems to be operating more or less as a Treasury adjunct. This is hardly what was intended when the Secretary of the Treasury was made chairman of the NAC. The object was not to give direction of foreign economic policy to the Treasury, but so to coordinate the various policies of the various agencies in this field as to develop an over-all policy. Nor was there any intention to allow the Treasury to interfere with the functions of these autonomous agencies, particularly the Fund and the Bank, which, of course, are operated by international officers. It was precisely out of fear of Treasury interference in these international institutions that Lord Keynes opposed their establishment in Washington.

It is, of course, not sufficient to hammer out a foreign economic policy among the agencies represented in NAC. This is a cold war period. Foreign economic policy and military strategy, in consequence, must be harmonized, and that is where the National Security Council and the National Security Resources Board come in. The former seeks to integrate domestic foreign and military policies for presidential action. It is this council that is the meeting place for the State and Defense Departments. Though the council has recently been strengthened by the admission of the Vice President, it is still deprived of attendance by the chairman of the National Security Resources Board—the mobilizing agency of government—for the simple reason that there is still no chairman of that board.

The plan for a Cabinet-level committee on foreign economic policy is probably aimed at filling the gap in the present organization—rather, of making the organization function on all four cylinders. It might be the required solution. However, the present deficiency is due not to lack of machinery, but, rather, to lack of teamwork. Sights and aims are at variance, and only the President can set these. Once he has set them, the cylinders would function properly, and in these days they ought to function, it would seem, in the National Security Council.

Mate Choice

A lot of folklore on how marriage partners get hitched on the checkerboard of life has developed. One theory long held was that opposites attract—that blondes and brunettes gravitate together, thin and fat persons (remember the Jack Spratts?), tall men and short women and even vice versa, the mercurial and the phlegmatic, and always beautiful women and homely men. However, this theory gradually lost ground in favor of one that similar types are natural mates. Now the old theory of the attraction of opposites is having a revival, and some students of the subject say they have the data to back it up.

However, we may soon have more definite knowledge as to what causes persons to pair off at the altar. The American Genetic Association has announced a prize for the best essay written during 1950 on what is popularly stated as "Who marries whom?" In scientific parlance the contest is devoted to "delimiting the boundaries of a non-geographical mating isolate." That means propinquity is to be left out of it. Results of this contest should have value for marriage candidates as well as scientists. They could even help in mating more people on tried and tested methods. Whether that would make for happier marriages is a question. H. L. Mencken in a misanthropic mood once wrote that as good a set-up as the present one could be obtained by passing the names around in a hat. And divorce figures would seem to support this. However, who has a better plan to offer?

Legion and VA

My faith in the American veteran and the American system was bolstered by reading that the American Veterans Committee has attacked the American Legion for the latter's intemperate blasts at the Hoover Commission proposals for reshaping the Veterans' Administration hospital program.

The speech by Michael Straight, AVC national chairman, told the Legion in very clear terms that it, not the Hoover Commission, is "selling out the veteran" and stamped the Legion's position as dictated by its own selfish ambitions. I agree with Mr. Straight and am glad his organization had the courage to take this stand. The veterans are a powerful bloc—and narrow leadership of them can prove ruinous to the country.

No nation in history has given its veterans, regardless of rank or service, the rewards that this Nation has given them. The American Legion has consistently exploited the word "veteran"—and has sought even more than the generous treatment we have given our veterans. I hope that other veterans organizations follow the AVC lead and see to it that economy and prudence govern our management of veterans' affairs, our biggest expense above the direct costs of national defense.

Nonsegregated Central

"No great question is ever settled until it is settled right," someone has said, and the only true solution of this school controversy, it seems to me, is not transferring all of Cardozo students to Central nor awaiting the building of Spingarn. The true solution, of course, is ending segregation in Washington schools.

But if this seems neither feasible nor possible, at present, why not start by transferring a certain number of pupils from Cardozo to Central to relieve crowding and thus make Central a nonsegregated school? Most of the white students would remain if put before the fait a compli. Young people would probably accept it, anyway, and if their elders would stop prejudicing them they would get along all right in the main.

This could be used as an experiment and other high schools incorporated later. New Jersey and several other States ended segregation by beginning in the high schools. Why not try that here, and at once?

Grocery Overcharges

For the past eight years, I have shopped at several stores of a large chain concern in my neighborhood. They have overcharged me—or tried to do so—about nine times out of ten. It is impossible to have such a frequent recurrence of overcharging due to clerks' ignorance of prices. I could even forgive that—although they should know their prices—but deliberate robbery I cannot forgive. To think that thousands of women stand in line to be robbed seems ridiculous! That is what happens because rarely ever have I heard one of them speak up or even pay attention.

What makes me even more furious is that they are overcharging me and when I call it to their attention they are angry.

I hope that the women of Washington will be alert when they go marketing. Know your prices. Bring the ads with you with items checked off that you are buying.

Sothoron Bill

Author! Author! I would like to know who is or are the authors of the so-called Sothoron bill. Let him or them speak up and show by what method they arrived at their conclusions that the Sothoron bill is the answer to the problems confronting the management of the governmental affairs of Prince Georges County.

Surely this is not too much to ask: that the citizens of Prince Georges County be given the benefits of the reasoning by means of which the Sothoron bill was drafted. Surely it is not too much to ask that we, the citizens of Prince Georges County, be allowed to decide whether or not we agree with the author's methods of arriving at his conclusions and with these conclusions.

Can the representatives of the other counties and Baltimore City in all sincerity and justice decide what is best for Prince Georges County? Does the constitution of Maryland not give the citizens of the counties a more just method of deciding such matters?

Hostage Exchange

It is strongly recommended that Judith Coplon and Valentin A. Gubitchev be exchanged with Russia for Marine Master Sergeant Elmer C. Bender, and Navy Chief Electrician's Mate William C. Smith. Bender and Smith have been prisoners of the Chinese Communists since October 19, 1948.

No Place to Hide

We aren't important people. We live on side streets and ride the subways to work and save our money so that someday, we can buy a house in the suburbs. But we're the people who die when the hydrogen bomb is dropped, and we don't want to die.

Every day our radios and newspapers tell us it is likely that the Russians as well as the Americans, soon will have the H-bomb; one H-bomb could kill every living thing for hundreds of square miles; several H-bombs could wipe a whole country off the face of the earth; there is no place to hide. It wouldn't help us to move to the West or Midwest or South, for long-range bombers can fly over the top of the world and drop their bombs on Seattle, Chicago, Detroit, Birmingham, Houston, or Wichita, Kans.

Can't somebody do something?

Senator Brien McMahon, chairman of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy, has a plan for international control of the H-bomb; Senator Millard Tydings has suggested another. Bernard Baruch, speaking officially for our Government, begged for rigid control of atomic weapons, but the Russians turned him down. Can't we make the Russians listen to reason?

We Americans are going to die; the Russians are going to die; Albert Einstein says everyone in the world will die—unless someone works out a plan for H-bomb control and talks every nation on earth into accepting it.

Write to your Congressmen and Senators, to President Truman, to Bernard Baruch, to Senator McMahon and Senator Tydings. Tell them that something must be done. Tell them you know the Russians have been tough to deal with, but surely the Russians don't want to die either. Tell them that reaching an understanding may be almost impossible but it must not be entirely impossible; for the stakes are very high.

The stakes are their lives, and your lives, and our lives.

100 Percent Price Supports

The current confusion in regard to farm price supports in Congress and out of Congress is more dangerous to the welfare of the American people than all the armies and ideologies of Russia.

For 25 years each $1 of gross farm production has generated $7 of national income, regardless of prosperity, depression, war or postwar periods. Each $1 of gross farm income has been the foundation of approximately $4 of retail sales volume and $4.20 of total wage payments to labor.

We have a national debt of about 260 billion dollars and if it is ever repaid it will depend on just two things: (1) how many units of farm products we produce and (2) what price per unit we pay to agriculture.

In addition, for each 1 percent of parity we have at stake 1 percent of our farm income, 1 percent of our national income, 1 percent of employment and 1 percent of consumption of goods. With these facts provable from 25 years of our economic record, why do we permit confusion to place our future on the brink of chaos.

For example, the record of the United States Department of Commerce will prove that if we permit farm prices to go back to 1941 levels, that the United States will suffer a loss of over 100 billion dollars in anual income. Why then do we have such propaganda against farm price supports, the only factor that has prevented the usual postwar collapse.

Since 1948 our gross farm income has fallen off about three billion. As a direct result our national income level has dropped from $234.3 billion in the last quarter of 1948 down to approximately $212 billion at the present time. If farm prices are permitted to drop another 10 percent in 1950 we will take a loss of another $20 billion of national income.

No political party can operate the United States on a basis of national solvency and full employment unless the farmer receives 100 percent of parity as the average price at the market place. What will it cost to support farm prices at a proper level? The answer to that question is how much could we have spent to prevent the loss or drop of $20 billion in national income since the last quarter of 1948. A few hundred million dollars wisely expended could have prevented the loss of $20 billion and the unemployment that now exists.

It Couldn't Happen Here

By Malvina Lindsay

Flying Saucer Tale

IT WAS NOT long before the two occupants of the space ship had mastered the regional language sufficiently to give a satisfactory interview. This was a phenomenal advance over their first crude communications following their world-shaking landing on a New Mexico desert in what had been taken for a flying saucer.

"It was no trick at all," explained one of the beings, a creature resembling man, yet vaguely inferior, with a face in which both grossness and sharpness were mingled. "On our planet we are quick at anything tangible." He gestured toward his space ship.

Their's was a story of escape from a planet on which all life was about to be extinguished by a global war. Beings on their globe had been constantly at war throughout remembered time. Their achievements in physical science and technology had made their wars more deadly than any earth had known.

"Your super-bomb," exclaimed the strange visitor derisively. "We've already used that. We have devastated wide areas of all life with it. Our last war was fought with a super-super-bomb—and of course bacteria."

But now, in the new conflict just beginning, the death ray was to be pitted against the death cloud. The voyager, one of the planet's most alert scientists, had seen what was ahead. Accompanied by a technician, he had gambled on a flight to earth.

"BUT YOUR family, friends, how could you leave them to destruction?" he was asked.

"My family, I have lost track of what is left of it. Everyone in my country is regimented in service of the state. You see there is always war or preparation for war.

"But why," asked another of the thousands of correspondents from all over the world, "are the nations of your planet going to use weapons that will wipe out all life? Don't they realize what they are doing."

"Top entities have gone so far they can't back down. And there's always the hope the weapon won't work on you—just on the other fellow."

"Won't they listen to the scientists?"

"Even on my planet where science is a God, the practical beings who run things call the scientists visionaries. Besides, if we told what nobody wanted to hear we'd be disloyal. It would be our end."

"Yet you have made great strides in science?"

"Yes, governments spend vast amounts in research—in physical science, that is. We have everything mechanical. We can push buttons to control weather, turn mercury into gold, stones into bread—"

"Then what was there to fight about?"

"Elbow room. Population was rising so fast it was hard to find breathing space. Then there was national honor, sovereignty, pride."

"Hadn't you done anything in social sciences?"

"I don't understand."

"The control of human nature—man's mastery of himself."

The visitor shook his head blankly.

"BUT DIDN'T anybody want to stop the terrible warfare on your planet?"

"Oh, yes. Most of the beings on the planet, I should guess. Especially in my country which is one of the most enlightened. But the countries that felt that way wouldn't stand together. They were proud nations. None wanted to give up a shred of power."

"They preferred annihilation?"

"That's it. Then my country couldn't take leadership. It was torn by competing groups—political, economic, so-called religious. The two big political factions, the Dums and the Dees, were constantly at each other's throats in their zeal to win elections—even though whoever won, the warriors would run everything."

"Why did you pick this planet for escape?"

"Because it offered best promise of peace. Reports of recent years from pilots of what you call flying saucers told of wide sunlit spaces filled with tranquility and beauty, of great cities teeming with vigor and cheer, of a sense of freedom and hope that hung over many areas, especially the country on which we set out to land."

"Our poets," continued the speaker, "and of course we had to have a few to glorify war, called this the Planet of Promise. I believed this might be a world whose beings had developed beyond ours, where the higher forms of life at least could live in harmony."

"Aren't you lucky you made it just in time to save your hide?"

"Ye-es, but—well, you see I'm wondering if I won't have to strike out again."

Dr. Marshall's Sermons

Let me express my deep appreciation to you for publishing the wonderful sermons of the late Dr. Peter Marshall. In this way your paper no doubt is opening new avenues to many and consequently the beginning at least of a richer life.

Dr. Marshall's sermons speak for themselves. The one which you published on February 28 is a classic. Only a person who lived deeply could portray a portrait with such insight and challenge. It is the work of a real artist.

Young Hummon

By Marquis Childs

Talmadge's Standing In Georgia

ATLANTA, Ga.—Talking with Gov. Herman Talmadge, you have the feeling of watching an extremely plausible actor. Yet it is a performance that, for the outsider at least, does not quite achieve credibility.

Childs

The lines that he speaks are all about the solid virtues of the folk who till the soil and earn their bread by the sweat of their brow. They're the backbone of the Nation and not the restless, shifting crowds in the cities.

The words are those of his father, Ole Gene, who built up the political oligarchy that Young Hummon inherited and directs with great skill. The words come out of the radical, Populist past in which Ole Gene had his roots.

But this is the mid-twentieth century and populism has long since become something for the history books. Young Hummon wears a well-tailored suit and his galluses are gray and not red like his father's.

He looks a little like Ole Gene; a rather heavy, well-fed version of Ole Gene's lean, fierce intensity.

"Why, hello there, Charley," he says into the phone in his booming, stump-speaking voice. "Sure good to hear that, Charley. Sure good, because I want to carry Bibb County next time."

THE PRIMARY is coming sometime in June. So far as the outsider can tell, there is no real focus of opposition to Young Hummon. M. E. Thompson, whom Young Hummon roundly defeated two years ago, has announced his candidacy, but no one expects much to come of it. Former Gov. Ellis Arnall, at one time the rallying point for progressive elements in the State, announced that he would keep entirely out of the contest.

What makes Young Hummon's talk about the veils of the city and the virtues of the country especially ironic is a litle drama that is said to have occurred here some time ago. This little drama can't be very well documented, but those who know most about politics in Georgia vouch for the substance of it.

Young Hummon got the idea he wanted to run for the Senate. There wasn't, he allowed, any future for a young man in the Governor's office.

When the word of Young Hummon's ambition got out, it caused considerable consternation. This meant he would be running against Georgia's elder statesman, Senator Walter George, who is 72 years old. A lot of influential businessmen and bankers in Atlanta didn't like that at all.

George is chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and in the post he is considered as safe as the Rock of Gibraltar. Especially with that blankety-blank wild man in the White House it was supremely important to keep Georgia's elder statesman in this key committee chairmanship. So the calls began to go out from the bankers in Atlanta and the bankers in New York. Young Hummon must be persuaded not to run.

YOUNG HUMMON was persuaded. At 37 he is the youngest Governor in America, a fact of which he is proud. If it were not for the provision in Georgia's constitution that a Governor may not succeed himself for the four-year term, Young Hummon could go on being Governor as long as he lived. The present two-year term resulted from his father's death four years ago, Young Hummon's seizure of power in the best Central American tradition, his later surrender of that power to Thompson, the elected Lieutenant Governor, and finally a special election.

The Supreme Court of the United States soon will be asked to pass upon Georgia's county-unit system under which the rural counties wield power over those that contain the larger cities. A three-man Federal tribunal has heard a suit brought by two residents of Atlanta whose attorneys pointed out that a vote in Chattahoochee County is 122 times as powerful as a vote in Fulton County in which metropolitan Atlanta is situated. The hope of the city voters is for a quick decision which may be appealed to the court in Washington and perhaps passed upon before the primary election in June.

Both Ole Gene and Young Hummon, in their exploitation of country against city, have used the race issue to the fullest extent. It is effective in the rural counties where the Negro population is often in excess of the white population. Young Hummon has exploited President Truman's civil rights program to frighten rural voters with the threat of an end to segregation.

There have been changes, and major changes, here. Today about 100,000 Negroes vote in the Democratic primary. That was undreamed of only a few years ago. But this is still a one-party State, and in a one-party State the choice of the voter is always pretty limited.

Atom Bomb 'Bull's-Eyes'

The Washington Post

POSSIBLE TARGET AREAS MAPPED—At yesterday's civil defense planning conference in the District Building, Brig. Gen. Gordon R. Young, Engineer Commissioner, points out what officials believe would be target areas in Washington during an atom bomb raid. The circles are centered on the White House and Union Station plaza sections

Group of 83 Discusses Atom Defense Plans

What can be done to defend civilian Washington against atomic bombing and other posibilities of war?

This was the question put to 83 persons from specialized fields yesterday as the District set about in earnest to prepare a civil defense plan

No over-all scheme can be devised, Engineer Commissioner Gordon R Young told the group assembled in the District Building board room, until a permanent director and staff have been obtained, and this cannot be done, he said, until Congress approves funds.

In the meantime, said General Young, preliminary studies can be made by individual groups which a permanent staff can later fuse into an integrated working plan.

Young asked the serious-faced group of physicians, utility officials, District department heads and other interested persons to assume the District faces the threat of an atomic attack and of sabotage from within. He asked the physicians to assume further the threat of germ and poison gas attack.

Then he urged each to ask himself these questions: (1) What problems would arise in my special field? (2) What solutions to these problems can I devise in advance with resources at my disposal? (3) What outside assistance will I need and with what other agencies must I work?

Answers to these questions will form the "raw material" for a civil defense plan, Young said.

Young was careful to point out that talk of civil defense planning is not an indication that attack is imminent.

"There is no occasion whatever for excitement or panic," he said. "The development of civil defense measures should proceed in an orderly and matter-of-fact way, and eventually become an accepted part of our lives."

As an idea of what to expect from an atomic blast, he cited the Atomic Energy Commission's report of last November. This assumed the most likely spots for dropping bombs in the District proper would be over the Ellipse and Union Station Plaza.

Bombs dropped at these spots would damage the entire downtown area, Young pointed out. He suggested that utilities assume their key installations wherever located would be destroyed.

The group which met yesterday will be called the Temporary Committee on Civil Defense and will function as such at least until a permanent director is named.

Chairman of the committee will be Police Inspector Lloyd E. Kelly, with Captain John E. Fondahl assisting him. Col. Leonce Legendre, wartime civil defense head here, will be vice-chairman.

Johnson Warns

No Immunity Sure Against A-Onslaught

New York, March 3 (AP).—Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson said tonight "we cannot promise full immunity to all of America against atomic attack."

Conceding that "atomic raids might penetrate our cordon of defense," Johnson said: "Some enemy pilot with the zeal and the fanaticism of a Kamikaze (Japanese suicide pilot) might get through our net on a one-way suicide mission and the United States might get hurt."

Johnson gave his views in a speech prepared for the annual awards dinner of the Overseas Press Club at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

"We do not and cannot promise," Johnson said, "full immunity to all of America against atomic attack. There is a risk to living in the middle of the twentieth century instead of an earlier age which all of us must share. It is a risk that every community must take in an atomic age. . . .

Money Can't Prevent It

"No amount of money appropriated for national defense can prevent this possibility."

"I can say to you tonight, that the Air Force today is in its best state of combat readiness since the war."

"We're Partners, Not Satellites"

Reviewing the situation in Europe, Johnson praised the Marshall Plan.

"While Russia has been making satellites," he declared, "we have been adding partners, and there is the big difference between their ways and ours."

Wayne Richardson, veteran Associated Press correspondent, was presented the club's annual George Polk Memorial Award for "reporting above and beyond the call of duty."

Richardson joined the crew of the Isbrandtsen freighter Flying Arrow last month when it was leaving Hongkong for Shanghai and certain peril. He was aboard when the ship was attacked by a Chinese Nationaalist gunboat and reported the incident graphically.

Other Awards Listed

Polk, former Columbia Broadcasting System correspondent, was assassinated in Greece.

Other awards included:

Best reporting from abroad—Joseph Newman, New York Herald Tribune.

Best interpretation of foreign news—Joseph and Stewart Alsop, New York Herald Tribune.

Best radio reporting of foreign news—Bill Downs, CBS.

Best radio interpretation of foreign news—Edward R. Murrow, CBS.

French Offer Saar Freedom For Its Coal

Paris, March 3 (AP).—France today conditionally traded the Saar almost complete independence in return for the Saar's coal for 50 years.

The swap drew protests from Germany, former owner of the 738-square-mile border territory. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer called an emergency meeting of West German chieftains and an atmosphere of crisis enveloped Bonn. Adenauer delayed official comment until Saturday.

The Franco-Saar agreement is subject to approval by the French and Saar Parliaments and then by the Allies when they write a final peace treaty for Germany.

Whether Russia will be in on the latter decision appears to depend on whether Russia and the West are on speaking terms when the time comes to write the treaty. The United States and Britain already have recognized autonomy of the Saar, which France detached economically from the French-occupied zone of Germany in 1947.

The agreement gives the Saarlanders control of their internal affairs and a promise of complete independence in 50 years, if the Allies approve. France will continue to handle their foreign and military affairs in the interval.

The agreement in effect completes detachment of the Saar from Germany.

The Saar mines, now operated by a French-appointed administration, are to be returned to the Saar.

France will pay the Saar Government a 30-franc-a-ton royalty for coal mined for the first five years and then 50 francs a ton, but with a limitation depending on whether the mines show a profit.

Poland Begins Explusion of Last Germans

Berlin, March 3 (AP).—Poland's expulsion of the last 125,000 Germans in her postwar western territories got under way today.

Twenty-five thousand are to go to west Germany under a Polish agreement with the Allies and the Bonn republic. One hundred thousand are to settle in the Russian zone.

Within a year, there will be no Germans left in the East German provinces "recovered" by the Warsaw government, a semiofficial Polish source declared.

"These territories had about eight million Germans before the war," the informant said. "Now they have over five million Poles. In addition, there are still about 200,000 Polish citizens in the Soviet Union whom we expect to become settlers in the (Polish) west."

Completion of the population transfer is sought by Poland to justify the Oder-Neisse River line, established in 1945, as her permanent frontier.

U. S. Protests Nationalizing By Hungary

The United States protested formally to Hungary yesterday over its nationalization of American-owned property.

The note objected that a nationalization edict issued by the Communist government of Hungary last December failed to make any provision for compensating American owners.

It also noted that the interests of Soviet Russia were singificantly exempted from the nationalization order.

Protesting it is impossible for individual Americans to obtain remedies through Hungarian courts, the State Department served notice that it is backing the claims of all Americans whose property has been seized.

The note said the nationalization action violates a treaty of friendship and commerce signed in 1926. It invited the Hungarian government to open negotiations for "the prompt settlement of its obligations."

Early yesterday the State Department asserted that Romania wants to close the United States information office in Bucharest because Communists fear "the free flow of information and cultural contacts between peoples."

Romania demanded Thursday that both the United States and Great Britain close their information offices which distribute pamphlets and other material on democratic ideals.

State Department press spokesman Michael J. McDermott said the Romanian demand is being studied.

"In addition to showing disregard for diplomatic practice and courtesies, it appears to illustrate the fear of Communist regimes as regards the free flow of information and cultural contacts between peoples," McDermott said.

The United States information office in Bucharest has only one full-time American employe, Donald Dunham, Columbus, Ohio.

U. S. Insists Russia Bars Citizens' Exit

By the United Press

The State Department last night accused Russia of taking "repressive measures" against about 2000 American citizens who want to leave the Soviet Union, renewing its complaint after Russia denied holding American citizens.

Some have been sent to Siberia, it was charged.

The Department said a Soviet reply, made public by the Moscow radio, was "unsatisfactory." The U. S. Embassy in Moscow, "will of course continue to the best of its ability its efforts to aid American citizens in the Soviet Union," it said.

American officials, however, had little hope they could help Americans forbidden to leave Russia. Some, the Department said, are in labor camps; others live in remote sections of the Soviet Union and are not allowed to go to Moscow to the American Embassy.

"There is considerable evidence that repressive measures have been taken by Soviet authorities against American citizens attempting to arrange for departure from the Soviet Union," the Department said.

Four groups of detained Americans were listed: about 2000 claiming American citizenship, of whom 659 have been verified as bona fide citizens; 13 who can not get exit visas even though Russia has certified them as stateless persons or foreigners; 20 the Soviet "erroneously" classes as Soviet citizens, and 32 working at forced labor after being arrested in East Europe when the war ended.

McCarran Reports

Earmarking Of ECA Funds Asked on Hill

Senator Pat McCarran (D., Nev.), chairman of the so-called watchdog committee on foreign aid, issued a report yesterday calling for sweeping changes in the appropriation of Marshall Plan funds.

One of his proposals was that a large part of the appropriation be earmarked in advance for the export of American farm surpluses. Paul Hoffman, the Economic Cooperation Administrator, has said repeatedly that such a requirement would wreck the Marshall Plan.

McCarran's committee is due to be liquidated by June 30 under existing ECA legislation. On Thursday the committee refused to approve the report which had been prepared by McCarran's staff.

'Staff Study'

Yesterday, therefore, the words "report" and "committee print" were crossed off the copies already printed, and the words "staff study" were substituted. McCarran published the document with the explanation that the committee believed its discussion would be "helpfull" to members of Congress.

The McCarran study expressed "disappointment" on three grounds: (1) that western Europe had gone back to the prewar industrial pattern rather than forward to unification; (2) that American private investments had not been encouraged to flow, allegedly because of State Department opposition, and (3) that the Marshall Plan had failed to produce enough strategic materials for the United States.

More Unity

Moreover, the study went on, European countries were still sending goods of military significance to eastern Europe. It also said European recovery funds should be "coordinated" more closely to funds for military assistance and for the so-called Point Four program of developing backward areas.

Before the McCarran report was circulated, Hoffman made a spirited defense of his policies before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He was especially emphatic in discounting fears of a flood of European imports that might injure American business.

He said such fears were just a "bogeyman" that should not frighten any alert or adaptable American businessman.

Takoma Couple Awarded $21,000 In Traffic Case

A Federal Court jury in Baltimore yesterday awarded $21,000 damages to Mr. and Mrs. George Abbott, 7302 Flower ave., Takoma Park, Md., for injuries they suffered in a traffic accident near Laurel, Md., in 1949.

The award was assessed against James D. Hyman, a trucker of Greeleyville, S. C..

According to Joseph D. Bulman and Sidney M. Goldstein, who represented the Abbotts, a Hyman truck sideswiped the Abbott automobile.

Abbott suffered 92 percent loss of vision of his left eye when in the crash a splinter of glass became embedded. Mrs. Abbott had numerous cuts and bruises.

Strachey Says He Repudiated Reds in 1940

London, March 3. (AP)—The Labor Government's new War Minister, John Strachey, tonight said he supported Communist doctrine before World War II, but broke with the Communists over their refusal to back Britain's war effort in 1940.

"The statement that I remain an avowed Communist is false," he said.

"It is public knowledge that I repudiated Communist policies in 1940," Strachey declared in answer to newspaper attacks.

The anti-Labor press of Lord Beaverbrok had again today challenged the political beliefs of Strachey, declaring he was an avowed Communist.

Strachey's statement followed the lines of an unprecedented declaration last night from Prime Minister Atlee: "As long ago as 1940, Mr. Strachey had made it clear that he was in fundamental disagreement with the Communist Party, of which he has never been a member."

Beaverbrook's Evening Standard asked the date that Strachey, former Food Minister who became Secretary of State for War in the Cabinet reshuffle after last week's election, had disavowed communism.

"A prolonged search has failed to reveal any record of such statements," the newspaper said, adding it had never charged Strachey was a member of the Communist Party.

Strachey gave the date of his first open break with the Communists as April 27, 1940, and said it was in a letter published by the New Statesman and Nation, a left-wing weekly.

Priest Doomed By Yugoslavs, Catholics Say

By the United Press

A Yugoslav Communist court has condemned a Catholic priest to death and three others to long prison terms. The National Catholic Welfare Conference reported yesterday.

It said one of the priests said during the trial he had been tortured by electric current sent through wires forced down his throat in efforts to extort a confession.

The NCWC said it has received word that the Rev. Jako Vresk, 38, was condemned to death by a firing squad. It said Father Vresk was condemned along with the other priests by a People's Court in Cetinje, capital of Montengro, "in a huge, widely publicized propaganda trial which sought to prove that the priests were plotting an 'armed rebellion' against the Tito regime."

The Rev. Vittorio Kolocjra, 38, was named as the priest allegedly tortured by his Communist jailers. The Catholic organization said he "threw the judges and public prosecutor into confusion when he proclaimed in court he had been tortured and held in solitary confinement while awaiting trial . . ."

Father Kolocjra described "how the jailers thrust wires down his throat and then shot electric current through in efforts to force a confession," the NCWC said. It said he was given a 15-year prison term.

Vinson Seeks To Ban Defense Fund-Freezing

By The Associated Press

Representative Vinson (D., Ga.) said yesterday he will introduce legislation to keep Secretary of Defense Johnson from "freezing" money approved by Congress for specific military projects.

The chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, said the bill would require Johnson to consult with the Senate and House Appropriation Committees before Congress-approved funds are withheld by administrative action.

Back of this is anger within Vinson's committee and in the House Military Appropriations subcommittee over action by Johnson last year in halting the spending of 750 million dollars voted by Congress to increase the Air Force from 48 to 58 groups. Johnson told a military appropriations subcommittee in January he did it at the direction of President Truman, who was acting as Commander in Chief in the conviction that 48 groups were adequate and any increase would be more than the budget could stand.

Now comes release by the House Military Appropriations subcommittee of its hearings on the Air Force's request for $4,433,478,000 out of the over-all military budget of 13 billion dollars for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Of the Air Force request, $1,350,000,000 is for aircraft procurement, and the legislators heard from Secretary of the Air Force Symington that this "would not bring about or maintain a modern 48-group program."

Symington reminded the Representatives the Air Force position has been that 70 groups are essential to minimum peacetime security. Apparently having in mind Russia's achievement of an atomic explosion and possible development of the hydrogen bomb, Symington added that "under modern conditions, even this number should be looked into. It may be low."

Navy Involved

Bunk Report Debunked By AF Chief

San Francisco, March 3 (AP).—The Navy had unification trouble with the Air Force yesterday but was able to cover up to everyone's satisfaction.

A sergeant—name undisclosed—telephoned Air Force Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg in Washington.

He explained the Navy had just taken over the Army Transport Command under unification—which was O. K. with him.

But he understood he would not be furnished a mattress and blankets aboard the transport General William Mitchell. And that wasn't the kind of life advertised on recruiting posters.

The general talked it over with Admiral William M. Callaghan, head of the Navy's Military Sea Transportation Service: Admiral Callaghan called MSTS headquarters here. The headquarters put the problem up to ship Capt. James V. Query, jr.

Skipper Query said it was all a mistake. He said the Air Force personnel would find blankets and mattreses already on the bunks.

But just to make sure, Captain Query had all 345 Air Force enlisted men mustered topside before the Mitchell sailed for Pearl Harbor and Guam. They were asked:

"Have you received blankets?"

The unanimous answer was, "Yes, sir."

Each man was asked, "Did you make a phone call to Washington yesterday?"

The answer was unanimous again, "No, sir."

Toll Put at 700 In China Air Raids On Red Canton

Hongkong (Saturday), March 4. (U.P.)—Reports from Canton said today 700 persons were killed or injured in five Nationalist air attacks on that Communist-held city over a 16-hour period Friday.

Reports reaching here indicated Canton's air raid alarm system failed to function properly and that planes already were over the city when the first siren sounded.

As a result, many were caught before they were able to take shelter.

Official Nationalist communiques and news reports said two sizable ships and more than 100 junks were sunk and a third ship set afire, by Nationalist bombers ranging the skies from Canton to Shanghai.

Especially heavy attacks were launched against the "invasion coast" opposite the Nationalist base on Formosa Island.

Tech Whips St. John's, 35-32, for Metro Title

By West McLean
Post Reporter

McKinley Tech won the Star's Metropolitan Basketball Tournament by with standing a late St. John's surge and nosing out the Cadets, 35-32 last night at College Park.

The scoring was evenly distributed among the victorious Trainers, with Bill Breen tops with 10 and Tony Sgro next with 8.

Top men for St. John's were Bob MacDonald and Bobby McLindon with 11 and 10.

Tech held a 33-23 lead shortly after the last period started but St. John's scored nine points before the Trainers could tally again. Joe McMahon scored all of his four points in this late surge.

With only 48 seconds remaining and St. John's trailing by a single point, Tony Sgro made good on two charity tosses to put Tech ahead, 35-32, a lead it held to the end.

St. John's held a 20-18 advantage at intermission after trailing 11-10 at the end of the first quarter.

Burke Shoots Another 67, Retains Lead

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 3 (AP). A young man with a great golf game went way out in front as the St. Petersburg Open reached the 36-hole halfway point today.

Jack Burke, 27-year-old White Plains, N. Y., professional, shot his second straight 67 over the par 71 Pasadena course and was 8 strokes under par with 134.

Toby Lyons of Warren, Pa., also got a 67 and was second to Burke with 136. Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., who was second yesterday, used 69 strokes over the 6285-yard layout today and stood third at 137.

He and George Fazio of Conshohocken, Pa., eagled the last hole to get their subpar rounds. Fazio's 69 matched his yesterday's round and he shared fourth place with Chick Harbert of Northville, Mich., who came in with a 6-under-par 65. Harbert and Fazio have 138s.

Walcott Stops Agramonte in 7

New York, March 3 (AP).—Jersey Joe Walcott celebrated his return to Madison Square Garden tonight by stopping wild swinging Omelio Agramonte of Cuba, in 2:11 of the seventh round of a scheduled ten-rounder. Walcott, a 1-to-4 favorite, outweight his foe 198 to 183¼.

The 36-year-old veteran from Camden, N. J., floored his crude opponent five times, two of the knockdowns came in the seventh when Referee Jack Watson wisely stopped the uneven contest.

Duquesne Upset, 51-49

A. U., Loyola Win, Meet Tonight for League Title

Baltimore, March 3. (AP)—American University moved into the final round of the Mason-Dixon Conference Basketball Tournament tonight with a convincing 78-57 trouncing of Washington College.

Baltimore Loyola won tonight's other semifinal, 74-57, over Hampden-Sydney and plays AU for the title tomorrow night.

Washington College had difficulty cracking American's tight zone defense. The Shoremen fell way behind midway in the first half and never were able to catch up.

Even in defeat, Washington's ace scorer, Nick Scallion, managed to gather 30 points—more than half his team's total. But Scallion, the conference's leading scorer for two years, was forced to shoot from outside most of the time or from bad angles or off-balance.

The smooth-clicking American outfit was paced by Leroy Ishman with 20 points. Ishman sat out most of the second half after the Eagles had built up a 17-point lead.

Bob Lamon contributed 14 points to American's total while Art Morales added 12. The only other man to hit in double figures was Washington's Don McHugh, who got 10 points.

American U., the pre-tourney favorite, finished the regular season in first place in the conference while Washington wound up the year in fourth.

Caps Play Celtics Tonight

The Washington Caps will be out to avenge an upset loss at the hands of the Boston Celtics when the two clash for the second time in a week at Uline Arena tonight.

A victory over the Celts tonight would move the Caps one step nearer to a playoff berth in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division.

The Caps are five games ahead of Boston and Baltimore's Bullets who are tied for fourth, and the three have only eight games remaining on their regular season schedules.

The Celtics will bring in two former Washington favorites for tonight's games, with John Mahnken holding down the pivot post and Sonny Hertzberg at one of the guard positions.

An interesting sidelight to the game will be a private battle between Hertzberg and Freddie Scolari, two of the best little men in the league.

Scolari at present has a better scoring average with 13.2 while Hertzberg is hitting for a 10.9 pace.

Tony Lavelli, talented Boston forward, will also provide halftime entertainment when he will render an accordian solo.

Lawrence Gets 28, Armstrong Wins, 59-55

Gene Lawrence scored 28 points to pace Armstrong to a 59-55 overtime win over Carver of Baltimore, last night at Banneker Junior High. The win gives Armstrong a 15 to 4 record.

Armory Diver Can't Ask for 2d Chance

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

When a man dives from a perch 95 feet high into a pool of water 5½ feet deep, he should have his head examined.

Being without my pocket knife, I didn't probe around in Billy Outten's head, but I did interview him before he performed the stunt at the opening of the All-American Sportsmen's and Outdoor Show at the National Guard Armory yesterday.

Haight

I'm an old diver myself—and no wise cracks about the number of dives I've been in.

Once when I was young and sprightly, I climbed up the mast of a fishing boat at Colonial Beach, Va., to see what the surrounding country looked like from there.

Some of my good friends spread the word that I was going to dive. A big crowd gathered and, rather than being graded as a first-class heel, I had no choice.

In fairness I must report that I did a perfect swan dive to within a foot of the water. From that point, until I came to in a rowboat, I'm not sure exactly how I looked. However, I will say that, for all intents and purposes, my hopes for winning a male beauty contest had passed by the boards.

Now Brother Outten confines his dive to 95 feet for the reason that that's as near to heaven as he can get within the confines of the Armory. He would like to make it the standard height with him—110 feet—though his record is 120 feet into a 9-foot pool.

I thought there was a gimmick connected with his act, but he swears the water is the kind that comes out of my spigot.

He denies, most emphaticaly, that he uses soft water.

Outten says he learned to swim in a pool at his native Hollywood, Fla. when some boys shoved him off a tower.

"Always after that I was afraid somebody would push me, so I dove," he explained.

He was only 15 when he started diving for altitude and then it was only for his own amusement. But it wasn't long before he discovered people would pay to see him risk his skin, so he made it a career.

He collected a few diving titles like Florida State champion and Atlantic Seaboard titlist before turning pro 15 years ago.

Since he has confined his effort from the perch to the bird bath into which he now dives, he hasn't missed. This is just as well too, because if he fails to hit the water—well, he leaves a job open, if you know what I mean.

Brother Outten has two other people in his act—Johnny Bruner and the latter's wife, Dorothy.

The young lady is from Audubon, N. J. and is a former tumbling champion of New Jersey. When hired by Outten, she gave him a vivid account of her ability, being adept, she said, at hand flips, somersaults, etc.

"It wasn't until I took her to a pool for the first time that I found out she was a dry land diver," said Billy. "But she learned fast and is now one of the best in the business."

Her husband, Johnny, now essays the comedy roles in the act, and, according to Billy, does a swell job.

Oh, I forgot to write—Outten dives from the 95-foot perch backwards.

N. C. State, Duke Gain Tourney Final

Durham, N. C., March 3 (AP).—Duke, ranked last in the pre-meet standing and top-seeded North Carolina State tonight moved into the finals of the Southern Conference basketball tournament. Duke surprised second-seeded William and Mary, 60-50, and N. C. State outlasted challenging Wake Forest, 59-53.

State meets Duke tomorrow night in its bid for a fourth straight title.

Wake Forest, beaten twice over the regular season by N. C. State, once by 38 points, gave the Wolfpack all it could handle tonight.

Four foul goals in the last 20 furious seconds of play sewed up the game for State as Wake Forest gave the top seeded club a tremendous battle in a bid to turn in its second big upset. The Deacons yesterday bounced third seeded George Washington out of the tournament.

The victory may prove costly for State. Ace Forward Dick Dickey injured his left leg, which has caused him previous trouble, early in the second half and he was on the bench until the final minute. There was some question as to his ability to play tomorrow.

Duke's unexpected victory over the highly-favored Virginians climaxed a brilliant comeback by the Blue Devils who dropped from first to eighth place in the Conference in less than three weeks.

They simply ran William and Mary into the boards with a smashing all-around exhibition of inspired play.

Griff Says He Won't Top $13,000 Bid

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Orlando, Fla., March 3.—Two overt acts today stamped Outfielder Ed Stewart as the Washington Club's first stubborn holdout case since 1935.

Stewart, in a second letter received by President Clark Griffith today, reiterated his demand for more than the $13,000 salary offered him and ignored Griffith's ultimatum to report by Sunday.

The Nats' owner is prepared to let his top-hitting outfielder sit out the 1950 season in California, he declared today. Griffith is in a high pet at what he calls Stewart's "outrageous demands," and declared "I won't offer him another nickel, and we'll get along without him."

Holdout Bolton Recalled

Not since Catcher Cliff Bolton held out against signing a contract until July, 1935, has Griffith been faced with such a stalemated case as Stewart presents.

If the outfielder is not in camp by Sunday, he will be automatically suspended and fined against the day when, and if he does change his mind, said Griffith. "And if he reports late, he'll have to get into condition at his own expense."

Griffith's anger at Stewart is mounting almost hourly. He points out that he obtained Stewart from the Yankees in 1946 as a $5000-a-year player, and raised him to $12,000 at the start of 1948. "This year I gave him a $1000 increase even though I wasn't sure he deserved it," said Griffith. "When he asks more than $13,000, he's far out of line."

There are bargaining points on both sides. Stewart will be 34 in June and does not represent any long-term investment by Griffith. On the other hand, the left-handed hitting Stewart was the No. 1 outfielder on the Washington club last season and is making his holdout demands at a time when the club's outfield situation is getting critical.

Harris in Middle

Bucky Harris is viewing the negotiations with mixed hope and alarm. He wants Stewart on his squad, but will abide by Griffith's decision. Harris is siding with the club owner in the view that Stewart is being amply paid for a fellow who hit only .284 last season, only .279 the year before.

Unless Stewart changes his mind quickly and flies into camp, Harris will be able to count only four outfielders on his roster—an absurdly low number. Stewart's stubborness occurs at a time when Roberto Ortiz is being hospitalized after an operation in Cuba.

The four available outfielders Harris will have, barring Stewart, are Irving Noren, the expensive rookie from the Coast League; Sam Mele, a Red Sox discard; Gil Coan, three-time flop with the Nats, and

Read How Prof. Sawyer Runs Phillies

An authentic college professor is managing a major league baseball club with erudition and softly spoken words for the first time in the history of the game.

The story of this new type of manager is almost as fascinating as the diverting comedy about baseball that Hollywood turned out last year entitled "It Happens Every Spring."

And who is this professional manager?"

He is Edwin Melby Sawyer, B. S., M. S., manager of the Philadelphia Phillies of the National League."

How the soft-spoken Sawyer goes about handling the Phillies will be told in a series of six articles beginning in The Washington Post next Monday, March 6.

Spring Training Notes

Stephens, Bosox Try Again to No Avail

Long Beach, Calif., March 3 (AP).—Shortstop Vernon Stephens and General Manager Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox got together via long distance telephone but nothing came of it regarding the player's holdout.

Stephens, at his home here, related the conversation as follows:

"Cronin called me last night. He offered me a price. I told him I wouldn't go for it. He told me that was the 'price we set.'"

"Then he said, 'Well, see you later,' and that's all there was to it.

"I'm just going to sit here and wait it out."

Stephens said Cronin asked him not to discuss the financial terms, so he didn't.

Wakefield Gives In

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 3 (U.P.).—The threat of being traded away today forced holdout Outfielder Dick Wakefield of the New York Yankees to knuckle under to a 25 percent pay slash and sign his contract for about $17,000.

Wakefield, obtained from the Detroit Tigers in a winter deal, had been holding out for $19,700—only a 12½ percent from his pay last year.

Campanella Still Ill

Vero Beach, Fla., March 3 (AP).—Roy Campanella, Brooklyn Dodgers catcher who came down with the flu after yesterday morning's practice, was confined to his room today with a temperature of 101.5. His condition is not regarded as serious.

President Branch Rickey said today he did not expect Jackie Robinson here until next Monday.

"I told him to stay in Hollywood until his picture work was finished, so he won't have to go back," said Rickey. "He is working to get his weight down, and is succeeding."

We'll Win, Says Boudreau

Tucson, Ariz., March 3 (AP).—Lou Boudreau reversed himself today and predicted the Cleveland Indians would take the American League pennant.

Today he figured the Tribe a winner and says the other seven clubs will finish in this order: Boston, Detroit, New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Washington and St. Louis.

Reiser Hauls in Jethroe's Drive

Bradenton, Fla., March 3 (AP). Sam Jethroe, the Boston Braves' first Negro player, hit the longest ball during today's pair of workouts but he was not thrilled. The fleet Pete Reiser made a somersault catch of Jethroe's 400-foot drive.

3 Tigers Ailing

Lakeland, Fla., March 3 (AP).—Three players came up with minor ailments today as the Detroit Tigers went through their third day of practice with bunting the principal order of the day.

Pitcher Paul Calvert had to leave the practice field midway in the session when he developed a sore ligament in his lower back. Infielder Eddie Lake also left the field early because of a severe cold and outfielder John Creel reported he had a sore throat.

Dom DiMaggio Plays Short

Sarasota, Fla., March 3 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox pitchers did most of the laboring during today's drill but Manager Joe McCarthy devoted some of his attention to infielders Johnny Pesky, Bobby Doerr, Billy Goodman and outfielder Dom DiMaggio.

That quartet, who reported early to gain a jump on the rest of the squad, which is due here next Monday, went through fielding practice with DiMaggio at shortstop. McCarthy advised DiMaggio that such work would improve his ground ball handling.

Johnson Gets Early Test

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 3 (AP).—Righthander Don Johnson will be on the hill for the New York Yankees when they meet the St. Louis Cardinals March 11 in the World champions' first exhibition game.

"I might as well find out what he can do—and find out early," Manager Casey Stengel said today.

Holy Cross Barely Saves Perfect Record

New York, March 3 (AP).—Unbeaten Holy Cross won its 29th straight basketball game tonight, barely shading the New York A. C., 58-56, on Frank Oftring's set shot with 15 seconds left.

Wall, Riley Reach Finals

Ormond Beach, Fla., March 3 (AP). Mary Agnes Wall of Menominee, Mich., and Polly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex., won their way to the finals of the twenty-second annual South Atlantic Women's Golf tournament here today.

Pro Football Loop Becomes NFL Again

Philadelphia, March 3 (AP).—In a roundabout way, the National Football League admitted today that it didn't merge with the All-America Conference. Instead it merely gobbled up the AAC.

Commissioner Bert Bell didn't put it that way in announcing that professional football will operate next year as the National Football League and not the National-American Football league.

But the implication was clear. He said 1950 will mark the thirty-first continuous year of the NFL.

Last December Bell in announcing the "merger," described the NAFL as a "new league." It expired today without one football game having been played in the NAFL.

Bell said the decision to stick by the old name—NFL—was made upon the advice of counsel and unanimous consent of the 13 club-owners.

In 1950 the NFL will have 13 instead of 10 teams and a new designation for its two branches.

Last year there were five teams each in the league's "division," labeled "Eastern" and "Western."

LIU Accepts Bid To Invitational

New York, March 3 (U.P.).—Long Island University, which won the National Invitation Basketball tournament twice in the past, today became the sixth team to accept a bid to this year's tourney opening at Madison Square Garden, March 13.

L.I.U. is the second metropolitan club to get an invitation to the Madison Square Garden tournament beginning a week from tomorrow. St. John's of Brooklyn is the other.

The four other invited teams are Bradley, Duquesne, LaSalle and Syracuse.

Redland Hunt Postponed Week

The Redland Hunt, point-to-point race originally scheduled for this afternoon, has been postpo ed until next Saturday because of frozen ground which officials felt would make dangerous underfooting for the horses.

The race will be held next Saturday at 2 o'clock at Martin's Dairy in Oak Dale, Md., with the same schedule.

Lotowhite Poor 2d in $50,000 Cap

Miami, Fla., March 3 (AP).—Oil Capitol streaked to a six-length victory in the $50,000-added Flamingo Handicap at Hialeah race course today.

Hal Price Headley's Lotowhite was second, beating Calumet Farm's Theory by a nose. The Calumet colt was a length in front of Willorene Farm's Trumpet King.

By his victory Oil Capitol established himself as the winter book favorite for the Kentucky Derby today.

Oil Capitol, only horse owned by the Tulsa, Okla., automobile dealer Tom Gray, was timed for the mile and a furlong test for 3-year-old colts in 1:48 1/5, three fifth of a second off the world record.

The winner, a heavy 4-to-5 favorite, picked up $44,800 added money and returned $3.90, $2.90 and $2.30 for a $2 bet across the board.

Lotowhite, off at 15 to 1, paid $7.70 and $2.80. Theory, 2 to 1 at the start, returned $2.50 for a show ticket.

George D. Widener's Lights Up was fifth, R. H. Abercrombie's Stranded was sixth and Mrs. Janet N. Kelly's Gigolo was last.

Oil Capitol, with Jockey Kenneth Church up, was top weighted at 126 pounds, yielding from 3 to 15 pounds in the seven-horse field.

Oil Capitol, purchased by the Tulsa, Okla., automobile dealer, for $15,000 as a yearling, boosted his lifetime earnings to $161,306.

It was Oil Capitol's 16th victory in 24 starts. The dandelion loving speedster with the mis-spelled name, never has finished out of the money.

Oil Capitol was satisfied to run in third position until the half mile post. Jockey Church began to ease Oil Capitol into the front on the back stretch. By the time the colt had gained the advantage, there was no horse to match him. He drifted somewhat on the home stretch but turned on more power to beat his nearest rival by six lengths.

Bill Bennings Says:

At Charlestown

DEAR FOLKS: Although they would appreciate some warmer weather, officials here speak of the weatherman in only kindly terms. One of the chief factors in opening a track this early in the year is fit horses. With the help of the open winter hereabouts, the majority of thoroughbreds are ready. It's a good break for the customers too. With little or no snow and almost two months of April and May temperatures, almost all horses have been kept in training. Hence they can be judged off their December form. The fans will miss the race train but buses will be available. During the war years, Charlestown thrived without the special. For the stay-at-homes, two races will be aired daily over Chuck Dulane's WGAY program. See you on the rail.—BILL.

Hoyas Run In New York

New York, March 3. (AP).—Georgetown University shoots for the Knights of Columbus two-mile record tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden.

The Hoya quartet of Dave Boland, Dave Smith, Joe Deady and Pat O'Brien has run the distance in better than 7:45 for three weeks in a row, and the present K. of C. standard is 7:45.6.

Georgetown has also entered its mile relay quartet of Vince Cino, John Lynch, Jim Rams and Mort Kane, and hardler Bill Mitchell.

Fred Wilt and Co., meaning most of the runners who have been following him across the finish line during the indoor track campaign, toe the line in the mile.

Opposing Wilt will be John Joe Barry of Ireland, who turned in a commendable 4:10.2 earlier in the season; Horace Ashenfelter of the Penn A. C.; John Twomey of the Illinois A. C.; Tom Kirwan of Penn and Neil Pratt of Syracuse U.

Snow Passes Heads Field In Inaugural

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Charles Town opens today—short winter wasn't it?

After closing the East's racing season for 17 years, Charles Town does a neat switch and opens the 1950 campaign hereabouts. This is the earliest date any track has operated north of Oaklawn Park at Hot Springs, Ark.

All fears held in some quarters that a meeting starting on March 4 would have a horse shortage were dispelled when Racing Secretary Fred Burton's call for entries developed into an avalanche. Limit fields became available in all races, the first program luring 55 above the list.

Today's feature, the Inaugural Purse, drew eight horses, the limit here for safety's sake, and provides a clash for 3-year-olds and up over the "Charles Town course" of 120 feet more than six furlongs.

Snow Passes Heads Field

The race should develop into a battle between sophomores and older horses. The younger group is headed by the Southland Farm's Snow Passes, a formidable filly here last fall as a juvenile. She is assigned the light weight of 107 pounds and is trained by Norman Corbin of Washington.

6000 Expected

A District-owned entry will carry the hopes of those backing the veterans, Mrs. J. D. S. Coleman's Certified and First Boston, owned by H. M. Simpson, who trains the pair, are reported ready for action.

Another Capital City hope is Blue Rocket, owned by S. H. Rogers, and the colt goes postward teamed with G. S. Moore's Easter Morning as the Dan Chamblin entry.

Others slated to compete are J. I. Gibson's Rough Ordy, Edward Norton's Lewis A. D. and George Curtis' Max Town.

Despite the forecast for cold weather, a crowd of upward of 6000 is anticipated. The special race train has been canceled due to the coal situation. However, buses will be available at the Trailways Terminal at 12th st. and New York ave. nw.

Maryland Complies

Terps 'Sane' Once Again, Eligible for NCAA Tourneys

Savannah, Ga., March 3. (AP)—The University of Maryland today was found to be in compliance with the National Collegiate Athletic Association's "sanity code" and declared eligible for participation in all NCAA sports.

Announcement that the college, which has been under investigation, is now in compliance with the sanity code was made by Clarence P. Houston of Tufts College, chairman of the compliance committee in session here. The committee yesterday gave the green light to Boston College.

Houston said his committee cleared Maryland after the school's president, H. C. Byrd, had "furnished information requested."

Four other schools, Villanova, Virginia, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, and Virginia Military Institute, have still to notify the committee of their intention to comply with the sanity code, Houston declared.

Terp Boxers Host Tonight To Gamecocks

The Terps are host to South Carolina at 8:30 o'clock, and Catholic meets Western Maryland in an 8:30 Brookland match.

At Maryland, Terp lightweight knockout artist Andy Quattrocchi will be trying to avenge one of the three setbacks he's suffered in his three-year career.

His foe tonight is Gamecock Elerson Fowler, who outpointed Quattrocchi two years ago.

Quattrocchi's third defeat in 29 bouts was inflicted only last week by LSU's national champ, Ted Thrash, on a split decision.

At 145 pounds, South Carolina will trot out Jim Briggman, who outpointed Maryland's Eddie Rieder for the Southern championship last year. Bill O'Brien will oppose Briggman tonight.

In their dual meet last year, South Carolina defeated Maryland, 4½ to 3½. Ten bouts are carded tonight, including two in the freshman class.

Because three Western Maryland fighters are out with injuries, only five varsity bouts will be held at C. U. To fill out the program, however, there will be two intramural matches and a pair of exhibitions by Prince Georges Boys Club boxers.

Baltimore Track May Be Ready But Md. Plays It Safe

Bill 108, which has passed the Maryland Senate and House, authorizes the Maryland Racing Commission, in the event of necessity, to transfer a race meeting to another track to assure the State the revenue.

Officials of both the Baltimore Harness oval, now under construction, and Laurel Raceway deny the measure was aimed specifically to transfer this year's Monumental City session to Laurel.

A spokesman for Laurel Raceway said that the Howard County track would be the logical place to stage the meeting in the event that the new track, located on the Pulaski Highway (Route 40) is not completed by July 14, the planned date of opening. However, the fourth of the State's trotting establishments is progressing according to schedule. Steel will be erected March 18, it is reported.

The plant is said to be two months ahead of Laurel Raceway and Rosecroft when those tracks were built.

St. Stephen' Wins Boys' Club Title

St. Stephen's won the Boys' Club of Washington Grammar School basketball championship by defeating Holy Trinity, 30-21, yesterday at Georgetown Branch. Chuck Marginot's 14 points led the victors.

St. Stephen's finished the season with a record of 11 triumphs and one defeat.

Army, Navy Rivals Today In Six Sports

Annapolis, Md., March 3.—Army and Navy renew their rivalry Saturday when the Midshipmen go to West Point for basketball, fencing and rifle while the Cadets come here for competition in swimming, gymnastics and squash.

Coach Ben Carnevale's basketball team, with a won-loss record of 14 and 6, closes its season against the Cadets Saturday night in their twenty-seventh meeting.

Army holds a 14-12 edge, but Navy has won the last three times out. Last season's score was 42-40.

The Navy fencers, undefeated until losing a 14-13 decision to N. Y. U. last weekend, will carry a record of five wins and one defeat into their annual meet with Army.

Navy's rifle squad, winner of six of its seven dual matches, is the other Middle team at the Point Saturday, meeting the Cadets at 1:30 p. m. The only loss suffered by the Blue and Gold was to N. Y. U.

At Annapolis, Navy will be facing Army in swimming, gymnastics and squash. The natators, coached by Henry Ortland, still are looking for their first victory as they go against the Cadets at 3:45 p. m. They have lost all seven outings.

Kingsbury's 30 Pace St. Albans

By Jules Loh

Center Roger Kingsbury's 30 points led St. Albans to a 49-31 triumph over St. Paul's in the quarterfinals of the third annual Priority basketball tournament last night at Priory.

In the three other opening round games, Charlotte Hall defeated Chamberlain, 52-49, Priory downed Sidwell Friends, 40-29, and St. Anthony's nosed out DeMatha, 44-43.

The high scoring 6-foot 4-inch center combined 11 field goals with eight free throws for his performance.

Another high scoring center, Dave Kline, tallied 23 points to pace Charlotte Hall to its triumph. Joe Kolley's 21 points were high for Chamberlain in its losing battle with Charlotte Hall. The lead changed hands seven times and the score was tied four times in the close contest.

In what was probably the best game of the night, Al Torre's long set shot with one minute and 30 seconds left, pushed St. Anthony's into a 42-42 tie with DeMatha, its Catholic High League rival. Brad Frapart's layup gave the Tonys their victory.

Beach, Not Barrett, Gave Tip on Probe, Warring Says

INSPECTOR WALLRODT
Mentioned by Warring

The Washington Post
PVT. ERNEST REID
Verifies Richitt's story

Police Heads Paid Own Way At Key West

This is the story of how two Washington police officers—Maj. Robert J. Barrett and Capt. Anthony Richitt—went to Key West, Fla., when President Truman journeyed there for a vacation last autumn.

They were not guests of Mr. Truman. Neither were they, strictly speaking, members of the presidential party. They went to Key West on a press plane.

About mid-November, newspaper reporters who cover the White House had luncheon with Captain Richitt in a Pennsylvania ave. restaurant. Richitt then was in command of Precinct No. 3, which embraces the White House. He had extended many courtesies to White House reporters, and was popular with them.

At the luncheon two reporters suggested to Captain Richitt that he fly to Key West when President Truman went there for his vacation. They explained he could go in the plane which the press and radio would charter from National Airlines. Of course, they pointed out, he would be expected to pay his own fare.

Later the reporters decided to invite Captain Richitt's superior, Police Chief Barrett, whom they also knew well. This was done and Barrett accepted. Like Richitt, he paid his own way.

The cost of the press-radio plane is paid for on a pro-rata basis.

Major Barrett and Captain Richitt, according to reporters who flew to Key West with them on November 28, spent most of their time fishing or visiting friends in Key West and Miami. So far as the reporters could recall yesterday, the police officers never visited the "little White House" on the Navy's submarine base.

tions in the Third and Seventh Precincts in the 1949 fiscal year.

Warring testified the word went, not from Barrett to Warring to Richitt, but from Captain Beach to Warring to Richitt. Warring said he talked to Wallrodt a day after seeing Richitt.

A startling element of Richitt's charges was that he heard Warring speak of "the boss" and identify the term as meaning Major Barrett. Warring said he speaks of the Police Superintendent only as "the major" or "Major Barrett." Warring said he quoted Captain Beach as calling Major Barrett the boss.

Assistant United States Attorney John Fihelly, who heard the testimony, said a full transcript of the hearing would be requested from the committee for the use of United States Attorney George Morris Fay's office.

Barrett Denies Charge

Barrett himself was the first witness at 2:35 p. m. yesterday. Flanked by his secretary, Sergt. Louis Peters, and special assistant corporation counsel, Daniel B. Maher, he denied the charges.

"I never called Warring," Barrett said.

"On January 31, the day Captain Richitt said Warring told of being called by "The Boss," Barrett told the committee, "I left Washington that morning early and gave a speech in Richmond, Va., at noon and I didn't get back until 10 o'clock."

"If there's a mistake made on one thing there's a mistake made on many, many things," the chief of police said. "There's a whole lot of confusion on a whole lot of subjects."

As the hearing went on, Maher passed a number of notes on yellow scrap paper to Fischbach. They were handed up by Capt. Robert V. Murray, assistant chief of detectives. Fischbach would glance at the notes as they came up. Some appeared to have suggested questions for him to ask.

Fischbach started the ball rolling on the subject of the lack of gambling arrests in the two precincts where Warring is allegedly active. Barrett was warned that he was still under oath having been previously sworn.

Barrett testified he was asked by Fischback "to prepare for you a complete report as to why no gambling arrests were made in those precincts." Barrett said the request was made February 1.

"That same afternoon, I called Captain Beach and Captain Richitt and told them of the conversation I had had with you and ordered them to make a report the next morning, so I could give you the answers you wanted," Barrett said to Fischbach.

"I got no reply from Captain Richitt. I did from Captain Beach, the next morning," the chief said.

"On Thursday, February 2, I got some additional information and called both captains to my office and asked them why no gambling arrests had been made. Richitt told me he wasn't worried. Beach said his record went beyond many others and that there was very little gambling in his precinct."

Barrett said on February 12 he asked a Third Precinct lieutenant to prepare the report that he said Captain Richitt had not given him. He said he received the report, over Richitt's signature the next day, but the report covered gambling arrests since July, 1949, and he had asked for arrests in the year prior to July, 1949.

Captain Beach's report of gambling arrests was submitted in evidence, and supported Captain Richitt's contention that Barrett first asked for the report January 31, not February 1.

Captain Beach's report was dated January 31.

Date Called Incorrect

When this was brought to Barrett's attention by Fischbach, Barrett said, "That's incorrect, too. That should be dated February 1."

Richitt smiled.

Barrett grew red and said, in a loud voice, "Mr. Chairman and Mr. Fischbach: On January 31 I wasn't in the city. I left Washington to give a speech to the Lions Club in the William Byrd Hotel in Richmond at noon, and I have newspaper stories to prove it. I didn't get back to the city until 10 o'clock." A check with Richmond confirmed that Barrett spoke there at noon January 31.

During Barrett's testimony Richitt sat a little ahead of him and to one side. He looked in turn at Fischbach and Barrett as the question-and-answer session ran on.

They kept their places as Richitt took up his testimony to report the story he told reporters in a press conference at his home Thursday night.

Told to Call Major

Captain Richitt said it was Major Barrett who gave him the first word the committee wanted to know about the lack of gambling arrests in the last fiscal year in the Third and Seventh Precincts.

He said he called his precinct January 31 in the morning, and was told to call the major. He said he called the major from a box at 18th and L and was told that "Danny Maher had been talking the night before to Fischbach" about gambling cases in the two precincts. He said mention was made of Warring's operations in those precincts.

Richitt said he told Barrett, "We have made cases, major, and I'm not worrying about it."

He said Major Barrett told him to make a report of the gambling cases that had been made. He said he put two men to work on it, but they had to go through the arrest book to include all the "hijacking cases" — those made without a warrant where a place was broken up and suspects charged with disorderly conduct.

When Fischback asked if the search of the precinct records showed any arrests from gambling in No. 3 in the 1949 fiscal year, Richitt said, "No, I don't believe we had any except those without warrants."

Primary Responsibility

Richitt then cited an order last July 12 from headquarters, putting primary responsibility on precinct commanders for vice and gambling enforcement.

"Who had the responsibility before that?" asked Fischbach.

"I couldn't say," said Richitt. "We had to send in monthly reports of suspected places of gambling, and it was the practice for the vice squad to enforce the laws on gambling and vice."

Fischbach asked if Richitt had reported such suspected places before last July 12. Richitt said he had done so. Before that date, he said, he had no man in the precinct assigned to vice cases.

Finally, after 12 days, Richitt said he got word Barrett wanted the report on gambling cases; it was all collected, and typed, and sent in on February 13, through channels.

Warring Called Same Day

Richitt said his conversation with Barrett, in which the major said the report on gambling cases was wanted, took place around 9 a. m. or 9.15 a. m. on January 31.

He got his call from Warring, about 1 p. m. the same day, Richitt testified. He said Warring first proposed a meeting at Pete Dailey's 25th and G nw., in Foggy Bottom. He said Warring also suggested following Richitt home. But Richitt said he told Warring he'd have to come to the precinct if he wanted to see him.

Richitt said the interview with Warring lasted 12 minutes, and took place in the captain's office at the Third Precinct station. He said Warring asked him, "Have you heard about the committee?"

"What about the committee?" Richitt said he asked.

"About the number of gambling cases in No. 3 and No. 7," was Warring's answer, Richitt said.

Richitt said Warring then told him he'd been in No. 7 talking to Beach.

But, Richitt testified, when he asked Warring how he knew about the information the committee wanted, Warring replied "the boss called me" and then went on to identify "the boss" as Major Barrett.

He said he then asked Warring about the holdup in which gunmen got some $20,000 at pistol point in Warring's home early in January.

"Like to Take Care of You"

The finale of the interview, according to Richitt's testimony, was that Warring told the captain, "I'd like to take care of you," to the accompaniment of a shaking motion of his right hand, partly in his coat pocket. Richitt illustrated the motion for the committee.

"I took from the shaking motion that he wanted to pay me," Richitt testified.

Ritchitt said that when Warring said, "I'd like to take care of you," the captain rose said, "No thank you, mister, not me," and the interview was ended.

Fischbach asked whether Warring actually sought to give Richitt any money.

"No he did not," replied Richitt.

Fischbach asked Richitt several times what was the date of the morning talk with Barrett and the afternoon talk with Warring, and each time Richitt said it was January 31.

Fischbach said later he plans to present further evidence that may clear up the discrepancy between Captain Richitt's dating his talk with Barrett on January 31, and Barrett's insistance he had not called for the captain's report on gambling figures until after he had been asked on February 1 by Fischbach for the reports.

Richitt said it was on February 2 that he told Fischbach and Davis about the conference with Warring, in a meeting in the office of William N. McLeod, jr., District Committee clerk.

"You were told it would be thoroughly investigated," asked Fischbach.

"Yes sir," said Richitt.

Pvt. Ernest N. Reid, of No. 3, was called to the stand to tell what he heard of the Warring-Richitt conversation. Reid was the captain's clerk, working in his office, a 15-by-15-foot room. Reid said he was typing on one side of a big double desk, while Richitt and Warring talked on the other side of the desk.

Reid said the captain and the man he later learned to be Warring talked in very low tones but he was able to overhear parts of what was said.

Conversation Overheard

"The captain asked who sent him over and he replied 'the boss;' and in a louder tone that attracted my attention, he (Warring) said 'the major,'" Reid testified.

Did Reid hear any names, Fischbach wanted to know.

"No sir," said Reid, "just 'the major' or 'the boss.'"

Fischbach asked what prompted the mention of the 'major' and the 'boss,' and Reid said "I believe the captain asked why he (Warring) had come over."

Reid said he made no note of the date, and was not now sure what date it was.

When Fischbach asked about the shaking motion of the hand described by Richitt, Reid said he hadn't noticed it.

It was at the end of Reid's testimony that Barrett declared "I've got something I'd like to straighten out" and told of his January 31 visit to Richmond.

Warring approached the witness table flanked by two lawyers, H. Clifford Allder, associate of Charles E. Ford, and John Lewis Smith, jr. He ran into trouble on the first question:

"What is your business or occupation, Mr. Warring?" Fischbach asked.

Answers After Conference

After a hasty conference with Allder, Warring replied, "I refuse to answer that question on the grounds that I may tend to incriminate myself."

"In what respect," Fischbach asked?

Allder objected and subcommittee chairman James C Davis (D., Ga.), ruled Warring did not have to answer.

"Is there any business you have followed in the last 20 years that you can tell us without incriminating yourself?" Fischbach asked.

Warring then testified he had known Captain Richitt for "two or three years." He admitted having telephoned him and asked him for a conference, but could not place the date.

"What prompted you to call?" Fischbach asked.

"I had talked to Captain Beach over in Georgetown and he told me the Major had called him and complained to him about no raids in '7' and '3' last year." I told Captain Beach I was going to tell Richitt about it."

"Why did you tell Captain Richitt?"

"Captain Richitt is a friend."

"How long has he been a friend?"

"I always took him to be a friend as long as he has been there." Then Warring said he had seen Richitt infrequently.

Met In Jewelry Store

Warring testified he met Beach in Miller's Jewelry Store, 1222 Wisconsin ave. nw.

"He asked me if I knew of any gambling places in his precinct and I said, 'No, why? Have there been any complaints.' He said, 'yes, the boss called me this morning,'" Warring said.

"Who was the boss" Fischbach interrupted.

"Either the major or the inspector, I guess," Warring replied.

"Then I told him I didn't know of anything he had to raid over there anyway," Warring testified.

[William Miller, owner of the jewelry store, said he knows Beach but is barely acquainted with Warring. He declined to comment on the conversation between the two, which Warring said Miller witnessed.

[Beach was asked by The Washington Post how the meeting came about between himself and Warring.

["Well I was walking up the street and I saw Warring go into Miller's store. I followed him in. I said to him outright, 'Are you running any gambling places in Number 7?'"

Said He Had Complaints

["Warring said 'No. Have you had any complaints?'" Beach said. "I told him I had, that Major Barrett had asked me for a report on gambling in No. 7, and told him the committee wanted to know why there had not been any raids in 3 or 7."

[Beach said he then warned Warring that if he was mixed up in anything in the Seventh Precinct he would be locked up.

[Beach said he submitted his gambling report to Barrett on the evening following the morning Barrett asked for it. Beach's report was dated January 31.]

After he had talked to Beach, Warring resumed on the stand, he called Richett from the Miller store He said he told Beach he was going to see Richitt and drove to Third Precinct headquarters at 2018 K st. nw.

"I told him I hadn't seen him around down at the 'Bottom'", Warring testified, "and he said he hasn't been down there."

Boss Called, He Said

"I asked him if he had heard about the House investigating committee and told him I had just left Captain Beach and Captain Beach had told me that the 'Boss' had called him and wanted to know about why there had been no arrests."

"Then I told Captain Richitt that I didn't know of many places to raid around there, just what I told Captain Beach."

"Had you earlier talked to Major Barrett? Fischbach interrupted."

"No sir," Warring replied.

"Had you heard from him?"

"No, sir."

"Had you heard from any police officer other than Captain Beach?"

"No, sir."

Warring and Wallrodt

Warring also revealed he visited a third police officer, Inspector George R. Wallrodt. He said he saw Wallrodt the day after talking to Richitt at Pete's Restaurant, 25th and G sts. nw.

Warring testified that he called Wallrodt to find out if he had heard anything about the committee?"

"Were you worried about the committee?" Fischbach asked him.

"No, sir."

"Did you have any idea he would telll you anything?"

"If he knew, I figured he would."

"You considered yourself good enough friends to anticipate that if he knew he would tell you?"

"Yes, anything that wouldn't get himself in trouble," Warring replied.

His Interviewer

Warring told this story of his interview with Inspector Wallrodt:

"When the man sitting there with him got up and walked out, I was only about 10 feet away and I walked over and joined Inspector Wallrodt. I didn't talk to him any longer than five minutes.

"It was between 2:30 and 3 p. m.

"I asked Inspector Wallrodt if he'd heard anything about the House committee and he told me he hadn't. I told him what Captain Beach had told me and what I had told Captain Richitt the day before.

"I think Wallrodt said he didn't know of any place over here where there was any gambling."

George S. Dailey, proprietor of Pete's Restaurant, 2500 G st. nw., took the stand and said he did not believe Warring and Inspector Wallrodt had conversed inside his restaurant.

Fischbach then called Wallrodt who flatly asserted he met and talked with Warring at Pete's on February 2. The inspector said Warring telephoned him the day before and asked for the meeting.

Fischbach showed interest in the car Warring said he drove from the jewelry store to the Third Precinct.

Warring described it as "the car I use all the time, a Mercury," but said it was registered in the name of John Sweeney, "a friend of mine who lives in Arlington."

"What's his business?" Fischbach asked.

Another Conference

"I don't know whether I should answer that," Warring replied. Then, after a conference with Allder, he said, "I refuse to answer that on the grounds that my answer might tend to incriminate me."

[A John Sweeney was a member of "The Warring Mob" in 1936, before Emmitt Warring was jailed for income tax violation conspiracy and tampering with the jury that first tried him for conspiracy.]

Warring also testified he gave Richitt many details concerning the hold-up robbery January 9, when armed bandits took $20,000 from Warring and his brother-in-law, William Cady, in Warring's home at 3900 Macomb st. nw.

Fischbach asked Warring if he had given any indication that he would "take care of" Richitt.

"I positively did not say I wanted to take care of him," Warring replied.

"Have you ever given any money to anyone on the police force?" Fischbach asked.

"No. sir."

"Has any one on your behalf ever given money to anyone on the police force?"

Warring paused briefly, looked at Allder, and then said, "No."

Refused Income Data

Warring refused to give the committee information on his income. He said he would refuse to turn over his books if the committee sought to subpena them.

Counsel Fischbach quizzed Warring at length about his personal finances.

In reply to questions, Warring said:

He keeps books for purposes of income tax returns.

He keeps his own books, has neither an auditor or an accountant.

He banks at the Hamilton National Bank, 20th and Penna. ave. nw.

He has a safe deposit place at the Hamilton National Bank and no other except a safe in his home.

Ward Burdine, of Takoma Park, Md., an employe of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, makes out Warring's income tax returns. Burdine does not get Warring's books, but only figures furnished by Warring.

[Burdine, 9 Ash ave., Takoma Park, Md., who said he has been an employe of the Bureau of Internal Revenue for 35 years, admitted last night that he has made out Warring's income tax return but said this is a service provided any taxpayer by the bureau.

["He comes to the office and I make them out," said Burdine. "He is not a personal friend and I see him only once a year, when he comes in to have his tax return computed.

["He has received no different treatment than any other taxpayer who comes to our office and wants help in preparing a tax return."

[Burdine said he had never received a fee from Warring. That, he said, "is against the law."]

"Would you be willing to submit your books," asked Counsel Fischbach.

"No sir," Warring said quietly.

Fischbach asked whether warring would turn over his books in response to a committee subpena, or would exercise his constitutional right not to do so. Warring said he would use constitutional immunity.

Fischbach asked on what amount Warring paid income tax in 1948.

"I don't know, sir," said Warring.

Checking Account

Warring said he has both a checking account and a savings account in the Hamilton National Bank, but "I really don't know" how much is in them. He said he does business in cash, he doesn't use checks, he has no charge accounts at department stores. When he needs money, he said, he goes to the bank, but he makes deposits "very seldom."

Fischbach asked Warring whether he had ever been convicted of any offense.

Before Warring could reply, Attorney Allder spoke up and said "I think that's a matter of public record."

"All I want is yes or no," Fischbach said.

Allder said the answer would be "yes"; Warring then answered Fischbach's question by saying, "Yes, sir."

Fischbach asked whether there was any lawyer whose services Warring regularly used.

Attorney Ford

"I have used Mr. Charles Ford," Warring said.

"Over what years?" asked Fischbach.

"I think the last time was in 1939," Warring replied.

Attorney Allder earlier in the investigation had appeared as a witness before the committee to testify about the case of former numbers writer whose bail bond and fine had been paid for him by others.

Wallrodt said he expected the convicted gambler would talk about enforcement of gaming in the Third Precinct and was somewhat "mystified" that Warring did not. "But I was reluctant to ask questions," the inspector said, "I wanted him to volunteer the information."

Turning to Barrett, Fischbach asked if he wanted to make any further statements.

"I still think Richitt is wrong in his date. I called Beach and Richitt to my office on February 1."

"I observe that the report of Captain Beach submitted to the committee is dated January 31," said Fischbach. "Is there a discrepancy?"

"Yes, I wasn't here. It should have been February 1," Barrett replied.

Sergt. Louis Peters, Barrett's secretary, said the police chief left between 9 and 10 a. m. January 31 for Richmond, Va. "and I know I put in no calls for Richitt on January 31." Peters told Fischbach he called Beach and Richitt between 3 and 4 p. m. February 1, asking them to come to headquarters.

Fischbach then turned to Richitt: "Is it possible you were in error on the dates?"

Richitt stood up and said firmly "It was on a Tuesday, January 31 about 9 a. m. I was in Murphy's when I got a message to call Barrett's office immediately.

"Will it," Barrett volunteered, "make things clearer to show I went to Richmond on January 31?"

"There were several reasons," said Barrett, reminding the committee that it had a copy of Maher's summary of complaints against the captain.

Pay Raise for GPO Approved by Deviny

Pay boosts from 5 to 11 cents an hour for more than 2700 employes in the Government Printing Office here were approved yesterday by Public Printer John Deviny.

The increases were made effective as of 8 a. m. yesterday.

At a meeting yesterday, the Joint Congressional Committee on Printing approved the wage plan offered by Deviny after a short discussion. The Public Printer made the offer to his employes last November, but the printers and bookbinders refused it and appealed to the joint committee for more substantial increases. Their appeals were rejected.

Employes pointed out at the hearing that Deviny had introduced a new method to determine GPO wage rates. Instead of giving all employes a flat increase, the Public Printer offered his employes the "weighted average" salary for comparable work paid to similar employes in 25 different cities. The employes argued that living costs were higher here and wages, too, should be higher.

Wage Scales

This group of employes was given increases from $2.38 to $2.43 an hour: printers, pressmen, carpenters, electricians, machinists, painters, and pipefitters. Bookbinders and off-set platemakers were increased from $2.29 to $2.34. Stereotypers and electrotypers were hiked from $2.50 to $2.60. Photo engravers were increased from $2.63 to $2.73, and lithographic negative cutters and photographers, from $2.45 to $2.50.

Head pressmen, machinists and other key employes were given an 11-cent-an-hour increase. Helpers, laborers and others in the semi-skilled class will be given proportionate pay raises.

Night Differential

A 15 percent pay differential for night work for all GPO employes was ordered by the Public Printer.

The GPO wage-boost will result in another pay raise for the several thousand per diem employes at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. It's the established policy of the bureau to follow GPO on salaries.

INQUIRY: The Army has ordered a change in its employes loyalty procedure to keep the Secretary fully informed of inquiries and decisions. Other changes are also in the works.

The changes are the outgrowth of an investigation by the Carst Civil Service subcommittee into the the Army's big St. Louis Records Center. The Carst group is looking into charges of Communist infiltration there.

Army Secretary Gordon Gray yesterday promised the subcommittee to make changes in key personnel at the center and to tighten up on the department's loyalty program. He said it would take another month to complete the Army's own investigation of the center and he thanked the subcommittee for calling irregularities there to his attention.

DELAY: Due to the coal shortage, the Civil Service Commission has indefinitely postponed its examinations for Census clerk and tabulating machine operator which was to have been held today for 10,000 applicants in four high schools here.

D. K. Albright Rites Monday In Maryland

Funeral services for Daniel Kingsley Albright, 76, a retired plate glass manufacturer, will take place at 11 a. m. Monday, at the Warner Pumphrey Chapel, 8434 Georgia ave., Silver Spring.

Mr. Albright

Mr. Albright, who was a resident of the Washington area, died Thursday. He lived recently at Hillandale, Md., and was the father of Mrs. Constance Snow, head of the Snow Concert Bureau here.

A native of Arcanum, Ohio, he had lived in Indiana, Pennsylvania, Missouri and Michigan. He built the first annealing lehr for plate glass in the United States at Alexandria, Ind. He was with the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., then went into independent manufacturing at St. Louis and for several years was president of the Independent Plate Glass Manufacturers Association. Still later, he was manager of glass manufacture for the Ford Motor Co., devising a continuous process from mixture of materials to finished windows and windshields. He retired several years ago because of his health.

A thirty-second degree Mason and life member of Syria Temple of the Shrine at Pittsburgh, Pa., at one time he taught a large Bible class at Butler, Pa., and was chairman of the County Board of Education there.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Margaret Weaver Albright; two daughters, Mrs. Snow and Mrs. Celestine Margaret Adams, of Washington; three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Burial will be at Colesville Cemetery.

D. O. Throgmorton

Funeral services for Daniel Olin Throgmorton, 56, former assistant director of the Bureau of Accounts and Audits for the Social Security Agency, were held yesterday at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Mr. Throgmorton, who retired from Government service more than three years ago, died Wednesday at his home at Pass-A-Grille Beach, Fla. He lived in Arlington for 25 years before moving to Florida shortly after his retirement.

A native of Pigott, Ark., he served overseas during World War I. He was an instructor in the audit training section of the Bureau of Internal Revenue income tax unit and a senior investigator with the General Accounting Office before his assignment with Social Security.

Mr. Throgmorton is survived by his wife, Mrs. Inez Palmer Throgmorton; a daughter, Mrs. Nancy Lee Olmsted of Arlington, and a sister, Mrs. Nora Dunlap of Detroit, Mich.

Stevenson Of Navy Dies At Annapolis

The man who was the boss farmer for the United States Naval Academy and also one of its prize trouble-shooters, is gone, friends were notified here yesterday.

He was Commander Charles W. Stevenson, 66, veteran of 45 years' service, who has commanded for the past 10 years the academy dairy farm near Annapolis.

With what fellow officers described as his customary efficiency and thoroughness, he took the farm when it was much smaller than its present approximately 1200 acres.

He built the farm, cleared land, made it raise all its own necessary feed, and built the dairy herd to 580 head of purebred Holstein cattle. In the process, he made it one of the outstanding dairy farms in the East, fellow officers said. Now the farm is self-sustaining.

A native of Bradford County, Pa., Commander Stevenson enlisted in the Navy in 1905, and stayed an enlisted man through 1916. He was commissioned an ensign in the Supply Corps early in 1917.

Commander Stevenson's wife died in 1948, and he became ill last June. Since then he has been in the Naval Hospital at Annapolis, where he died Thursday.

Funeral services will be at the Fort Myer Chapel, Monday, and burial will be at Arlington Cemetery. Pallbearers will be Vice Admiral E. D. Foster, Rear Admiral A. M. G. Slarrow, C. W. Fox, John Ball, and C. L. Austin, and Capt. P. P. Brown.

Commander Stevenson is survived by two brothers, D. B. Stevenson, 3000 Connecticut ave. nw., and A. E. Stevenson, of Toledo, Ohio, and one sister, Mrs. Helen Selts of South Shore, Md.

Stanley Shaner Suffers Fatal Heart Attack

Stanley A. Shaner, 51, assistant printing clerk of the Senate, suffered a heart attack yesterday morning as he was preparing to leave his home for work.

Mr. Shaner, who lived at 1414 N. Patrick Henry dr., Arlington, Va., had suffered two previous heart attacks, according to his wife.

Well known on the "Hill," Mr. Shaner, a native of Washington, had been in Government employ for about 25 years. He had been attached to the Senate staff since May, 1943.

He served in the Navy in World War I and was a member of the temporary Coast Guard Reserve in World War II.

He was a member of the Coast Guard League and the Coast Guard Auxiliary as well as Potomac Lodge No. 5, F. A. A. M.

One of his hobbies was serving as skipper and instructor for a group of sea scouts.

He attended Trinity Presbyterian Church in Arlington.

Funeral services will be at 2 p. m. Tuesday in the Chambers funeral home in Georgetown. Burial will be in Arlington Cemetery.

In addition to his wife, Mr. Shaner is survived by a son, Stanley H. Shaner, and two sisters, both of Washington, Mrs. J. E. Lynch and Mrs. N. H. Petrola.

Mrs. Lulu H. Field

Mrs. Lulu Harvey Field, active DAR worker and Washington resident for 39 years, died yesterday at Doctors Hospital after a short illness.

She was the widow of Arthur S. Field, formerly with the Interstate Commerce Commission, who died 17 years ago.

She attended the Georgetown Presbyterian Church and was a member of the Presbyterial Society. Other groups in which she was active included the Wellesley Club, the 20th Century Club; and the Capt. Joseph Magruder Chapter, DAR, of which she was past regent. She was especially prominent in educational work of the District DAR.

Surviving are her sister, Miss Kathrina L. Harvey, of the Columbia rd. address; two sons, Robert H. Field of Cos Cob, Conn., and Theodore S. Field of New York City; a daughter, Miss Helen K. Field of Stamford, Conn.; and one grandson, Thomas M. Field of Cos Cob.

40 Promising Young Scientists Exhibit Odd Hobbies Here

The Washington Post

TEEN-AGER'S HOBBY—This is no atom-smasher, but it's enough to make your hair stand on end. Dennis Philip Malone, 17, of Kenmore, N. Y., one of the teen-age exhibitors in the Science Talent Search display at the Hotel Statler, displays his Van de Graaf generator, which can build up some 250,000 volts, more than enough to raise your hair toward the ceiling

Time was when teen-agers collected stamps, played hookey, or spent summers at the old swimmin' hole.

But a look last night at the habits and hobbies of 40 promising young scientists shows that things may be different today.

Today, they collect fruit flies, "brand" ants to follow their habits, poll the comic book reading public, make atom busters, plot birdcalls, pickle worms, or study high blood pressure's effects on a rat's innards.

At least those were the activities exhibited at the Statler Hotel last night by the finalists in the Nation-wide science talent search, competing for $11,000 in Westinghouse science scholarships. The winners will be announced at a closing banquet, Monday.

Lenore Taylor, senior at Utica (N. Y.) Free Academy (high school), was the one interested in fruit flies. Her interest was not in the flies so much as in radiation's effect on them, she confessed.

Working with two species, she had them bombarded with X-rays of fixed intensities last October. Since then she's studied their offspring unto the seventh generation, and found a high incidence of mutations (withered wings, wings joined to legs, wingless, etc.).

Another teen-age scientist, Cynthia Jackson, 17, of Forest Hills, N. Y., admits she spends her time trying to find out if ants can learn. She showed a maze she constructed to see if ants can learn the shortest routes to food supply. She paints tiny markings on individual ants to make sure she's seeing if the right ones do learn.

Only a few do, she reported.

Her sister, also 17, and also a regional contest winner, is Patricia Jackson, who displayed her hobby: tracking bird-nesting habits by scientifically plotting the direction of their songs. She couldn't bring the 25-acre woodland tract to the Statler, but did produce charts of her findings.

A third sister, Phyllis Jackson, also 17, didn't enter the science contest. Yes, the Jacksons are triplets.

Stanley George Korenman of Brooklyn, N. Y., and all of 17 years old, has a hobby of tracking down the preference of comic book readers. He admits he liked to read them himself when he was young. Now, he just does it in line of duty.

One of the contestants displayed as his hobby a device that virtually makes your hair stand on end. It's a Van de Graaf generator with which he can build up some 250,000 volts, more than enough to point your hair ceilingward.

Count Alfred Korzybski

Count Alfred Korzybski, 70, Polish-born founder and director of the Institute of General Semantics, died of a heart attack at the

Korzybski was the author of "Science and Sanity: an Introduction to Non-Aristoitelian Systems and General Semantics," published in 1933. He founded the institute in 1938.

Born in Warsaw of Polish nobility, Korzybski served in the Imperial Russian army during the first World War. He came to this country after the war and became an American citizen.

Some of Korzybski's findings in his studies of semantics were influenced by his work with mental patients of St. Elizabeth's Hospital here in 1925-26.

He is survived by his wife, the former Mira Edgely. Funeral services will be held at 12:30 p. m. today at the institute. The remains will be cremated.

Edgar Allen Drumm

The funeral of Edgar Allen Drumm of Mitchellville, Md., will be at 1:30 p. m. today in the Ritchie Brothers funeral home, Marlboro. Burial will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Drumm, who was 67, died Thursday at his home. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Hazel Matlack Drumm.

For 26 years he served as employment and vocational secretary at the Washington YMCA, retiring from that post in July, 1947. Earlier he had been connected for 12 years with the Y in New York City.

During his years in Washington he took an active part in Community Chest affairs and served for some time as secretary of one of the chest divisions.

Mr. Drumm was born in Copake, N. Y., in 1883. For a number of years he had been a member of Mount Oak Methodist Church in Mitchellville.

Funeral Rties Held For William R. Abbott

Melborune, Fla., March 3 (U.P.)—Funeral services were held here today for William Rufus Abbott, 80, Chicago civic leader and former president of the Illinois Bell Telephone Co.

Jeremiah Cullinane

Jeremiah Cullinane, 77, retired Bureau of Engraving and Printing plate printer, died early yesterday at his home, 8 Bayard blvd., Crestview, Md., after an illness of several months.

A native of County Cork, Ireland, Mr. Cullinane came to Washington about 1890. In 1902 he married the former Mary Agnes Reidy, also of Ireland, who died in 1937. After 40 years in the Bureau of Engraving, he retired in 1930, becoming a real estate operator.

Surviving are six children, John and Joseph Cullinane, both of Los Angeles, Calif.; Leo of 4906 Westway dr., Crestview; Michael of 4616 Massachusetts ave. nw.; Mrs. Margaret Rosetta, with whom Mr. Cullinane made his home, and Mrs. Ann Cave, 1211 Highland dr., Silver Spring; a sister, Mrs. Annie Newheiser, 5001 Westway dr., Crestview and 21 grandchildren.

Funeral service plans are pending. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Woman Dead Of Month-Old Fire Injuries

A 52-year-old Barroft Apartments telephone operator died yesterday morning in Arlington Hospital of burns she received a month ago apparently while smoking in bed.

The fire victim, Mrs. Margaret Patterson Shelor of 1120 S. Thomas st., Arlington, suffered second and third degree burns over 60 percent of her body February 2, when her bedclothing caught fire.

A native of Baltimore, Mrs. Patterson had marked her thirty-second wedding anniversary on March 1.

She and her husband moved to Washington shortly after their marriage in 1918, and moved again to Arlington last July.

Before going to work at the Barcroft Apartments, Mrs. Shelor was a teephone operator at the Veterans Administration in Washington.

A requiem mass will be sung at 9 a. m. Monday in the Nativity Catholic Church, 13th and Peabody st. nw.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Shelor leaves a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Dillon, 5616 13th st. nw.; a sister Mrs. Marie Schaub of Baltimore, and two grandchildren.

'Big Government' Perils Described to Women Voters

By Henry Rohland—The Washington Post

CAPT. RHODA MILLIKEN (right) chief of the Woman's Bureau of the Metropolitan Police Department, was awarded a citation yesterday for "effectively demonstrating her sense of responsibility as a citizen of Washington." The award was presented by the D. C. League of Women Voters at the close of its ninth annual all-day school at the Statler Hotel. Miss Milliken stops outside the meeting just long enough to buy one of the new "Votes for D. C." buttons which were distributed yesterday for the first time by the Home Rule Committee of the Central Suffrage Conference. Mrs. Louis Ottenberg (left) sold her the pin

By Norma Lanum

THE ninth annual all-day school of the D. C. League of Women Voters opened at the Statler Hotel yesterday on the premise "big government is here to stay" and then offered ways to cope with possible dangers of such "big government."

Theme of the school, which included speeches by two members of Congress, a historian and pyschologist, was "Our Growing Government and Individual Freedom."

In his keynote address before the some 800 participants in the school, Arthur Schlesinger, jr., Pulitzer Prize-winning historation, stated that our Government cannot grow indefinitely.

He said big government can grow into a totalitarian state, which, as illustrated by fascism and communism, is bad.

"But even short of totalitarianism, big government can prove dangerous," he warned.

"Point of No Return"

HE SPOKE of the "point of no return" in big government—the point at which "people lose control of the government and the government controls them."

"I don't think we're there yet, however," Mr. Schlesinger stated. "The opposition party has not yet been driven underground," he continued jokingly. "And as far as I know writers of anti-administration editorials are not being punished."

In a more serious vein, he said the same persons who denounce "Statism" want more Statism to restrict civil liberties.

He concluded by declaring that no problems of big government seem important as long as robust feelings of political freedom exist.

Panel on Budgeting

THEN FOLLOWED a panel discussion on government budgeting led by Senator Ralph Flanders of Vermont and Representative Chase Going Woodhouse of Connecticut. Dr. Louise N. Young, League member and author of "Understanding Politics" was moderator.

Senator Flanders acknowledged the existence of Mr. Schlesinger's "point of no return"—the point beyond which it is dangerous for government to expand. But he declared it comes when "private savings are no longer available for expansion of business."

He suggested our tax system be revised to make it attractive to put money back into business. He also advocated cutting excise taxes as an "experiment" to see if that might stimulate more buying.

In lieu of that, he suggested trying to reach the Russian people themselves—by expanding the Voice of America program and by dropping propaganda leaflets into agricultural districts of the Soviet Union.

Defense Budget Hit

REPRESENTATIVE Woodhouse also criticized the national defense budget. We spend too much money on national defense," she stated. I think it's time we turned our attention to peace."

She pointed out that our enemies play up our shortcomings at home and for this reason we must offer security to our own people while we fight hunger and insecurity abroad.

"We must fight monopoly of any kind," the Conecticut Congresswoman went on, "especially in the steel industry."

And she said the Government must help the farmes who must sell in a free enterprise system but must buy products, farm equipment, etc., from monopolies.

Also, she spoke in favor of decentralization of the wovernment, stating there are more opportunities for using Federal money under State administration.

Group-Living Theory

DR. JOHN W. POWELL, author of "Education for Maturity," introduced his new theory of group living during the afternoon sessions of the League School.

Through extensive group relationships, such as discussion groups, Dr. Powell feels that a more representative public opinion might be evolved and thereby aid in maturing our country.

The speaker stated that unless people are able to get together in groups and discuss problems freely, they cannot recognize distortions of thinking that infiltrate public opinion.

He also suggested that these group relationships might even solve the United States-Russian breach.

At the close of the school, the D. C. League awarded a citation to Capt. Rhoda Milliken, chief of the Woman's Bureau of the Municipal Police Department, for "effective demonstration of her sense of responsibility as a citizen of Washington."

Jewish Council To Form Section In Montgomery

A Montgomery County section of the National Council of Jewish Women will be organized next week after two years of planning.

The council, which is over 50 years old and counts a membership of 85,000 women in more than 200 sections of the country, will bring its educational, legislative and welfare program to a voting group immediately adjacent to the Capital. With great stress placed on active and informed citizenship, the National Council feels that a significant step is being taken here.

The new group will initiate a survey of the county's health and welfare programs with a view to filling an unmet community need on a non-sectarian basis. The establishment of new clinical facilities, recreational agencies and school testing devices are among projects in which other sections have taken part.

To Study Legislation

On the State and National level, section members will become acquainted with pending social welfare legislation and encouraged to form educational and actions programs. The National Council of Jewish Women also has operated for many years international welfare and educational projects in which local groups may participate. This work ranges from sending an accredited observer to the United Nations sessions to corresponding with and send parcels to war orphans overseas.

Guiding the planning for the new Montgomery County section is Mrs. H. Roller, past president of the District of Columbia Chapter and member of the Board of the National Council.

Luncheon Planned

More than 250 invitations were sent out to a "dessert luncheon" on Tuesday at 1 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Joseph Dessoff, 5025 Edgemoor Lane, Bethesda, "to discuss the Montgomery section. President pro tem of the group is Mrs. Alexander Wolf, 4502 Harling Lane, Bethesda.

Short talks will be given at this meeting by representatives of the National organization, explaining various aspects of the council's program. Representatives of other religious, charitable and educational organizations in the county are expected to attend the function, which will feature the formal signing of the charter petition by the newly organized membership.

Mrs. Dessoff To Talk From Pulpit

"Council Sabbath," annual religious observance of the D. C. Chapter of the National Council of Jewish Women, will be marked this weekend during the Jewish the Jewish Purim Festival.

Mrs. Joseph Dessoff, president of the local chapter of council, will mark "Council Sabbath" by taking over the pulpit from Rabbi Solomon H. Metz at Adas Israel Synagogue, 6th and I sts., to lead the congregation in a portion of the service this evening.

This morning, Mrs. Dessoff has been accorded the privileges by Rabbi Norman Gerstenfeld of speaking at the Washington Hebrew Congregation, 822 8th st. nw. She will speak on the purpose and ideals of the council.

You are cordially invited to attend an exhibit of 70 prize-winning French and American

Magnolia State to Select Its Blossom Princess Tonight

By Nicha Soure

A SPIN of a wheel tonight will name a Mississippi belle as the Magnolia State princess for the Cherry Blossom Festival.

The Mississippi State Society Congressional Ball will be held in the Shoreham Hotel, 9:30 p. m. Federal Judge Burnita Sheldon Matthews is general chairman of the dance assisted by Miss Ivy Lee Buchanan.

The nine Southern belles who will compete in the beauty pageant are the Misses Florence Helleman, Elise Keebler, Billie Sue Best, Bettye Jeanne DeForce, Carolyn Cooper, Patricia Anne Jones, Sally Wilie, Dorothy Butts and Cora Jeanne Whitehead.

The procession to the Wheel of Fortune will be led by John Hampton Stennis, jr., who in the role of Marshall will be costumed in court attire, complete with knee breeches.

Last year's Cherry Blossom Princess from Mississippi Miss Nell Eastland, will spin the wheel to determine the lass who will succeed her. The candidates for princess will be escorted by midshipmen from the Naval Academy who claim Mississippi as home.

In the receiving line with the president, H. Holden Rhymes, jr., will be Judge Matthews, Senator and Mrs. J. O. Eastland, Senator and Mrs. John C. Stennis, Representative and Mrs. John Rankin, Representative and Mrs. Jamie Whitten, Representative and Mrs. William M. Whittington, Representative and Mrs. Thomas G. Abernathy, Representative and Mrs. William A. Winstead, Representative and Mrs. William M. Colmer and Representative and Mrs. John Bell Williams.

All the laddies in green will promenade their favorite colleens across the floor of the Shoreham Hotel Ballroom to the strains of those old Irish tunes played by Dave McWilliams.

Tickets will be available at the door. Dancing will be from 10 p. m. to 1 a. m.

Postoffice Night

IT WILL be a "Post Office Department Night" when the New York State Society meets for their monthly party.

On Saturday, March 11, in the main ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel the New Yorkers will hold another in their series of dances honoring a Government department.

Following the receiption at 9:30 p. m., Empire Staters will dance to the music of Dave McWilliams Orchestra from 10 p. m. to 1 a. m.

Formal dress is optional to the New York dance. For further information about the dance or the society, call Miss Dorothy Gollinger during the evenings at Kenmore 3-5004.

Dances, Receptions

SOONER Staters have two events slated for the coming week.

On Sunday, the Oklahoma State Society will honor Washington residents from Oklahoma's fifth congressional district at its monthly open house. The event will take place at the Women's City Club, 4-6 p. m. Paul Bigbee, president, will act as host.

On March 10, the society will hold a dance in the main ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel. The reception will be at 9:30 p. m. to be followed by dancing until 1 a. m.

The Comptroller General and Mrs. Lindsay C. Warren will be honored at a reception Sunday given by the North Carolina State Society. The reception will be held from 4 to 6 p. m. in the Woman's National Democratic Club.

On Friday, March 10, the members and friends of the Massachusetts Society of Washington will rally around the "shamrock" one week early to pay tribute to Good Old St. Patrick.

Centennial Ball

REPRESENTATIVE Donald L. Jackson, president of the California State Society, announced plans at a recent meeting for a gala California Centennial Ball celebrating the 100 year anniversary of Statehood to be held in June.

Events of the near future include a congressional night in April and a Sunday brunch. At the February 24 meeting of the society, more than 100 Californians turned out to greet Paul C. Hoffman, ECA Administrator, who was guest of honor at the meeting.

Other officers of the society are Dan Kimball, Undersecretary of the Navy; Representative John Allen; Mrs. Floyd W. Benson, Mrs. Gertrude Scott, Arnold Kruckman, Newton B. Drury, and Mrs. E. A. Evans, vice presidents; Mrs. Clair Engle, secretary; Wallie Phair, treasurer; and Mrs. Carl Wheat, historian.

The Maryland State Society will celebrate Maryland Day at a reception and dance on Saturday, March 11 at the Shoreham Hotel.

The reception will be at 9:30 p. m. to be followed by dancing. Further information about the society may be obtained through Mrs. Winifred H. Grant at Emerson 1439 or William R. Clay at Johnson 3-5923.

Georgia Dance

THE Peach Staters will dance tonight in the West Ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel.

Preceding the Peach Blossom Ball, the society will present a musicale by Leonard Davis, baritone of Broadway concert stage and radio, accompanied by John Marville, director of the Hamline School of Music.

Following the musicale, which will be at 9 p. m., there will be a Grand March. Dancing will be at 10 p. m. with the society having tables available for members who would rather play bridge or canasta.

Receiving the guests with Mrs. Robert Ramspeck, president of the society, will be Mr. Ramspeck, Senator and Mrs. Walter F. George, Senator Richard B. Russell, Representative and Mrs. Eugene Cox, Representative and Mrs. Paul Brown, Representative and Mrs. Stephen Pace, Representative and Mrs. James C. Davis, Representative and Mrs. Prince Preston, Representative and Mrs. Don Wheeler, Representative and Mrs. John Wood, Representative Sidney Camp, Representative Henderson Lanham, Mr. and Mrs. Earle Newman, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Pace, jr., Mr. and Mrs. Clark Tate, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Peterson, and Maj. and Mrs. Roger Lawson.

Further information about the society may be obtained through Mrs. J. W. Thurston at Randolph 6833.

MISS MARY HAMILTON O'NEAL holds the devil red and blue silks of Calumet Farms for inspection at the All States Fair of the Congressional Club yeterday. The painting in the background is of Man o' War silhouetted in front of the map of Kentucky. Two Kentucky Derby tickets were on sale yesterday in addition to other articles from the "Blue Grass State" such as Sorghum molasses, hand-tooled leather belts and harnesses, and a cherry chair

Wares From Back Home

Typical Native Products Sold at All-States Fair

CACTUS lamps from Arizona, gasoline lawn mowers from Wisconsin and real Vermont maple syrup—these were some of the articles on sale yesterday at the Congressional Club's All-States Fair.

Wives of the Senators and Representatives were sent articles typical of their home States. The articles were sold yesterday with the proceeds going into the permanent fund of the club to support the service interests.

Today the club will hold an auction at 2 p. m. for the larger articles which remain. The fair was attended by club members and their guests.

Mrs. Truman dropped in at the Fair and, of course, visited her home State booth, which was probably the most diversified of the group with its textiles, dresses, shoes and paint wares.

The booths were scattered over the clubhouse with each State vieing for honors in originality and decor.

A Skye terrier puppy from the Iradell Kennels was for sale in the Connecticut booth while from the industrialized section of the State came clocks, cosmetics, lingerie and fishing rods and boots.

In the booths were jars of goat milk from Washington, Virginia hams, pralines from Alabama and a Bes-Ben hat depicting the Illinois country. Over a green crown, four cows grazed through corn and wheat with a few violets, the State flower, sprinkled throughout the "industries."

From Maine's booth could be bought a white pine picket fence, three feet high and about 50 feet long, not to mention cans of the famed Maine seafood and baked beans.

West Virginia had a placard over its lumps of coal, one of the major industries of the State, saying "This coal is not for sale. Orders being taken for future delivery" and as an afterthought in small letters' was added "we pray."

Chairman of the All States Fair was Mrs. Clifford Davis, wife of the Representative from Tennessee.

Mexico's Friend Gets Aztec Eagle

By Marie McNair

LATIN AMERICAN Chiefs of Mission and their wives and friends of the Mexican Ambassador and Senora de la Colina, gathered at the Mexican Embassy yesterday in honor of Samuel Guy Inman, friend of Latin America.

In a ceremony in the sunlit ballroom of the embassy, Ambassador de la Colina awarded Mr. Inman the glittering Order of the Aztec Eagle, in recognition of his interest in the Latin American people.

A former director general of the Christian Institute in Monterrey, Mexico, Mr. Inman was later professor of several Mexican universities, including the University of Mexico.

He founded and directed the policies of several newspapers, notably "La Nueva Democratia," and at one time was adviser on Latin American Affairs at Oxford. During the war he was chairman of the Latin American Refugee Fund and is the author of several books on our "Good Neighbors."

Their guests were members of the French Embassy, officials of the Corcoran Gallery of Art and personal friends, who later attended the special preview of the Hallmark Art Award paintings at the Corcoran Art Gallery. The French Ambassador, Henri Bonnet, who left for a visit to Paris last week, was represented by the Counselor of the embassy, Pierre Straud.

Senator and Mrs. J. William Fulbright and Mr. and Mrs. David Austin were among those entertaining at dinner before the Waltz Group dance at the Sulgrave Club last night.

PRINCESS Christian of Hesse was the guest in whose honor Mrs. George Maurice Morris entertained at luncheon yesterday at her home, The Lindens, on Kalorama rd.

Mrs. Valentine Pottle, wife of Captain Pottle, USN, retired, entertained a group of her friends at tea yesterday whom she hasn't seen since her return from Europe. Members of her French Club were also guests.

Regans Entertain Their Texas Friends

REPRESENTATIVE and Mrs. Ken Regan's "compotation" at their home in Chevy Chase, Md., was a real success yesterday. They will give another one this afternoon when guests will be mostly their Texas friends.

Mrs. Regan, who is tall and brown haired, wore a black and gold gown—the skirt of Chantilly lace over gold, the bodice of black satin. Guests who stayed upstairs found traditional cocktail food on the buffet. Downsairs, an Hawaiian orchestra played and there was Mexican food such as chili con queso.

Sketches of Hobbies Are Luncheon Favors

GUESTS at the luncheon yesterday for Mrs. Alben Barkley, wife of the Vice President, given by Mrs. Nathan Simkowitz in the Mayflower Lounge, received as favors miniature sketches of their hobbies.

Mrs. Barkley's hobby, as it turned out yesterday was the Senate Ladies Club. She was sketched in her Red Cross uniform of president of the Senate Ladies, with the spotlight shining on her and cameras turning. A bouquet being offered to her was tied with a streamer reading "Welcome to the Nation's Capital."

Eugene Black Entertains at Dinner

DIRK UGO STIKKER, Netherlands Foreign Minister, and Mme. Stikker, were honor guests at a dinner last evening given by Eugene Black, president of the International Bank, and Mrs. Black, at the 1925 F Street Club.

Other guests were Paul Hoffman, ECA administrator, and Mrs. Hoffman; the Peruvian Ambassador and Senora de Berckemeyer, the Finnish Minister and Mrs. Jutila, the Luxembourg Minister and Mme. Le Gallais, Mr. and Mrs. William McChesney Martin, Mr. and Mrs. David Lilienthal, Sir Ernest Rowe Dutton and Dr. H. Albarda.

Your Figure, Madame

A Hearty Breakfast, With Protein, Is Prime Rule for Effective Diet

By Ida Jean Kain

IT'S EASY to go on a diet . . . you've done it dozens of times. But you can only stay with a diet that puts starch in your will power. That's one of the advantages of reducing on this protective pattern of eating—it builds will power.

You know now that to reduce you must change your food habits, and you know what it takes—energy and action. Let me tip you off to the "joker" in faddy diets so you will never again be tempted to follow one—they reduce will power, by lessening your energy. The fact overlooked by reckless dieters is that when energy lowers, it's almost impossible not to backslide. You follow the line of least resistance and reach for candy, eat a fattening dessert and, before calling it a day, gravitate to the refrigerator.

Let's here and now put up bolstering guideposts that will keep you on the slimming path by toughening your will power as you lose the excess pounds. Eat breakfast . . . a good breakfast including protein. That is the first rule for successful reducing.

Calories Burned According to Need

NEVER overlook the scientific fact that calories are burned according to energy demands. Breakfast calories are needed and used for the morning's activity. Skipping breakfast—or having sweet rolls and coffee, eating lightly at lunch and overeating at dinner—leads to corpulance. Why? Most of the calories are packed into the evening meal when the activity of the day is over and they are needed least. That's the most fattening habit you could slip back into. It lowers your energy all day and leads to overweight.

Continue to have protein with every meal—eggs, cheese, milk, lean meat, fish or fowl. It's a scientific fact that you can lose weight faster on a low-calorie diet that is high protein than you can on the same number of calories but with less protein. With protein in each meal, you feel satisfied, have more energy and a stronger will.

Diet as Long as Excess Fat Remains

THE BALANCE of the reducing menus must be made up of the foods which furnish all the protective essentials in normal amounts, not in reduced amounts. You can be on the best diet in the world and grow younger!

How long can the diet be continued? As long as there is excess fat to be used for part of the energy needs. And all the while this protective way of eating will be changing your food habits from fattening to slimming. When normal weight is reached, it will be natural to continue building the menus around the keeping-young foods you like best.

Warning against regaining: Place a 2-pound limit on gains. When the scales are up 2 pounds, trim calories until those 2 pounds are gone. If you never gain more than 2 pounds, you can't gain 22!

The Gallup Poll

Women Claim Equal Courage With Men, Survey Discloses

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., March 3.—The concept of women as the "weaker sex" is all wrong — according to women questioned in a Nation-wide survey.

They claim that the female is more courageous than the male.

Do the men agree about this? Not exactly. The male still insists that HE is the courageous one.

As part of a series of surveys on manners, morals and attitudes toward the lighter problems of life, the Institute had a Nation-wide corps of interviewers put this question to a properly balanced cross-section of adult men and women.

"In general, speaking of men as compared to women, who do you think are more courageous?"

Men more courageous	35%
Women more courageous	33
No difference	22
No opinion	10
	100%

The war between the sexes continues right into the survey itself, with the men's vote disagreeing with the women's vote, as follows:

MORE COURAGEOUS

	Vote of Men	Vote of Women
Men	38%	32%
Women	28	38
No difference	23	21
No opinion	11	9
	100%	100%

There's one thing the two sexes agree about: The female of the species is the more talkative.

Men claim that's so by a big vote—and women admit it.

Here are the results:

"In general, speaking of men as compared to women, who do you think are more talkative?"

Men more talkative	10%
Women more talkative	70
No-difference	17
No opinion	3
	100%

One on the Aisle—

Heartening Choice By Amateur Group

By Richard L. Coe

ABOUT THE TOWN: This is UNESCO's International Theater Month and, whether by chance or design, the Mount Vernon Players are aptly presenting a drama by Italy's Luigi Pirandello in their make-do undercroft headquarters at 900 Massachusetts ave.

Now Pirandello is one of the few dramatists to have won a Nobel prize in literature (others: Maeterlinck, Shaw, O'Neill) but his works are largely unknown here. "Right You Are If You Think You Are" and "As You Desire Me" (which Garbo made into a swell picture) have had some playing here, but "Henry IV," which the Mount Vernonites are playing, has had very few American productions since it was known as "The Living Mask" during New York's 1922-23 season.

So it is much to the group's credit for having chosen an interesting and little-known play by one of the world's leading dramatists. With the constricting limitations of their auditorium, they are doing reasonably well by their challenge, especially in the fine playing of Orville French in the title role. This young man is doing an assured, forceful portrait and I wonder if there are any other amateur players in Washington who could do it as well.

The role is a young man who appears to be insane and startles his "courtiers" and old friends by imagining he is the German Henry IV who had to do penance at Canossa. He casts his friends in appropriate roles of Henry's friends and enemies and finally he reveals that he was not mad at all. As in most of Pirandello's plays, the point is that all views are correct. What is reality and what is illusion?

Such an abstruse question is not easy to follow with one' ears. Reading a Pirandello play is, I imagine, considerably easier than watching it and listening to it, a raw but honest confession a reviewer is forced to make.

French Performance Scores

How well Director Don Pimm, then, has directed the play and how effectively his players do it is, in my mind, open to question, for at certain points of the dialogue I had trouble following and in the last act I got lost in the author's lines.

But there is no question that Orville French is doing very well as Henry and his second act explanations are admirably stated. His voice and diction are good and he gives the impression of understanding the complex things he's saying.

There are several other completely adequate performances from Joan Coppock, Siegbert Bram and James Strother, and while it is unfortunate that the group's facilities are so hampering (wide, narraw stage, low ceiling), this is the sort of approach to theater by an amateur group that is heartening to find. Performances will continue nightly, except Sunday, through the 18th.

THE TOWN'S planned International Theater Month play comes next week, with the George Washington University Players' production of "Noah." . . . This drama of the flood by France's Andrew Obey seems an ideal choice; it plays at Lisner Auditorium Thursday through next Saturday.

THAT NEW PLAZA Theater on New York ave. off 14th should have some news soon . . . 'Twill seat 300-odd and Owner Sam Roth is due back from Florida next Friday.

KEITH'S is booming with "Cinderella" . . . Last Saturday broke a "Saturday record" day that's stood since '42 and today there will be 11 showings of the Disney hit, which should break another . . . Doors open this morning at 8:30.

DR. E. V. WILCOX, longtime president of the Shakespeare Society of Washington, guests today on Ed Moore's Theater Time, WGAY at 12:15 . . . Dr. Wilcox will talk on "The Popular Shakespeare."

THE APEX claims something new in neighborhood movies . . . The Hecht TV show will be televized from the Apex stage Monday through Saturday afternoons from 2 to 3 . . . It's an audience participation scheme, with "fun and prizes galore" . . . Monday's the first.

THE GEORGETOWN Theater, on Georgetown's Wisconsin ave., once the Dumbarton, has reopened to the huzzahs of nearby moviegoers . . . Yesterday's attraction was a good one, "On the Town," but what today's will be I couldn't discover from ADams 8100 . . . Try it yourself, they're shy.

THE HEATING problem won't halt tonight's preliminaries of the one-act play tournament at Roosevelt High auditorium . . . Seats downtown at Mrs. Stabler's in Brentano's, 1322 F st. . . . Tonight's entries: the Arts Club in "What Never Dies," by Percival Wilde; the Neighborhood Players in "Jinxed," by George Mosel; the Falls Church Community Theater in Sartre's "No Exit."

ALSO TONIGHT: Square Dancing at the Y, 1736 G st., moves to larger quarters, the first floor gym, moving the non-square dancers into the third floor assembly hall . . . "Ella—La Inolvidable," with Lina Montes and Luis Aldas, is the Spanish language picture at Pierce Hall, 8 o'clock . . . "The Awful Truth," with Cary Grant and Irene Dunne, is revived at the Apex . . . Jean Giraudoux' "Amphitryon 38" film is programmed at the St. John's College, Annapolis, film club . . . "P. S. The Butler Did It," the American U. musical, has its final performance in the Clendenin gym . . . The Air Force Band's "Iolanthe" closes its run at Lisner Auditorium.

HAPPY-HEARTED: Jane Powell and Ann Sothern, as a mother-daughter team, get kittenish on the keys in the Capitol's musical movie, "Nancy Goes to Rio"

Restaurants Ask Hearing On Milk Ban

The Washington Restaurant Association has asked the Commissioners for a hearing to oppose the proposed closing of the Washington market to "outside milk" June 30.

This was confirmed yesterday by Lofton S. Wesley of Wesley Hall, 21st and P sts. nw., who has been named head of a committee to study the "outside milk" question.

Shipment of milk from outside the Washington-area milkshed was banned here until a war shortage in 1942, when a regulation permitting it was issued. This special regulation is due to end June 30.

Some local companies reportedly have been getting milk from outside for as low as $3.50 per 100 pounds (46 quarts). The present price paid dairy farmers belonging to the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association, which supplies most of Washington's milk, is $6.44 per 100 pounds.

The restaurant people, in opposing the closing of the market to "outside milk," said they wanted to "keep the market open."

Trailer Tax Laws Ruled Illegal in Va.

Virginia's laws on trailer camp licenses and Fairfax County's trailer regulations were declared unconstitutional yesterday by Judge Elliott Marshall, of the seventeenth judicial circuit.

Marshall ruled that the State's statutes on trailer camp licenses actually applied only to Fairfax County, and were therefore "local, special or private" laws, in violation of Virginia's constitution.

He also found that the county's ordinance, a regulatory measure imposing a $50 tax on each trailer site, was passed in 1943 without heed to the costs involved in enforcing the law.

The county board of supervisors, he held, set up the $50 tax, for one reason, "to meet additional costs of operation of schools and the welfare department."

The jurist's decision stemmed from a case brought against the supervisors last summer by the American Trailer Co., Inc., operator of one of the largest trailer parks in the county. In challenging the laws, the company asserted they imposed dual taxation.

Correction

In a news story yesterday about arrest by police of George McDaniels of Quonset Point, R. I., with the aid of S. H. Manchester, a cab driver, The Washington Post inadvertently transposed names of the men. Manchester was not taken into custody or fined. McDaniels was. The Washington Post regrets the error.

7.6% of Drive Goal Collected By Red Cross

The Red Cross has collected 7.65 percent of the $1,039,000 it seeks to raise in the Greater Washington area, it was announced yesterday.

Progress of the campaign was charted at the first general report luncheon of drive workers held at the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, 1615 H st. nw.

General Chairman Daniel W. Bell reported that since the opening of the fund drive Wednesday there have been 10,195 gifts totaling $79,504.79 collected.

Veterans Administrator Carl R. Gray addressed the 250 campaign workers who attended the luncheon. He praised the unselfish work of the Red Cross and described his experiences with Red Cross personnel in two world wars.

52 Last Signers 'Hardest to Get' For Rule Petition

The 52 signatures still needed to bring the Kefauver bill before the House of Representatives will be the hardest ones to obtain, Representative Walter K. Granger (D., Utah), said last night.

The House District Committee member and home-rule advocate said that if Washington doesn't get home rule from this session of Congress "it may be a long time" before the city gets another chance at it.

Granger spoke at the chartering of the Home Rule Chapter of the American Veterans Committee at the AVC Clubhouse. He said the Kefauver bill petition has 166 of the needed 218.

Headed by Ed Kelly, the chapter has 20 charter members.

Johnston to Discuss Teachers' Leave Act

Proposed amendments to the District Teachers' Leave Act of 1949 will be discussed by Sen. Olin D. Johnston D., S. C.), at a luncheon of the Teachers Union (AFL), at 12:15 p. m., today at the Burlington Hotel.

Teachers have protested a number of provisions of the act including denial of right of leave for religious holidays, and right to hire substitutes at part pay in cases of unauthorized emergency leave or extended illness. Senator Johnston has introduced a bill to amend the 1949 act. C. Melvin Sharpe, president of the Board of Education, also will speak.

Symphony at G. U.

First appearance of the National Symphony Orchestra on the Georgetown Univesity campus will take place at 4:30 p. m., Sunday.

MISCELLANY

The wording of our Sewing Contest entry blank comes in for a bit of kidding from Mildred Alter of 617 Mellon st. se. Contestants are asked to certify that their entries are "the sole work of the undersigned," and Mildred guesses that disqualifies her, because she's done other work in her time . . . You see, learned Contest Judges, she's only joking; but she doesn't joke only . . . Ben A. Levinson of 6601 14th st. nw. weighs in with a strong beef about the poor coverage of track meets by newspapers, radio and television. Seems to me a track meet would make a very good TV program . . . Ruth Cochran of 3022 26th st. ne., confines her complaint to radio; she protests discontinuation of WOOK's Kiddie Korner, "one of the few really good children's programs heard locally." She reminds me of the children's program I used to write a couple of years ago. A survey revealed that it held the mothers spellbound, but the kids couldn't stand it . . . Mrs. Mary N. Lazarus of 1929 33rd st. se. tells me she isn't as much worried about Stalin's stallin' on the question of the A-bomb as she is about what will happen when Stalin quits stallin' . . . While she's worrying, she might as well also furrow a brow over what'll happen when Stalin quits, period.

James H. Bonk of 3810 Southern ave. se. has a postscript to my recent item about Aunt Clara and her $5 claim against the Post Office Department.

Several months ago, Jim mailed two watches and covered them with insurance "up to $200." The package was lost, Jim put in a claim for $125—but to date he has never received payment.

I took Jim's complaint to John A. King and Everett C. Johnson, director and assistant director respectively of the Division of Registered, Insured and COD Mails. They had a ready explanation.

When a postal insurance claim seems reasonable to the local postmaster, he can usually settle it in a few weeks. But if the local postmaster thinks the claimant is asking for too much, he forwards the papers to Washington. Then the fun begins.

You see, a claimant doesn't get paid $200 just because he insured his package for "up to $200." He gets paid only for what he actually lost, up to the amount of insurance he bought.

Postal inspectors must therefore determine the "market value" of the lost item, and that's not always easy to do.

In the case of Jim's watches, they have asked a local jeweler about the "new" price of such items, and also for an estimate of the market price as "used" merchandise.

It's not an accurate yardstick, but it's the best that's available under the circumstances, to make sure that justice is done both to the claimant and to the taxpayer who foots the bills.

If the lost article is (just to make it a little harder) a set of false teeth, on which there is no standard market value, the claimant can ask for the full amount he paid his dentist. All he needs is a receipted bill to prove his point.

As far as the local office is concerned, nobody had ever set a market price on such item, and it looked like a decision for Solomon.

But they finally hit on a solution. They found that the cost of cremation had been $30—and that the claimant was perfectly willing to settle for that amount.

A friend of mine in the Government was telling me about a new building that's going up. Floor by floor, he explained which offices would be housed where. But he said nothing about the top floor.

"What goes up there?" I asked. There was a mischievous twinkle in his eye as he replied:

The 'Washington Merely-Go-Wrong'

Need for Peace Guidance Cited

(Editor's Note—Drew Pearson's column today is another in a series of letters he has written to Washington leaders on the American people's desire for leadership toward peace. Today's letter is to President Truman.)

By Drew Pearson

Honorable Harry S. Truman,
President of the United States,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. President:

Pearson

While you and I may not agree on some things, we do, I think, agree heartily on the Nation's desire and need for peace. And I personally have a very high regard for your sincerity and devotion to that cause.

In that connection, I believe you will be interested in a letter which I received from a stevedore in Philadelphia shortly after I visited that city in connection with the departure of the first ship carrying the American Legion's "Tide of Toys" to Europe. The letter, signed by Francis A. Mock of 8525 Front st., Philadelphia, follows:

"Today I worked on a ship loading toys for tots, or "tide of toys," as the program is called. After loading 12,000 cases of CARE, we proceeded to load the toys. I want to take my hat off to the American Legion for sponsoring this program. There is a lot of thought behind it, and you could almost feel it as I did today.

"During my lunch hour, I strolled around the various piles and looked at the names of the towns and cities of the United States that were represented there. Big towns and little towns all alike. You know it made me feel good to look at those various piles of toys. A pile would measure 40 feet by 30 feet by 10 to 12 feet high. Some were marked England, some Italy, some Germany, others Czechoslovakia, Belgium, France. It was a great feeling to know that the people who sent these toys were Americans, possibly your next-door neighbor.

Get Together

"You know stevedores and longshoremen are a cynical group and it takes a lot to make them proud of anything. Longshoremen are noted for their pilfering ability. But you can rest assured that cargo wasn't even considered for that purpose. Take my word for that. Every case handled was treated as though it was their own personal property, and we were proud of the privilege of handling them.

"You know when the American Legion and other veteran organizations were organized the cry went up that the vets were organized so they could ride a perpetual gravy train, paid for by the Government and playing upon the sympathy of the public for their part in the first and second world wars; or perhaps they were out for some personal glory, or for sponsoring a bonus, or other reasons.

"However, this effort belies these rumors. It looks like a step forward. I only hope that some people in Government have the same trend of thought and have as much farsightedness as the originator of this idea for amity among Nations.

"I could go on for ages about career men in key Government positions who know little about what is going on in the world today. In closing I want you to know that all the effort you are putting on this behalf isn't going to be forgotten. And perhaps the future holds the solution, and let's hope that we can get our Nations and the various others to get together and have lasting peace.

"Sincerely Yours, Francis A. Mock."

Great Job

I thought you would be interested in reading this letter, Mr. President, because it so eloquently expresses how thousands of Americans feel regarding our individual efforts for peace. They are willing to do anything in their power to improve good will if it will prevent another war.

I could cite many other examples. The healthy thing about these various moves, I am sure you will agree, is that they are not Government inspired, but are spontaneous gestures by individual Americans, who not only believe in peace, but are willing to go out and work at it.

There was a time when Americans sat back and said "let the diplomats do it." Now they're not content with that. They want to work at peace themselves.

The reason I am writing all this to you, Mr. President, is that you have a great untapped reservoir of strength among the American people, anxious to help you in any step that will bring about peace. And I am not sure you realize it.

I know how deeply you feel on this subject because you have expressed your views with conviction to various callers; and they have told me how impressed they were with your sincerity. But you may not realize that thousands of others not only share your concern, but are willing to do something about it.

It may be that they can be one means of penetrating the Iron Curtain, of making friends with the Russian people, and thus insuring permanent peace. I do not know. But I do know that this great reservoir of good will among the American people needs more information, more guidance, more leadership.

They are looking to you.

Respectfully
and Sincerely Yours,
DREW PEARSON.

Only 3 of 135,000 DPs Found Questionable, Senators Told

A high official of the Displaced Persons Commission testified yesterday that the Army Counter-Intelligence Corps has made a security check of every one of the 135,000 European DPs admitted to this country.

Alexander E. Squadrilli, DPC European Coordinator, told a Senate Judiciary subcommittee only three possible subversives have slipped through the screening process. Action is being taken to deport them, he said.

Squadrilli filed a statement with the subcommittee denying charges by its chairman, Pat McCarran (D., Nev.), and others that Communist agents and other "undesirables" are slipping into America because of "lax administration" of the DP program.

The Senate, meanwhile, continued its off-again, on-again debate on two sharply conflicting proposals for amending the DP laws. One bill, backed by McCarran's subcommittee, provides for tight new restrictions on admissions to "protect the Nation's security." The other measure, indorsed by the Administration and backed by bipartisan support, would "liberalize" the law so that more refugees could enter America.

He said "criminals" have entered the country through "fraudulent" DP documents. He called administration of the program "a scandal."

Squadrilli told the subcommittee 132 cases of fraudulent documents have been uncovered and in each case deportation action is being taken. He denied assertions that the commission permits "big black market operators" to enter America, but said DPs are not banned on the basis of "minor" black market trading if they can show they were driven to it by "actual need and stress."
